Told Bureau 'We Know' Schwimmer.

Matthew J. Connelly called the chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau on behalf of an attorney for an income tax evader at a time when Connelly was appointments secretary to President Truman, evidence introduced in federal court disclosed today.

A transcription of telephone calls made to Charles Oliphant, then chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, showed the following notation for Aug. 10, 1948: "In Matt Connelly (White House) re Harry Schwimmer, 12-12. I understand Harry Schwimmer of St. Louis has a conference this afternoon. He asked me to call you and let you know we know him."

Mrs. Phoebe Charles, Oliphant's secretary who listened in on the conversation, testified that "in" meant incoming call and "12-12" indicated the call was made 12 minutes after noon. She said the recorded conversation was that of Connelly.

Oliphant was shown as replying "O.K." to Connelly's statement that "he asked me to call you and let you know we know him."

Three on Trial.

The evidence of the call from the White House was given in the trial of Connelly, Schwimmer and T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, before a jury in United States District Judge Rube M. Hulen's court.

Schwimmer was attorney for Irving Sachs of St. Louis, head of Shu-Stiles, Inc., a shoe brokerage firm, who was seeking to avoid prosecution for income tax evasion. Schwimmer, Connelly and Caudle are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government in the handling of the Sachs case.

Eight days before Connelly called Oliphant, Schwimmer had telephoned and made an appointment to see the Internal Revenue Bureau's chief counsel at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 10, 1948, Mrs. Charles testified.

She said she and another secretary, Mrs. Mary S. Maxfield, had made records of telephone calls to Oliphant's office, including transcripts of the conversations.

Caller Did Not Know.

Mrs. Maxfield, another Government witness, was asked on cross-examination by John Lashly, Connelly's attorney: "Did you let the party calling know you were transcribing the conversation?"

"No," Mrs. Maxfield replied. "Did you hear anyone advise the caller that a transcription was being made?" Lashly persisted.

"No, not that I recall," the witness said.

Unless the conversations were of a personal nature, Mrs. Charles and Mrs. Maxfield made shorthand notes of every word that was said, not just a summary of the statements, the jury was told.

Morris A. Shenker, a defense attorney, attempted without success to have the telephone records ruled out as evidence on the ground that violated communications regulations.

Another Conversation.

Mrs. Charles also identified a transcript she made of another telephone conversation between Schwimmer and Oliphant on Sept. 9, 1949, in which Schwimmer stated:

"Matthew Connelly said it would be a good idea to see if

EISENHOWER PUTS OFF INVITATION TO GO TO CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower today put off a formal invitation from Mayor George Christopher to attend the Republican national convention opening Aug. 20 in San Francisco. He smilingly deferred a decision.

Christopher quoted the President as saying he thought he had better wait until one convention picks a presidential nominee before saying whether he will attend. Christopher said he told the President the convention will amount to "a confirmation exercise."

"I think he will try to come out," the Mayor said.

'DO-IT-YOURSELF' CAMPAIGN 'OFFICE' SET UP OUTDOORS

RALEIGH, N. C., May 14 (AP)—Kidd Brewer, Raleigh business man running for Lieutenant Governor, opens his do-it-yourself campaign "headquarters" today on the steps of the State Board of Education building, across from the state capitol here.

In a statement yesterday, Brewer said, "everyone will be welcome to our open air headquarters... since this is to be a 'do it yourself campaign' we will have to depend on the people of the state to do most of the work themselves in their own communities in order that when elected I will not be under obligation to any one person, group, or selfish interest."

No contribution for more than $10 from any one person or source will be accepted.

Brewer quipped, "We expect to be ready for open house at 4 p.m. May 14. Fresh air and sunshine will be served daily except when it rains."

STOCK PRICES DROP SHARPLY
AT NEWS OF RED ARMY CUT

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Prices on the stock market dropped sharply today following news that Russia was cutting its armed services by 1,200,000 men.

The market was already in a dull mood and prices were declining when the news came—then selling speeded up and prices of leading stocks dropped from $1 to $5 a share.

Bethlehem Steel fell $3.30 a share at $151.50. Gulf Oil $5 a share at $118. Boeing $2 at $85.62. Reynolds Metals $3.37 at $74.74 and Southern Railway $5.25 at $120.25.

MAINE FARMER KILLS BEAR WITH ITS TEETH IN HIS LEG

EASTBROOK, Me., May 14 (AP)—A bear's teeth in his leg, Arthur French loaded his rifle and killed the animal yesterday. Then he pried the bear's jaws apart and hobbled home.

Chief game warden Elmer Ingraham related today French, a turkey farmer, caught the bear in a trap and fired his single shot rifle at the animal. The bear charged and sank his teeth into French's leg just below the knee.

Ingraham said French would not walk comfortably for a while.

NEW CIGARETTE TAX UPHeld BY SUPREME COURT

Tribunal Rejects Plea Law Is Illegal Because House Speaker Did Not Sign It.

By BOYD F. CARROLL Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 14 (AP)—The Missouri Supreme Court today unanimously upheld constitutionality of the new state cigarette tax, which became effective Jan. 1 after its approval in a referendum.

The court threw out a contention that the tax was invalid because Speaker Roy Hamlin of the House refused to sign it and the measure approved by the House actually was a copy of the original bill.

The opinion, written by Judge Clem F. Storkman of St. Louis, said that "if the failure of the Speaker of the House to sign invalidates this otherwise duly enacted law, then such presidential veto would be more powerful than the Governor, whose right to veto does not extend to measures referred to the people."

"The General Assembly may pass a bill, and the Governor may veto it," Judge Storkman wrote, "but if the appellant's contention is correct, the House would be helpless if its own presiding officer, by failing to sign, in effect, vetoed a bill finally passed."

The 2-cent tax, which is now producing an estimated $9,000,000 annually, was approved in a referendum Oct. 4, 1955, as a means of helping finance the so-called school foundation program adopted at the same time. The funds provide more liberal state aid to public school districts.

The court acted in a suit brought in Cole county by wife Robert L. Brown and his wife, owners of a tobacco distributing company. Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair upheld the constitutionality of the law last December and Mrs. Brown appealed the decision.

Brown, parliamentarian of the Board of Aldermen, was shot to death in gangland style near his St. Louis home last Jan. 24. The cigarette tax bill disappeared from the office of Representative Joseph Tanner of Kansas City after it had been passed by the Senate and referred to a committee headed by Tanner. Tanner had left the state and did not return until just before the Legislature adjourned.

The House did not wait for Tanner to produce the original bill, but voted instead on a certified copy. It was this copy which Speaker Hamlin refused to sign.

TERRORISTS RAID TUNIS, SHOOT UP STORES; 3 KILLED AND 14 INJURED

Attackers Fire Machine

From Auto — 25 Algerians Die in Weekend Violence.

TUNIS, May 14 (AP)—Terrorists sprayed machine-gun fire on streets of Tunis today and threw a grenade into a cafe, killing three persons and wounding 14.

The unidentified assailants roared down a street in the heart of this capital city in a speeding automobile and fired a machine gun into a Tunisian-owned shop. Two persons, including the shopowner, were killed and two bystanders wounded.

A few minutes later a car sped past an office of the government Neo-Destour party with machine guns firing. Two persons were wounded. The Neo-Destour party recently negotiated an independence agreement with France.

Eleven persons were wounded by a grenade tossed through the first floor window of the cafe into a mass of Arabs and Europeans. One of the Europeans—an unidentified Italian—died in a hospital.

In revolt-torn Algeria, officials counted 25 dead and 45 wounded in nationalist attacks over the weekend in Constantine, a big city in the interior of the North African territory. The rebels concentrated their hit-and-run attacks on the Jewish quarter of the city last night, leaving six dead and four wounded.

The Constantine area has been a rebel hotbed since the Algerian insurrection began more than 18 months ago. Previously rebels have struck generally at all the non-Arab population or at Arabs friendly to the French.

French reports said yesterday's fighting broke out when a street preparing to toss a grenade into a Jewish ice cream shop. Shooting began immediately along the street.

French forces moved into the area and drove the rebels to the hills.

George WILLING
JOB UNOFFICIALLY

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Senator George (Dem.) of Georgia indicated willingness today to act in an unofficial capacity as President Eisenhower's personal representative in North Atlantic Treaty Organization matters even before his Senate term ends.

George, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, announced last week he would not run again.

Simultaneously, Mr. Eisenhower offered to name the Georgia Senator as his personal ambassador in negotiations to broaden the political activities of NATO.

Although he has said he will serve out his present term, George said he would be willing to meet with the "three wise men" of NATO if they come to this country for consultations about expansion plans.

Mr. Eisenhower invited George to the White House today to discuss the Senator's future role. George says he wants to "find out what the president has in mind" before he says finally whether he will accept the ambassadorship offer.

JURY TAMPERER SENT 4 CLIENTS TO CHOTINER; ALL WERE U.S. CASES

quiry, Not Satisfied
That 'Influence'

The New York Times News Service, 120 South Street, New York 1, N.Y.

WASHINGTON, May 14—Senate investigators have reopened their study of Murray M. Chotiner's legal work for four clients referred to him by a convicted jury tamperer.

At issue in the continuing inquiry is the California attorney's relationship with William A. Parzow, of Miami Beach, Fla., who was convicted in 1941 of jury tampering.

Chotiner, Vice President Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager in 1952, has testified that Parzow was merely a client, though he never paid a fee or required legal services.

In the course of their client-lawyer relationship, Chotiner said, Parzow was responsible for getting him four East Coast clients involved in cases with the Government.

Since Chotiner testified, however, the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee has obtained new information bearing on his relationship with Parzow.

There is sentiment in the subcommittee for exploring the relationship in public hearings if the study now in progress can crack the riddle of Parzow.

Nor are the investigators entirely satisfied yet that "influence" did not figure in the East Coast clients' decisions to retain Chotiner's services.

Denied Using Position.

He insisted before the subcommittee that he had never tried to use his position as Nixon's associate to bring "influence" on the government in behalf of any of his clients.

The record is still vague, however, on whether the East Coast clients gave him their legal business because they had been advised that he was "influential" with the Administration.

One witness, an accountant for one of the eastern clients, testified that he was the reason Chotiner was hired in at least one case.

Each of the four clients had other attorneys handling his affairs at the time Chotiner was hired. In each case, Chotiner, whose office is in Los Angeles, confined his services almost entirely to conferring with his clients in the East and visiting various people at the Department of Justice in their behalf.

So far the question of why Parzow recommended Chotiner to the easterners has been a mystery to the subcommittee. In public session, Parzow refused to answer most questions put to him, claiming the protection of the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.

CUT IN FOREIGN MILITARY AID WOULD MEAN 'SERIOUS RISK' TO U.S., WILSON SAYS

RUSSIA SAYS IT IS CUTTING
FORCES BY 1,200,000 MEN

Soviet Statement Also Asserts 375 Ships
Will Go Into Mothballs, All Within a Year.

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today it is slashing its armed forces by 1,200,000 men within a year.

A Government statement read to reporters at a news conference in the Foreign Ministry said 63 army divisions plus three air divisions, including more than 30,000 men now stationed in East Germany, would be disbanded.

It also declared the Soviet Union would put 375 ships of its navy into mothballs and disband a number of military training schools.

The announcement said the Soviet Union also would reduce its military budget but did not say by how much.

It said the new 1,200,000 men did not include 640,000 mobilized last year. The Soviet Government said all these reductions would be in effect by May 1, 1957.

Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev tipped off these cuts in the Soviet armed forces last week when he told a group of visiting French Socialists the announcement was forthcoming.

The Foreign Ministry press chief, Leonid Lychev, told reporters the Soviet Union was trying to make a new contribution to disarmament and striving for peaceful development.

The statement said the Soviet Union would not have been able to do this except that it believed in the will for peace of British, French and other European people.

By the United Press.

The statement challenged the Western powers to follow the Soviet example.

"Other governments, including the United States, England and France, inasmuch as they sincerely desire to co-operate in the strengthening of peace, cannot but follow this example," it said.

"The Soviet Government will be ready to examine the question of further reductions of the armed forces of the U.S.S.R. if the Western powers—United States, England and France—carry out corresponding reductions in their armed forces and arms."

"Carrying out such measures would be an important step on the path to achieving a general program of disarmament, would create real possibilities for

WOULD REQUIRE BIGGER AMERICAN ARMED FORCE, HE TELLS SENATORS

Radford Testify This Country Has Air
Superiority Over Russia 'as of Today.'

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson told Congress today that any cut in the Administration's program of foreign military assistance would run a "serious risk" to the defense of this country "and the free world."

Furthermore, he said, it would require this country to undertake "a complete re-evaluation of our own international position and of our own military budgets."

Wilson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in support of the Administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

"Today," Wilson said, "we are helping to support about 200 divisions in the armies of our allies."

This Allied force, he said, "is several times the strength of our own army."

Reduced aid for these armies, he said, would require a "much greater increase" in American manpower and equipment at a much greater cost than that entailed under the foreign aid program.

Warning by Radford.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, cautioned against allowing "ourselves or our friends" to "fall into the trap that is being stalked out for us" by Russia.

For the present, he said, the Communists seem to be relying on programs of economic, military and technical assistance because the tactics of violent revolution and overt aggression became "too hazardous" in the face of American-supported defense alliances.

"We would be playing into the Communist hand if we failed to show clearly that we understand how important it is that the free world remain strong and invulnerable to the Communist exploitation of force," Radford said.

The Russians are "making a great deal of noise about peace," Radford said, but also "striving to the best of their ability to build up their military capabilities to the highest possible levels."

There is no question, Radford said, that "more modern and efficient weapons and equipment" are flowing into the Red arsenal at a steady and not increased rate.

"The immediate introduction into the Soviet armed forces of nuclear weapons, a wide range of guided missiles, efficient bombers and fighters, and new tanks and transports is the plainest proof that the Communist dictators have not and do not intend to abandon the use of force whenever they feel it will serve their ends."

Urges 3-Billion Program.

Wilson and Radford argued authorization of about three billion dollars for military assistance abroad.

Included in this is about $300,000,000 for "advanced weapons" for members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other free countries.

Wilson said the Defense Department plans to supply these allies with "high performance aircraft and missiles, particularly early warning and communications equipment" developed since World War II and with which "we are now modernizing our own forces."

Since much of the equipment is "of very advanced design," Wilson testified, it is vitally important to get an early start in furnishing initial quantities to selected areas so that American allies "can develop the especially trained personnel required to permit its effective use."

Under questioning by Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep., New Jersey), Radford testified that defenses of the NATO nations were weakened by withdrawal of those French troops sent to North Africa, but he said that if emergency arose they "could be redeployed rather rapidly."

Charges True Violation.

Radford said the Communists in North Korea "have been steadily modernizing their forces, in flagrant disregard to the Korean armistice."

"We must continue to support adequate South Korean forces, cost though they may be, to keep faith with their men and ours who gave their lives in the cause of the free world," he said.

U. OF ALABAMA FAILS TO UPSET COURT ORDER ON AUTHERINE LUCY

Appeal to Reverse Rulings in Case of Negro Student Is Rejected by High Court Without a Written Opinion.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—The Supreme Court today left standing a lower court order which required the University of Alabama to admit Miss Autherine J. Lucy, Negro student.

But the court's action apparently will have no immediate practical effect in the affairs which set off riots at the university and attracted national attention. The university first admitted her in compliance with the lower court order. Then it expelled her on the ground that she made baseless charges against its officials. The court action had nothing to do with the expulsion.

The university had appealed to the Supreme Court in an effort to get it to reverse lower court decisions that Miss Lucy must be admitted to the school at Tuscaloosa, Ala. The Supreme Court rejected the appeal today in a brief order, without a written opinion.

The university claimed that United States District Judge H. H. Grooms should have empaneled a special three-judge court to decide the original Lucy case instead of deciding it himself. The fifth United States circuit court of appeals affirmed Grooms' ruling.

Decision Stands. Today's brief order leaves standing the fifth circuit decision. Miss Lucy, a resident of Jefferson county, Ala., and a graduate of Miles College, Birmingham, sought admission to the university's college of education.

After her first court victory there were riots on the campus which attracted world-wide attention. University authorities suspended her. Then she was ordered admitted again. Her expulsion followed as a result of statements about school officials in her second complaint. The complaint in effect accused school officials of complicity in the riots.

Later Miss Lucy married the Rev. Hugh Foster, pastor of two East Texas Baptist churches. She has said she will continue her efforts to enter the university.

Other Actions. In other actions today, the court:

1. Refused to reconsider its April 2 decision that the Federal Government has assumed exclusive jurisdiction over punishment of sedition. The ruling, which freed Pittsburgh Communist leader Steve Nelson from charges of violating a Pennsylvania sedition law, has been construed as invalidating anti-subversive laws on the books of 43 states. Pennsylvania, in seeking reconsideration, argued that the court did not intend to go that far. But the court, in a brief order with no written opinion, stood pat on the decision.

2. Rebuffed the Government's efforts to strip Italian-born racketeer Albert Anastasia of his naturalized United States citizenship. Anastasia had already won in a lower court which threw out the Government's case. The Supreme Court refused in a brief order to review this decision.

3. Denied a hearing to a group of Maryland farmers who tried to stop Department of Agriculture agents from measuring their wheat acreage under the Government's planting controls program. The farmers said they were not getting price supports and claimed that measuring their wheat fields was a violation of the constitutional guarantee against illegal search and seizure.

4. Refused to entertain an appeal from Union Oil Co. of California, which claimed that California's "smog control" law is unconstitutional. The court said no Federal issue is involved in the state's crackdown on air pollution.

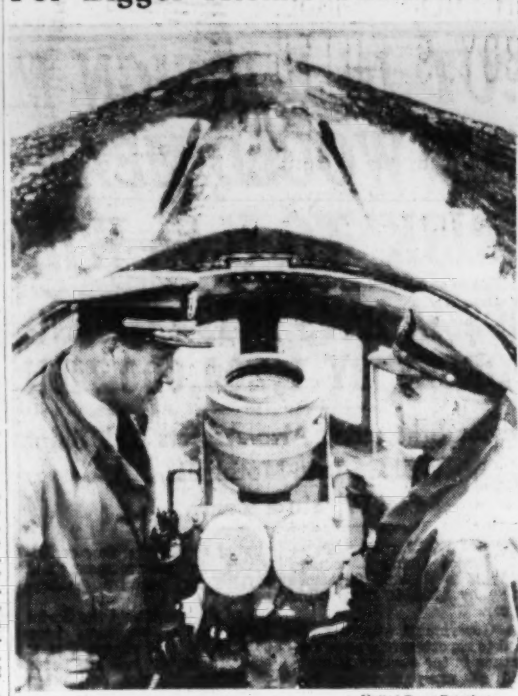

5. Granted a Government request to speed up the issuance of the formal court order for further proceedings in the Communist party's challenge to the 1950 Communist control law. The court on April 30 ordered the Subversive Activities Control Board to reopen the case. The Government asked it to speed up the routine, under which it normally takes 25 days for such rulings to become effective, so the board could get to work at once.

COMMITTEE APPROVES DEATH IN SOME NARCOTIC OFFENSES

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved a bill which would authorize the federal courts to impose the death penalty for some violators of the narcotics laws. The measure would allow the death penalty for sale of heroin to a minor, or for a third conviction involving sale to adults. The bill also would provide longer prison sentences, up to life imprisonment in some cases.

The bill also would forbid the possession or sale of heroin, even for medicinal purposes. $8,000,000 Soviet Loan. By C. YATES McDANIEL
NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—The success of the Nautilus has set the United States Navy to thinking about even larger, more powerful nuclear submarines.

In the same weekend the Nautilus, the first atomic-powered submarine, was being put through its paces for the first time since its return from its first mission in the Atlantic.

On the cruise, there was a discussion on the role of the atomic submarine in warfare. The administration also has requested separate legislation to increase by $2,000,000,000 the funds CCC can borrow from the Treasury to finance the farm program.

Congress expected to grant this request. The CCC borrowing limit is now fixed at $12,000,000,000.

ACTOR MONTGOMERY CLIFT SEVERELY CUT IN CAR CRASH
WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 14 (AP)—Actor Montgomery Clift will not be permanently scarred by severe facial cuts received in a weekend accident, his physician said today.

Clift, 35 years old, also received a broken nose, bruises and a possible concussion when the rented car he was driving struck a power pole, hurling him against the dashboard, as he was negotiating a steep downgrade in Benedict canyon. He had just left a party at the hillside home of Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, Michael Wilding, when the accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. yesterday.

HOUSE APPROVES $1,983,000,000 FARM MEASURE

Fund Is $3,800,000 Below Eisenhower Estimate — Loan Outlay Included.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—The House approved today a bill carrying a record $1,983,000,000 to finance Agriculture Department operations in the new year starting July 1.

There was no controversy in the two-hour debate. Some 40 members were present when the measure was approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate.

For the first time since President Eisenhower entered the White House, the House failed to vote a bigger farm appropriation than he requested. The fund provided was $3,800,000 below his budget estimate.

But the bill does authorize $528,300,000 in loans, an increase of $168,000,000 in the Administration's request. The measure did not provide funds for the proposed $1,200,000,000 soil bank and other special farm aid programs included in legislation already approved by the House and now pending before the Senate.

The cash appropriation was $1,100,000,000 more than Congress appropriated last year. The increase was due largely to $1,200,000,000 to make up for past losses suffered by Commodity Credit Corporation on farm price support and surplus disposal operations.

The measure represents the first installment on the funds Congress is being asked to put up this year to meet the growing needs of the farm program.

The Administration also has requested separate legislation to increase by $2,000,000,000 the funds CCC can borrow from the Treasury to finance the farm program.

Congress expected to grant this request. The CCC borrowing limit is now fixed at $12,000,000,000.

DEMOCRATS IN 6 MISSOURI COUNTIES BACK SYMINGTON
Special to the Post-Dispatch
JEFFERSON CITY, May 14—United States Senator Stuart Symington of St. Louis was indorsed by six Missouri counties for the party's presidential nomination at weekend Democratic conventions.

Resolutions indorsing Symington were adopted at the Greene, Jackson, Jasper, Buchanan, St. Francois and St. Louis county conventions. Symington has not announced a candidate for the nomination.

The Greene county Democrats, meeting at Springfield, and the St. Francois county meeting at Farmington, also indorsed the candidacy of United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis for reelection.

'I Am An American Day'
JEFFERSON CITY, May 14 (AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today proclaimed Sunday, May 20, "I Am An American Day" and urged wide recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship that day. The week of May 20-27 was designated Salvation Army week.

ACTOR MONTGOMERY CLIFT SEVERELY CUT IN CAR CRASH
WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 14 (AP)—Actor Montgomery Clift will not be permanently scarred by severe facial cuts received in a weekend accident, his physician said today.

Clift, 35 years old, also received a broken nose, bruises and a possible concussion when the rented car he was driving struck a power pole, hurling him against the dashboard, as he was negotiating a steep downgrade in Benedict canyon. He had just left a party at the hillside home of Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, Michael Wilding, when the accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. yesterday.

COMMITTEE APPROVES DEATH IN SOME NARCOTIC OFFENSES

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved a bill which would authorize the federal courts to impose the death penalty for some violators of the narcotics laws. The measure would allow the death penalty for sale of heroin to a minor, or for a third conviction involving sale to adults. The bill also would provide longer prison sentences, up to life imprisonment in some cases.

The bill also would forbid the possession or sale of heroin, even for medicinal purposes. $8,000,000 Soviet Loan. LONDON, May 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union today announced a $2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000) domestic 20-year loan for financing economic development. The Moscow radio said the loan will be composed of bonds not subject to state and local taxes. It gave no details.

CONFIDENCE VOTE WON BY EDEN ON CYPRUS POLICY

Commons Divides 314 to 236 After Tough Program Is Defended by Colonial Secretary.

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government won a vote of approval, 314 to 236, in Commons tonight on its tough Cyprus policy.

The vote came after Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd denounced pro-Greek agitation on the island as "bestiality" and "murderous blackmail," and announced that government policy still stands.

He said Britain would hold onto the island. The strategic importance of Cyprus to the British commonwealth and to the free world is as important now as it was two months ago, he said.

Labor party members had opened debate with a demand that the Government bring Archbishop Makarios, spiritual leader and spokesman for the Greek Cypriots, out of exile and negotiate a settlement with him on London on the Cyprus issue.

Greek Cypriot Shot and Killed
NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 14 (AP)—A British army search party shot and killed a Greek Cypriot trying to evade a security search today.

The shooting occurred in the village of Polis. The army said the Cypriot, Kyriakos Soteriou, ran from a cordon thrown around a section of the village and was shot after failing to heed three orders to halt.

Soteriou died on the way to a hospital. In Nicosia, meanwhile, a four-day strike protesting against the hanging last week of two young Greek Cypriots ended, and the capital of the British island colony returned virtually to normal.

Newspapers were published and Greek-owned stores, businesses and places of amusement reopened. Most had been closed since Thursday in mourning for Michael Karaolis and Andreas Demetriou, first men executed by the British in the struggle over the future of Cyprus.

Governor Defies Threat. Sir John Harding, British military governor of Cyprus, appeared for Church of England services in Nicosia yesterday in defiance of a rebel call on all "patriotic" Greek Cypriots to kill him. The call was issued by EOKA, the underground organization, in reprisal for the execution of Karaolis and Demetriou.

Memorial services were read yesterday in all of the island's Greek Orthodox churches for the two Cypriots who were hanged last week on conviction for murder and attempted murder.

After the executions, EOKA distributed leaflets claiming two missing British soldiers had been hanged in reprisal. They

U.S. Commies Finally Get Around To Feeling Shocked About Stalin

Party, With Dragging Feet, Joins 'Downgrading' Parade and Leaves Way Open for Any Future Shifts.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 14—The Communist party of the United States did what may be the slowest double-take in history yesterday when it informed the world that the recently-discovered fallibility of Joseph Stalin "came as a great shock to us."

The shock was officially felt at a four-day national committee meeting which ended May 1. It was noted by Max Weiss, party educational director, in a report on the twentieth congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, where it was first revealed that Stalin had feet of clay.

The Daily Worker in a two-column report on the meeting, barely shuttered. It listed Weiss under "additional reports were submitted by . . ."

Then Came the Dawn. But yesterday presumably full realization burst upon the party of what Weiss had said in his report on what he modestly termed "one of the most significant international events of the past period." A party statement quoted him at length, as saying among other things:

"The disclosure that mistakes of such magnitude had been made came as a deep shock to us. This was, in itself, a reflection of how profoundly we had been affected by the cult of Stalin's infallibility. It has led us to a position where we gave no evidence to substantiate the claim. Only one restriction remained on Nicosia—a bar on the use of private motor vehicles or bicycles. The bar, instituted a week ago, cut communications of EOKA which seeks union of this British crown colony with Greece.

LOUISIANA VOTER AID FIRED, TARGET OF SEGREGATIONISTS

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14 (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon said today the woman registrar of voters of Webster parish, under fire from pro-segregation groups, had been fired.

Mrs. Winnie Clement of Minden had resigned, effective tomorrow, the same day Gov. Elect Earl K. Long takes office. But Kennon and Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, two of the three members of the State Board of Registration, signed an order dismissing her today.

The white Citizens Councils complained last January that Mrs. Clement had failed to enforce voter qualification restrictions, originally designed to curb Negro voting. After criticism, Mrs. Clement applied the law uniformly to both races and disqualified 24 white persons.

2 AUTO MAKERS EXTEND LAYOFFS
FOR 11,000 MEN

6500 Affected at Chrysler, 4500 at American Motors; G.M. Recalls 400,000.

DETROIT, May 14 (UP)—Two automobile makers, American Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., announced today they were extending layoffs of workers, after a General Motors Corp. after a one-day layoff of 400,000 hourly-rated workers recalled them, as scheduled.

American Motors said 4550 workers in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., who were scheduled to return to work today will not be called back. Chrysler extended a two-day layoff of 6500 workers for one more day, through tomorrow.

An A.M.C. spokesman said his company's callback was postponed because demand for its large cars—Nash and Hudson—did not increase as expected. The idle workers include 450 in Milwaukee and 3100 in Kenosha who were laid off March 22 and 23 and another 1000 laid off in Milwaukee on April 20.

Production of the company's smaller Rambler has continued and 6000 workers at Kenosha and another 400 at Milwaukee have remained on the job, he said.

Automotive assembly operations were halted at General Motors plants Friday for one day only and workers returned to their jobs today as ordered. Saturday is not considered a regular working day.

The announcement of extended layoffs by Chrysler and American Motors followed by one day a criticism by United Auto Workers union president Walter P. Reuther that layoffs by General Motors and Chrysler were an attempt "to conceal the seriousness of the current unemployment situation in the automobile industry."

SCOTT FIELD AIRMAN DROWNS IN CENTRALIA (ILL.) LAKE
Special to the Post-Dispatch
CENTRALIA, Ill., May 14—Airman 3-C William R. Wilkes Jr. of the 3327th Student Squadron at Scott Air Force Base drowned yesterday at the Centralia Community Beach, a small lake two miles northeast of here. He was 19 years old.

Firemen said Wilkes drowned in water that was about 15 feet deep. A fire rescue squad used an inhalator on the airman. His home was in Wylam, Ala.

CITIZENS' SLATE OF FREEHOLDERS WON ALL BUT 8 OF 28 WARDS IN CITY

Five Led by Democratic 'Big Twelve' Went to COPE and Seven to Candidates Backed by Mayor.

The citizens' committee slate of freeholder candidates, backed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, was victorious in all but eight of the city's 28 wards in last Tuesday's election, an analysis of official returns showed today.

Wards where an opposition slate, drawn by labor's Committee on Political Education and supported by a Democratic-Republican coalition, received majorities were the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Eleventh and Nineteenth. The other seven wards of the "Big Twelve" lost to the citizens' committee slate. These were the Third, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth.

Outlying wards, including the few which normally elect Republican majorities, generally voted overwhelmingly for the citizens' committee slate.

Biggest Majority in 25th. Largest majority for the citizens' committee slate was in the West End Twenty-fifth Ward, where the slate won by about seven and a half to one. Other heavy majorities for the citizens' committee slate were in the Twelfth, with five to one and in the Twenty-third and Twenty-eighth, four to one.

Heaviest majority against the Tucker-supported slate was in the Seventh Ward, led by Alderman Raymond Leisner, committee man by proxy of that ward. The average vote there was 1527 for the COPE slate to 576 for the citizens slate, or nearly three to one.

Other wards with heavy COPE majorities were Magistrate James H. Deneff's Fifth Ward, with a 1434 average for the COPE slate and 703 for the citizens; and the Nineteenth, led by Jordan Chambers, committee man-constable, with a 1492-average for the COPE slate and 707 for the citizens slate.

How Votes Were Figured. Average votes were obtained by adding the votes for nine candidates on each slate and dividing by nine, disregarding figures for the four candidates who were on both slates.

Surprisingly heavy votes were recorded against COPE candidates and for citizens committee candidates in Jury Commissioner George M. Murphy's Fifteenth Ward, where the average was 2892 for the citizens slate to 1173 for the COPE, and Sheriff Martin T. Jones' nineteenth Ward, with 1696 for the citizens slate and 952 for COPE.

The Fourth Ward, of which City Treasurer John J. Dwyer is committee man, was carried by the COPE slate by the relatively close average vote of 1541 to 1242.

NEW STOCK QUOTATIONS DEVICE OPERATING HERE

An automatic stock quotation registering device, linked by direct wire to a central station in New York City, began operation today at Edward D. Jones & Co., stock brokerage firm at 300 North Fourth street.

The device, manufactured by the Teleguide Corp., Stamford, Conn., is in use in a number of other cities in the country, replacing the method of recording stock prices by hand with chalk. Some other St. Louis brokerage houses also have the Teleguide.

At the central New York office, operators reading stock quotations from a ticker tape from the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges feed information into the Teleguide system. The changes automatically are made on stock boards which are part of the system.

EAST ST. LOUIS WATER FIRM TO MAKE FIRE HYDRANT TEST

Stephen C. Casteel, manager of the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co., said today his firm would make its own test of fire hydrants to determine if lack of water pressure was responsible for failure of East St. Louis firemen to stop the fire which destroyed St. Philip's Church April 18.

Casteel has told the City Council he believed the firemen failed to turn the hydrants on properly. He refused to accept results of a hydrant test made at the direction of Fire Commissioner Edgar Lehman which showed extremely low water pressure to be a chronic condition in the area of the fire.

Lehman, who has been conducting an extensive investigation of handling of the fire, denied charges brought by members of his department that he was "persecuting" them. He said, however, he would not defend any one if he "has been derelict in his duty." Twelve ranking officers of the department refused to submit to questioning by the City Council last week.

GREENSPAN'S TRIAL SET FOR JUNE 11 BY JUDGE

Trial of William Greenspan, suspended police captain charged with accepting bribes in an alleged pay-off by brothel operators, today was set temporarily for June 11 by Circuit Judge Michael J. Scott.

Judge Scott announced the setting after granting a defense continuance, requested because Morris A. Shenker, chief defense attorney, is presently engaged in the prolonged tax scandal trial in federal court. The circuit attorney's office said the setting was satisfactory.

Greenspan will be tried on one of four charges of alleged bribery for which he was indicted. Trial of two other policemen charged with accepting bribes has not been set, pending rulings on defense motions.

ASSERTS U.S. TOPS BUSINESS IN MANAGEMENT OF RECORDS

Government is ahead of business in the recognition of the problem of records management and is attempting to bring about potential savings through paper-work management programs, W. A. Holloway, regional director of the General Services Administration, said today.

He was the opening speaker at a two-day records management clinic at the New Federal Building, 1114 Market Street. The clinic was held to study recommendations of the Hoover Commission regarding potential savings in government paper-work and was attended by management officials of federal agencies.

HOUSE FAILS TO ACT ON RIVERFRONT FUND

Bill Goes Back to Conference—St. Louis Project Is Not Expected to Suffer.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 14—House action on an omnibus bill containing funds for a start on the St. Louis riverfront memorial was postponed today until Wednesday, and there was a possibility of still further delay.

Supporters of the $2,640,000 appropriation for the memorial expressed the opinion that the delay would not hurt the project's chances for approval, however.

The allocation for the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial is included in an $800,000 supplemental appropriation bill to finance various governmental activities in the current fiscal year. The measure was approved Friday by a Senate-House conference committee.

Action on the conference report was deferred to permit consideration of the 1957 appropriation bill for the Agriculture Department. Representative John Taber of New York, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, told the Post-Dispatch he would move the measure.

Taber said his recommendation would be confined to a controversial section of the bill dealing with financing new steam generating facilities to be built by the Tennessee Valley Authority, and would not affect the section dealing with the St. Louis memorial.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and other members of the House have predicted that funds for the memorial ultimately will be approved.

Under a compromise, the conference committee allocated $2,640,000 as the federal contribution toward the cost of grading the memorial site in St. Louis and relocating railroad tracks in a tunnel. If the bill is recommittees, the memorial funds could be the subject of "trading" with the possibility of additional cutbacks from the $3,000,000 originally requested by the Budget Bureau.

EASTERN MISSOURI TAX COLLECTIONS GAIN 12 PER CENT

Collections in eastern Missouri by the United States Internal Revenue Service for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year were 12 per cent higher than for the entire 1954-55 fiscal year. Ernest M. Flinn, St. Louis office director, reported today.

Flinn said that by April 30, revenue collected totaled $102,244,808 more than was received during the 1954-55 year. For the current year, collections are $937,350,220, compared to $835,105,412 for the previous period, he said.

Since the number of paying individuals and the rates for each tax category have not changed appreciably, Flinn said, the increase presumably reflects greater business activity. Population of the St. Louis area represents about 70 per cent of the region under his jurisdiction.

DISMISSES INDICTMENTS OF WELLSTON COUNCILMEN

Indictments charging Wellston Councilmen Edward Rieffe and Eugene Downes with having a financial interest in Wellston city contracts were dismissed today by Prosecuting Attorney Edward Garnholz of St. Louis county.

Garnholz said the councilmen's constitutional rights apparently were violated because they appeared before the grand jury which subsequently indicted them without being asked to sign waivers of immunity. At the time they appeared as witnesses, he said, the prosecuting attorney's office was not aware they would be subjects of investigation themselves.

The same constitutional question was raised by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller last month when he dismissed an indictment charging Mayor Leo Hayes of Wellston with stealing $2560 in police benefit money. Garnholz then dismissed two similar cases pending against Hayes. The grand jury which indicted Rieffe, Rieffe and Downes made a general investigation of Wellston city affairs.

2 CONVICTS TRY TO OVERPOWER GUARD, BUT FAIL

Men Being Returned Here for Trial on Other Charges Attack Officer.

An attempt by two Missouri convicts to overpower a guard and flee in a prison automobile in the 3800 block of Market street failed yesterday when the guard fired a shot, attracting police.

Three prisoners, Philip Keeley, 26 years old, serving five years for robbery from St. Louis; Charles Ayres, 26, St. Louis, 20 years for robbery; and Leroy Dortch, 20, a negro of St. Louis, four years for larceny of an automobile, were being brought here from the state penitentiary at Jefferson City for trial on other charges.

Keeley, who has an injured leg and walks with the aid of crutches, was in the rear seat of the automobile. Ayres and Dortch, handcuffed together, were in the front seat with Prison Officer Lloyd R. Burroughs, who was driving.

When the machine neared Spring avenue and Market street at 6:15 p.m., Keeley struck Burroughs on the head, either with a crutch or handcuffs, which Burroughs said he had removed earlier in the ride after the prisoner complained they were uncomfortable. Ayres shoved the guard, and Keeley grabbed Burroughs around the neck.

Dortch, police reported, yanked on the handcuffs, pulling Ayres away from the guard, who stopped the machine, jumped out and fired a revolver shot in the air. Sgt. John Finan and Patrolman Gilbert Tissot, Lucas Avenue district, driving nearby, heard the shot and hurried to the scene.

Ayres and Keeley were quoted as admitting they planned to seize the prison automobile and flee, explaining they were "tired" of prison. Both were booked suspected of assault and attempted escape.

THICKER PARK UNDERBRUSH ATTRACTS MIGRATORY BIRDS

A greater number of varieties of migratory birds have been stopping in St. Louis since underbrush in the area south of the city Art Museum in Forest Park has been permitted to grow.

This was reported by members of the Audubon Society after the last of the season's bird walks was conducted yesterday in the park. There had been a decrease in the numbers and varieties of birds seen in the area after the underbrush was thinned out about two years ago.

The society also noticed a decrease in the number of water birds observed since a swampy area in the southeastern section of the park was drained and filled. Among species observed by the group yesterday was a bay-breasted warbler, not often seen in this area.

Another Youth Killed. Hilton Leon Shemwell, 17, of 3058 Nameoki drive, Madison county, was killed Saturday night when an automobile he was driving left Rock road and went down an embankment a mile northwest of Granite City.

His passenger, Miss Georgia Taylor, 2313 East Twentieth street, Granite City, suffered chest and neck injuries.

Shemwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Shemwell, was a delivery truck driver for a printing firm.

Two-year-old Patrick Shannon of East St. Louis suffered serious head injuries and two adults suffered less serious injuries yesterday when two automobiles collided in East St. Louis.

The child was a passenger in a machine driven by his father, Charles, 215 Ash street. Another passenger in the Shannon automobile was Mrs. Mildred Kreiser, 253 North Seventy-fourth street, who suffered abrasions of the right knee.

Driver of the other machine was Miss Margaret Wallace, 618 North Fortieth street, who suffered cuts of the head. She was traveling west on Baugh avenue and Shannon was southbound on Fifteenth street when the collision occurred.

WIND MOVES PLANE RAMP, WOMAN IS INJURED IN FALL.

Mrs. Samuel A. Silk, Churchton, Md., suffered fractures of the right hip and arm early today when a gust of wind moved a loading ramp as she was alighting from an Eastern Air Lines plane at Lambert-St. Louis Field, causing her to fall about 20 feet to the concrete pavement.

Mrs. Silk, 61 years old, accompanied her husband, a psychiatrist, here for his appearance as a Government witness in the tax scandals trial in United States District Court. A spokesman for the airline said four other passengers, including Dr. Silk, were descending from the plane when wind exceeding 30 miles an hour moved the ramp at the moment Mrs. Silk stepped out the door.

She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Charles, where her condition was described as serious. Airline employees attributed the accident to a sudden shift in wind, placing the ramp in an exposed position. The ramp weighs 1500 pounds and is wheeled into place beside plane for passengers to get in and out of the aircraft.

AUTO OVERTURNS IN POLICE CHASE, BOY, 9, KILLED

Men Being Returned Here for Trial on Other Charges Attack Officer.

Nine-year-old Wayne Pruett of Granite City was killed and two other 9-year-old boys were injured early yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding overturned in Granite City as it was being pursued by police.

Driving the machine was a 16-year-old Granite City High School freshman, who told police he had been giving the children a ride. He fled, he said, because he lacked a license and was driving his grandparents' car, using a tin-foil "jumper" in place of an ignition key.

Thrown from the speeding machine when it crossed railroad tracks on Old Walnut road, Granite City, were the Pruett boy and Kenneth Meyer, who suffered serious head injuries and was taken to St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Driver Has Scratched Finger. The third 9-year-old, Robert Motes, suffered lacerations and bruises and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City. The driver suffered only a scratched finger.

The three 9-year-olds, who all live in the Kirkpatrick Homes housing project, were planning to spend the night at 3611, home of Mrs. Opal Meyer, Kenneth's mother, when the older boy drove up about midnight searching for Wayne Pruett's older brother, Willie.

The older boy invited the smaller boys to go with him during his search and drove off despite the fact Wayne's mother, Mrs. William Pruett, called to him to stop, a witness said.

The accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. after a wild ride across a yard, through an alley and a stop sign at high speeds, police reported. Officers took up the chase when they saw the machine speed through a stop sign on Nameoki road.

They booked the driver on five charges and will seek a warrant charging him with reckless homicide. He has been in difficulty before with juvenile authorities.

Wayne Pruett's parents live at 4310 Kirkpatrick Homes. The Motes boy is the son of Mrs. Harold Lumpkins, 4903.

Hilton Leon Shemwell, 17, of 3058 Nameoki drive, Madison county, was killed Saturday night when an automobile he was driving left Rock road and went down an embankment a mile northwest of Granite City.

CLAIMS RUSSIA WILL SOON CLOSE PRISON CAMPS

Leading Secret Police Officer Says Such Internment Is Now Rare.

The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW, May 14—The Soviet Government has decided to abolish within a year to 18 months all internment camps, a leading member of the MVD (Soviet secret police), disclosed yesterday.

The official, whose name was not disclosed, accompanied a delegation of French Socialists on a visit to a corrective labor camp at Tula, eight miles south of the Soviet capital.

(The Soviet decision to abolish the camps was regarded by observers in New York as an indication of the end of the mass forced labor system.)

The Soviet MVD official said that "deportation," that is internment in places remote from the scene of conviction, was no longer practiced except in cases of "extremely serious" political crimes.

He said persons convicted even of such crimes will be tried in accordance with normal legal procedures. Upon conviction, he added, they will be imprisoned in localities within reasonable distance of their homes.

There is no indication of the number of internment camps in the Soviet Union. It is known that substantial numbers of persons have been released from such camps recently. Soviet officials have said that in some instances persons were interned unjustly and the Government has decided to make amends.

It is believed the Soviet official's disclosure on the prison camps, like several other disclosures of relaxation of police and court methods, is designed to emphasize the break with the Stalin era.

The group of French Socialists, led by Marcel Pivert, was told that the Soviet Government planned to have only two types of imprisonment in the future: ordinary prisons and corrective labor colonies.

It will no longer be the practice, even in the collective labor colonies to send inmates to work on projects outside the camp sites, the MVD officials said. In the colonies, the Frenchmen were told, the inmates will work in factories and other institutions on the ground.

anything was new regarding the Shu-Stiles Inc. case.

"I haven't had a chance since returning from my vacation to look into it," Oliphant replied.

"Let me hear from you when you can," Schwimmer said.

"Sure," Oliphant answered.

A recording of a telephone call made by Schwimmer to Oliphant Aug. 16, 1949, disclosed that the attorney requested the Internal Revenue Bureau's chief counsel to ask the Justice Department to "hold up" action on the Sachs case until he could get in touch with the department himself.

Complaining of being "laid up," apparently a reference to a heart attack he suffered, Schwimmer requested a delay until mid-September.

Would "Advise" Department.

When Oliphant said he would "advise the Justice Department," Schwimmer asked: "Is there a chance the case can be reviewed by Schoeneman?"

George Schoeneman was Commissioner of Internal Revenue. To this request, Oliphant repeated his statement that he would "advise the Justice Department."

U.S. Witness

By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
DR. SAMUEL A. SILK

Dr. Samuel A. Silk, who was acting superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington in 1950, told of an opinion given by a board of psychiatrists at the hospital to the effect that prosecution would endanger the health, and possibly the life, of Sachs.

Dr. Silk, now retired, told the jury that the examination was requested by Caudle.

The psychiatrist's decision was based solely on material presented to them by the Justice Department and did not include a personal examination of Sachs, Dr. Silk pointed out.

Dr. Silk testified that Caudle never indicated in any manner what kind of decision he wanted from the board. At the time the Government's policy was to forego prosecution of any tax evader whose health or life would be endangered.

In testimony presented since the trial began a week ago, the Government has tried to show that Caudle and Connelly took unusual steps to aid Sachs in his tax troubles.

The indictment charges that Schwimmer, Sachs and his whole-sale firm, Shu-Stiles Inc., promised, offered and gave things of value to Connelly and Caudle to influence their official decisions.

A Government witness told the jury last week of being advised by Schwimmer, attorney for Sachs, that Connelly, while a White House aide, had asked the Justice Department to hold up prosecution.

This testimony was given by Frederick Seltzer, former Internal Revenue official, who said he was informed Connelly had arranged for the delay to give Schwimmer all the time he wanted to recuperate from a heart attack.

Documentary evidence has been introduced by the prosecution purporting to show that Caudle worked closely with Schwimmer in assembling reports to justify dropping prosecution of Sachs.

The offer of a hearing was extended by Assistant Attorney General Charles K. Rice of the tax division. Rice said Sachs's rights as a veteran did not include a hearing before a decision is reached on his suspension, but the hearing was being offered anyway.

Rice said he was "advised" that some of the testimony at the trial of Caudle, Connelly and Harry I. Schwimmer, a former Kansas City attorney, "will bear directly on some of the issues raised by Mr. Sachs's answer" to the Justice Department charges.

"Under these conditions," Rice wrote Joseph A. Fanelli, Sachs's attorney, "it occurs to me that you might consider it in Mr. Sachs's interest to have a hearing and subsequent administrative decision after the conclusion of that case."

Fanelli made public Rice's letter in announcing that the offer of a hearing after the trial had been accepted.

Slack, who figured prominently in the Truman Administration tax scandals, was suspended without pay last Dec. 1. He had been chief of the appellate section of the Justice Department's tax section.

ment program. This was on May 19, 1953.

Nine days later, Chotiner attended a New York conference at which Kravitz, Parzow and Joseph (Joey) Abrams, another clothing manufacturer now under investigation, were present. Adams also retained him on that day, Chotiner said.

Since Sachs had tried to avoid prosecution on the ground he was an epileptic, a Government witness was asked today about a suggestion that Sachs had a serious automobile accident in 1934 because of an epileptic seizure.

Ben L. Shiffrin, a St. Louis attorney, was asked by Wyllis S. Newcomb, chief Government counsel: "Wasn't Sachs's explanation that he was driving too fast on a wet road?"

Says He Can't Recall.

Shiffrin, whose firm represented Sachs's father, Solomon, injured in the accident, said he did not recall. The traffic mishap caused the death of Mrs. Solomon Sachs.

However, the witness said he did not hear of epilepsy in connection with Sachs's trial. Schwimmer suggested Sachs might avoid prosecution for tax evasion on health grounds.

Nine days later, Chotiner attended a New York conference at which Kravitz, Parzow and Joseph (Joey) Abrams, another clothing manufacturer now under investigation, were present. Adams also retained him on that day, Chotiner said.

He "had the impression" that Parzow was "one of those who had recommended me to Kravitz and Abrams," he said.

Parzow, he added, had put him in touch with another client, Marco Reginelli, described by Robert F. Kennedy, chief subcommittee counsel, as "a top hoodlum in the New Jersey and Philadelphia area."

Chotiner received $6000 in fees from Kravitz and $1000 from Reginelli. Reginelli was involved in a deportation proceeding. Chotiner said he had no previous experience in such cases when he was hired.

The fourth client recommended by Parzow was not identified during the testimony. It is now known, however, that he was Ues De Haan, a Philadelphia automobile dealer, who was charged at the time with evading $238,000 in income taxes.

In declining to tell of conversations with Parzow, Chotiner argued that the client-lawyer relationship had been established before Parzow first asked him to take the De Haan case.

Attorney for Both.

Kennedy asked if he considered himself the attorney for both Parzow and De Haan in what is now identified as the De Haan case.

Parzow, Chotiner replied, "was one of the clients, not the client, but one of them."

"He represented a group then," Kennedy asked.

"I would not say a group," Chotiner replied. "I would say himself and De Haan."

He conceded that Parzow had never asked "in so many words" to retain him. But he came "to the very definite conclusion that he was confiding in me, that he was telling me things that he certainly would not have told unless he felt that I was his lawyer."

Parzow had never paid him a fee, he said, or needed legal help.

Chotiner's claim of the privilege of lawyer-client relationship was the bar that stopped the subcommittee from questioning him further about Parzow's activities.

Since then, however, De Haan's Philadelphia attorney, Sakas, Dr. Silk testified, has stated that Parzow had no connection with the De Haan case. Jacoby reports paying Chotiner a $5000 fee for his services to De Haan, but nothing for Parzow.

This information might rule out Chotiner's reason for not testifying fully about Parzow and the subcommittee could require such testimony.

CUT IN FOREIGN AID DANGEROUS, WILSON ASSERTS world to have that country," he said.

He mentioned also what he termed the continuing threat to Formosa in the Red Chinese buildup of modernized forces, jet aircraft, long-range guns and other weapons.

"We cannot fail to provide adequate support to the Republic of China's forces without appearing in the eyes of all Asians to be backing down in the face of this blatant threat of force," the admiral said.

Radford also said there is "the veiled threat of armed intervention from Vietnam in the affairs of Viet Nam."

The admiral testified this country must insure that the military and political alignment under the Baghdad pact receives the support necessary to increase in strength and become eventually an example of free world solidarity among Middle Eastern States.

On a recent tour, he said, he found the people of Iran, Iraq and Pakistan "beset with doubts."

"Pressures are being brought to bear on them not only from the Communist world, but from some of their own neighbors," Radford said.

They need "assurances of our continued support," he concluded.

Wilson and Radford both said that as of today the United States has air superiority over Russia and they saw no reason why the United States cannot maintain such superiority.

The question was raised by Senator Smith. He noted that there have been "reports that we are behind in air power" and asked: "Are the Soviets really ahead of us in overall air strength?"

Wilson replied.

Says 1960 is the question. The real question, he said, is what will be the relative air power of the two nations by 1960. Wilson said that "inside the family, we think we can maintain our superiority," but it will not be "a great big superiority."

ago that there still was some difference among Western intelligence men as to whether Russia actually completed the 640,000-man cut last year—or only announced that figure.

He also said, in predicting today's announced Soviet cut, that the world would watch with interest whether the reduction was carried out, and whether a corresponding cut in armaments would accompany it.

If the released men entered factories to make manpower-replacing technical weapons, it would nullify some of the cut, he said.

The Russians proposed at the London disarmament talks that the armed forces of Russia, the United States and Red China be limited to 1,500,000 men each. The Western powers suggested a ceiling of 2,500,000. No agreement was reached.

FIVE YOUTHS, AGES 12-16, ADMIT EIGHT BURGLARIES

Five youths, 12 to 16 years old, today admitted robbing eight business establishments since last February, police reported.

Four were arrested after they had been implicated by a 12-year-old boy who was apprehended by Patrolmen Vernon Ellis and Michael Kilroy at a parking lot in the 3700 block of Lindell boulevard with a bag containing $39 last night.

Ellis and Kilroy said they noticed the boy because he was seen after the curfew. He admitted the burglaries and implicated the other youths when he was taken to the Lucas avenue station.

FRANCO REMOVES FOUR MORE ADMINISTRATORS TO STRENGTHEN FALANGE

MADRID, May 14 (UPI).

A STATE bulletin today announced the ouster of four top-rank administrators in the Franco regime.

An informed source said the changes were designed to tighten Franco's Falange—only legal political group in Spain—against the "enemy within." They continued the Government shakeup Franco started shortly after February riots by anti-Falange university students in Madrid.

In the new changes, Miguel Vizecaino Marques "ceases in his post" as Secretary of Syndicates. Also ousted were the heads of the national syndicates of combustibles, entertainments and olive growing.

Two Way Stretch

Comfort, capacity, and Cunard—the three C's most people look for when they're ready for the transatlantic high seas. This time of year capacity is the keyword. Here no other line even comes close to Cunard, with the world's largest transatlantic fleet (headed by the world's largest superliners, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary). And by far the largest number of transatlantic passengers carried in 1955 (259,000!). Even Cunard has limits to the two-way stretch, though. Some choice First Class availability this month and beginning early July, no Cabin or Tourist space until after the so-called summer peak—that's about the size of it. So the best advice for you if you've got your eye on Europe—hurry over to your local travel agent. The trick is to plan ahead for late Summer and Fall—so we don't have to stretch too far!

50,000 HEAR 2 DEMOCRATS AT CALIFORNIA FETE

Stevenson Wears Cowboy Garb, Kefauver a Silk Suit at May Day Celebration.

LOS BANOS, Calif., May 14 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson in levis, a 10-gallon hat and astride a roan horse encountered Senator Estes Kefauver, in a silk suit and riding in a fancy convertible automobile here yesterday.

Their getups brought cheers and long applause from 50,000 Californians here for the annual Los Banos May day celebration.

Stevenson was decked out in cowboy hat, boots and ties and jeans. He seemed completely at ease aboard his nag, taking it big at the head of the long parade.

Kefauver, close behind in his convertible, was turned out to perfection. He wore a white carnation in his lapel.

Both in High Spirits.

Both Democratic presidential candidates were in high spirits and greeted each other in friendly fashion when they met at an intersection just before the parade got under way.

"Adlai, you're doing fine. . . . I'm glad to see you," Kefauver told his rival.

Stevenson, from his saddle, replied: "This is the only exercise I get. How are you doing?"

"I'm doing fine . . . just a little sleepy," the Tennesseean said.

Stevenson, during his ride, encountered California Lt. Gov. Harold J. Powers, also aboard a horse, who told the former Illinois Governor: "You look like a cowpuncher yourself."

As they came by the reviewing stand, the announcer proclaimed:

"We promised you both Democratic candidates, and here they are."

They are campaigning for the state's 68 Democratic convention votes in the June 5 presidential primary.

Kefauver stopped in San Mateo for a reception en route to San Francisco, and got stalled between floors in an automatic elevator with six other persons.

They crawled up to the second floor by stepping on a chair after a wait of 20 minutes. The failure was blamed on overloading.

The elevator trouble came just a day after Kefauver's woman driver was ticketed for speeding 95 miles an hour near Chowchilla. During both crises the candidate remained calm.

Stevenson in Oregon.

Stevenson flew to Oregon last night, seeking support of the state's 16 delegates to the Democratic national convention.

A competing tour for favor of the voters will be opened Tuesday at Klamath Falls, in southern Oregon by Kefauver.

Their campaign paths will merge Tuesday night at Eugene, Ore. They are scheduled to speak from the same platform in the University of Oregon's basketball pavilion.

Stevenson spoke in Portland, Ore., last night at a meeting sponsored by a Democratic women's group.

Stevenson jabbed sharply at the Eisenhower Administration, and twice referred to the President, but not by name. He said he found it strange that one newspaper he did not name would oppose the candidacy of the late President Roosevelt when he was 63, but now finds it perfectly proper for another man to seek office at an even greater age. President Eisenhower is 65. He referred, too, to the President's fondness for golf. He said he had replied to a California's inquiry about his sunburned face by saying, "Well, I didn't get it playing golf."

Stevenson said Eisenhower's Cabinet has three members representing one corporation, but none for organized labor. And, he added, the Administration has waited until an election year to do anything about farm problems or work on education problems at the national level.

Stevenson said taxes had been reduced but the distribution of relief was not to his liking. He said that only nine cents of every dollar of reduced taxes had been applied to the income group which needed it most.

CHURCHILL BACK HOME FROM VISIT TO GERMANY

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill arrived home last night from a visit to Germany. He received the Charlemagne United Europe award Thursday in Aachen.

The former Prime Minister and Lady Churchill flew here from Hohn, where Churchill earlier yesterday inspected his old regiment, the Fourth Queen's Own Hussars. He served as a second lieutenant in the regiment in 1895.

In Berlin, Otto Nuschke, deputy premier of Communist East Germany, yesterday hailed Churchill's proposal for a "grand alliance" between Russia and the West as "thinking in true European terms."

150 CANADIAN GREAT LAKES SHIPS IDLE IN WAGE STRIKE

MONTREAL, May 14 (AP)—About 150 Canadian Great Lakes ships have received lay-up orders as a result of a seaman's strike and retaliation by shipping companies, it was estimated last night.

Negotiations will continue here today between the Seafarers' International Union and the seven-company association of lake carriers. A federal mediator is trying to help the two sides agree.

SIU went on strike over wages Thursday against two of the shipping companies. The other five companies immediately proclaimed a united front policy.

REUTHER URGES REALIGNMENT OF MAJOR PARTIES

Labor Leader Wants Democrats to Expel Some Southern Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Union leader Walter Reuther urged yesterday that the Democratic party expel some of its Southern members in Congress if they do not support party policy on civil rights and other issues.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, said in a televised interview on the ABC "College Press Conference" television program that "what we need is a realignment" of political parties.

He suggested that some Southern Democrats in Congress be shorn of their party standing when Congress reorganizes next year unless they back the party platform.

In this connection he said Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, an outspoken segregationist, might thus be deprived of the chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which passes on all civil rights legislation.

"Senator Eastland is not a Democrat," Reuther said. "I personally think he should get into some other party."

He also named Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, saying: "I propose that Senator Byrd be in the Republican party where he can be with people he agrees with."

Reuther said the Democratic party cannot go on with "incompatible elements in its leadership."

If these were removed, he said, the party could act with "responsibility and internal integrity" to enact a legislative program in keeping with its platform.

"What we need is a realignment" with the parties, he said. Reuther also was questioned about his disagreement with George Meany, AFL-CIO president, on American policy toward India.

Referring to Meany's recent statement that India should be considered an ally of Communism, Reuther said "obviously this sort of thing disturbs the people of India."

The UAW chief, who recently returned from a trip to India, said he felt that "if Mr. Meany had shared the same experiences I had" he would also share Reuther's view that India is dedicated to "democratic values."

"I don't want to get into a public controversy with Mr. Meany—that's obvious," Reuther added.

He said the dispute had been exaggerated in some published reports and emphasized that he and Meany agree on "most basic questions."

Urges Labor to Quit Democrats If They Straddle Issues.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—Emil Rieve, AFL-CIO vice president and retiring head of the Textile Workers Union, said today labor should desert the Democratic party if it works "both sides of the street" on segregation or other issues.

For himself, however, Rieve declined to take a position on the school desegregation issue before his union's convention here.

In a speech to 1300 TWUA delegates, Rieve reflected attitudes expressed by AFL-CIO President George Meany and AFL-CIO Vice President Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, toward the Democratic party in this election year.

He accused "some Democratic candidates" of "imitating" President Eisenhower by adopting a "moderation" approach.

"It is time the (Democratic) party realized that it cannot have one policy for Texas and another for New York, whether the issue is natural gas, the Taft-Hartley Act or segregation in public schools," he added.

"If the Democratic party tries to work both sides of the street, it will no longer deserve the support of the American labor movement."

After criticizing the Democrats, Rieve then said that he would not discuss the school desegregation issue because "I am well aware that there are strong feelings even in our own organization" and "I presume there will be a suitable resolution on the subject."

KOREAN ELECTION VIOLENCE CHARGED TO RHEE BACKERS

SEOUL, May 14 (AP)—Three instances of election violence by supporters of President Syngman Rhee were reported yesterday. Rhee is running for a third term.

Lee Bum Suk, former prime minister who is a vice presidential candidate of the right-wing Republican party, said 300 young Government party supporters attacked him and other members of his campaign tour with stones and clubs yesterday.

He said 10 of his aids were injured, two seriously.

Previously two instances of election violence were reported by a spokesman for the Progressive party which has put up Cho Bong Am, the only candidate now opposing Rhee for the presidency.

There was no comment from the headquarters of Rhee's Liberal party. The opposition charged that local police either took no action, or merely promised to investigate.

17 KILLED IN MISSOURI AUTO CRASHES IN WEEK

JEFFERSON CITY, May 14 (UP)—Seventeen persons were killed in traffic in Missouri in the week ended last midnight—a slight decrease under the 20 persons killed in the corresponding week of 1955.

State traffic officials said, however, the traffic fatalities for the year show a 25 per cent increase. The totals so far this year show 36 traffic fatalities for May, compared to 29 last year, and 368 killed since January, compared to 294 during the corresponding part of last year.

40 GIRLS FELLED BY HEAT

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Forty school girls suffered heat prostration in New York's 87.6 degree heat yesterday, a record for May 13.

The girls were attending a convocation of 10,000 Catholic youth leaders at Fordham University. They are treated at a temporary infirmary on the campus.

SUPREME COURT MUST BE CURBED, BYRNES ASSERTS

He Calls Integration Ruling 'Usurpation of Power,' Hints It Wasn't Unanimous.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, a former associate justice of the Supreme Court, said today the court "must be curbed."

"Power intoxicates men," Byrnes said in a copyrighted article in the magazine U.S. News & World Report. "It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them. The Supreme Court must be curbed."

Byrnes, a member of the high court in 1941-42, also is a former member of the Senate and of the House and the holder of various high offices in the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman administrations, including the Secretaryship of State in the latter. His most recent public office was as Governor of South Carolina.

Byrnes assailed as a "usurpation of power" the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools and hinted that the decision may not have been unanimous, as was announced at the time it was handed down two years ago this week.

Points to Continuation.

Noting that the court continued from one year's term until the next the five cases which were consolidated for purposes of the decision, Byrnes wrote that "had the court been unanimous... such an opinion would have been written within a few months," and he continued:

"Instead, after many months, the court announced that the cases should be reargued and counsel should direct their arguments to certain questions."

Declaring that "we can only speculate as to how the court reached its decision," Byrnes said the framers of the Constitution and members of Congress who approved the Fourteenth Amendment contemplated school segregation. The court relied on the Fourteenth Amendment in its anti-segregation decision.

Byrnes said the only relevant change in conditions since the adoption of the Fourteenth Amendment "was that several million Negroes had migrated to the big cities in northern states and constituted the balance of political power in several states."

Says Law Was Reversed

Quoting Senator James O. Eastland (Dem., Miss.) in support of his arguments, Byrnes asserted that the court had reversed the law of the land "upon no authority other than some books written by a group of psychologists about whose qualifications we know little and about whose loyalty to the United States there is grave doubt."

Noting two other recent decisions by the court which struck down state sedition laws and which denied New York City the right to fire a teacher who cited the Fifth Amendment unless it gave him a full hearing, Byrnes said:

"The usurpation of the court of this power to amend the Constitution and destroy state governments may impair our progress and take our freedom."

"The present trend brings joy to Communists and their fellow travelers who want to see all power centered in the Federal Government because they can more easily influence one government in Washington than the 48 governments in 48 states."

RUSSIA APPROVES VISIT BY FIVE AMERICAN RABBIS

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 14—Russia has granted unprecedented permission to a delegation of five American rabbis to visit that country to meet "with representatives of the Jewish community" it was disclosed yesterday.

Permission for the visit was obtained by Rabbi David B. Hollander, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, an organization of 700 Orthodox rabbis, and four of the council's members, Rabbis Samuel Adelman of Newport News, Va.; Gilbert Klapman of Lawrence, N.Y.; and Emanuel Rackman and Herschel Schacter, both of New York City.

Rabbi Hollander said this marked the first time since the Russian revolution of 1917 that a rabbinical group has received permission to enter that country. The rabbis plan to make the trip as quickly as possible, he said, although the exact dates are not yet fixed.

Harriman Says He'd Be Proud To Receive Wyoming's Support

New York Governor's Assistants View Remark as Strongest Overture So Far for Backing of Another State.

CODY, Wyo., May 14 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said today that although he is not an active candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, "I'd be mighty proud" if the people of Wyoming wanted to support his candidacy.

Harriman came here to make the keynote address at the Wyoming Democratic convention.

He also spoke at a breakfast meeting at which he said New York's delegation to the national convention will place his name in nomination and not as a favorite son.

Harriman assistants said this is the strongest bid he has made for support from another state.

"I am not an active candidate, but I am an active Governor," Harriman told the breakfast meeting. He said he has been too busy with his Governor's duties to enter any primary races with Adlai Stevenson or Senator Estes Kefauver, avowed candidates for the nomination.

Harriman told a reporter after the breakfast: "I am not making an open bid for Wyoming delegation, but I'd be very much honored to have their support."

Harriman, in an address prepared for delivery at the state convention, said, now that President Eisenhower has become candidate Eisenhower, he must be held directly and personally responsible for the failures of his administration.

He declared that Mr. Eisenhower "has tried to dodge responsibility and passed the buck to his subordinates. He can't get away with that any longer."

"It's not Benson's (Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson) policies that have caused a drop of 4½ billion dollars since 1952 in the annual income of farm families," it's Eisenhower's policies."

Harriman declared "Eisenhower is a prisoner of big business and special interests. We see it in every aspect of the Eisenhower policies—in his lack of concern for farm families and for small business."

URGES INFLEXIBLE STAND FOR RIGHTS

DENVER, May 14 — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said yesterday that the Democratic party "might as well go fishing" in the coming election.

VISIT OF FRENCH TO EASE TENSION, BULGANIN FEELS

Mollet, Pineau Going to Moscow Tomorrow
—Premier's View on Germans.

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin expressed confidence today that the impending visit of French government leaders to Moscow would help ease world tension. Bulganin voiced his optimism in an interview with the French daily newspaper, Le Monde, broadcast by the Moscow radio. In answer to written questions, Bulganin declared: "At present there is not a single international problem which would constitute an insurmountable obstacle on the road of development of friendship and co-operation between our countries."

French Premier Mollet and his foreign minister, Christian Pineau, are leaving for Moscow tomorrow at the invitation of the Kremlin. Bulganin was asked by the French newspaper what he believed to be the link between disarmament and the long-delayed German peace settlement. The Soviet premier replied: "In our opinion it is now necessary to lay emphasis not on stating differences but on the search for drawing together the positive of the western powers and the Soviet Union on the disarmament question. As for the Soviet Union, guided by this situation, it will then do everything possible in order to achieve the solution of this question."

U.S. SCIENTISTS ATTEND NUCLEAR MEETING IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP)—United States atomic scientists joined with Soviet physicists today at the first nuclear conference in the Soviet Union ever attended by American experts. The delegation from the United States is headed by Victor F. Weisskopf of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists. Others are Dr. Robert E. Marshak of the University of Rochester, N. Y., and Dr. Robert R. Wilson of Cornell University. The Americans came here at the invitation of the Soviet Academy of Science. They are not here as a government delegation, but their trip was authorized by the Atomic Energy Commission. Also attending are delegates from Britain, France and Soviet bloc countries, including Communist China. The conference opened with a speech by Academician M. G. Mesteryakov. The Soviet scientists are to demonstrate and explain the academy's six-meter synchro-cyclotron and its synchro-fission which accelerates to 10 billion volts. United States physicist J. Marshall is to report on the projected 15 billion electrovolt proton-synchrotron planned for the Argonne National Laboratory.

Flashes of Life

Detective in Tank.
JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Detective John Showers was baptized the other night without benefit of clergy. Checking on a reported prowler, he descended into the dark interior of a church basement and suddenly found himself wading in water. He had walked into the baptismal tank.

Half Out, Half in Jail.
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A prisoner at the Fort Hayes guard house here tried to escape, but only half of him made it. An army spokesman said Martin R. Youngless, of Brighton, O., tried to squeeze through the pried apart bars of a guard house window. Only his head and shoulders got through and he had to be helped back in.

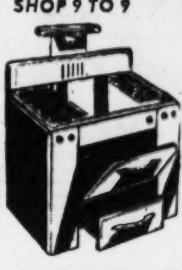

Motor On, Boaters Off.
NEWARK, O. (AP)—Three persons rented a motor boat at nearby Buckeye lake and chugged happily off on a nautical outing. Ten minutes later the boat—empty—was found crashed into the shore. Its motor was still running. Sheriff's deputies feared its three occupants had drowned. Later the three were located safe and dry. They had brought the boat into shore and got out. They forgot to turn the motor off.

PARENTS WATCH HELPLESSLY AS 3 SONS DROWN

WARREN, Ill., May 14 (AP)—A father and mother watched helplessly yesterday as their three young sons—all non-swimmers—drowned in an artificial pond on the family farm. The victims were Allen Gollmer, 17 years old, a senior at Warren high school; and his two brothers, Charles, 13, and Claude, 10. Laverne Gollmer, the father, said he and his wife saw their youngest son fall from the homemade raft the youths were paddling into deep water of the three-acre pond. The two older brothers plunged into the water from the raft in a futile rescue attempt. The father, also a non-swimmer, jumped into the pond from the shore in an effort to rescue his sons. His wife, meanwhile, ran screaming for help. Her shouts attracted a neighbor, John Bauman, who was able to pull the father from the pond. He was unable to find the three boys. Deputies arrived on the scene but were unable to find the bodies in the murky water. They finally dynamited a dam to drain the pond. They recovered the bodies three hours later. Warren is in the extreme north-western corner of Illinois.

Air Mail Pioneers.
OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—The Air Mail Pioneers, an organization of the airmen and ground men who pioneered the air mail from 1918 to 1927, will hold a national convention here Sept. 13 and 14. More than 250 aerial pioneers are expected to attend the convention which will be a highlight of Aviation Week.

AREA CELEBRATES RACIAL HARMONY, ONCE OPPOSED IT

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—An association of property owners in a downtown Detroit section, once bitterly opposed to infiltration by minority groups, will celebrate eight years of racial harmony today. In 1948, the United States Supreme Court outlawed clauses such as that in the covenant of the Boston-Edison Protective Association which restricted the exclusive neighborhood to "members of the Caucasian race."

Prominent property owners accepted the ruling reluctantly at first, but now they've come up with an answer to the problem created by minority races in Detroit. "We only insist," said John P. Heavenrich, association president "that whoever moves in sticks strictly to the zoning for single residences, maintains the property decently and joins us in protecting the property values of the neighborhood."

"We have a peaceful community of mixed races into which anyone can move with pride," said Heavenrich. He said the policy has paid off in a practical way. Property values, estimated up to $100,000 two years ago for 1000 home, have risen. Today's party, a social affair with coffee and cookies, will also include a discussion on the theme "Living Together in Our Progressive Community."

RAAB'S PARTY MAKES GAIN IN AUSTRIAN VOTE

Chancellor's Conservatives Pick Up 8 Seats in Country's First Election as a Neutral.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

VIENNA, May 14—Chancellor Raab's conservative People's party won a substantial victory yesterday in the first general elections in this country since foreign troops moved out last year and Austria became a neutral between East and West.

Final returns gave the following distribution of seats in the new parliament as compared with the results in 1953: People's party, 82, up 8. Socialists, 75, up 2. Freedom party (extreme right-wing), 5, down 9. Communists, 3, down 1.

The election results indicate no change in Austria's policy of neutrality.

Favors Soft Policy. Chancellor Raab, who flew to Moscow last spring to make an independence-for-neutrality deal for Austria with the Russians, favors a softer neutrality policy toward the Russians than the Socialists.

However, the election was not fought on foreign policy issues. It revolved mainly around domestic economic disputes.

Of these, the main fight was over Austria's oil fields—largely in Europe after Romania.

The Socialists demanded 100 per cent nationalization of the oil industry. Chancellor Raab's party proposed a milder form of nationalization, with only 51 per cent of the oil to be owned by the state.

The Socialists campaigned against "foreign exploitation" of Austrian oil. Raab's plans, on the other hand, will provide more favorable conditions for the operations of American, British and other foreign firms with oil interests here.

Blow to Socialists. Raab's victory is also a blow to Socialist demands for still more nationalization in other branches of this already highly nationalized economy.

The major loser in the voting was the extreme right-wing, whose Freedom party was badly organized, poorly financed and devoted much of its program to proclaiming its "Germanism." It had a strong Nazi taint.

The Communists, who attempted to form a popular front called "Communists and Left Socialists," fared even worse. They won the lowest number of seats they have held at any time since the war. Their maximum was five in 1949 elections.

It is widely assumed that Raab's party will form another coalition regime with the Socialists when he sets up his new government. The two parties have formed an uninterrupted series of coalitions since the war.

WOOD RIVER STORE ROBBED OF JEWELRY WORTH $2000

Jewelry valued at about $2000 was taken in a burglary during the weekend of Taylor Jewelers, 59 East Ferguson avenue, Wood River. Police Chief Roy Coutre reported today.

Items taken from display windows and showcases included more than 200 watches, assorted diamonds, cigarette lighters and electric shavers.

REP. POWELL DENIES GETTING KICKBACK

He Appears as Surprise Witness at Trial of His Secretary.

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Representative Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.), New York, denied in United States District Court today ever having received a kickback of money from his congressional secretary, Mrs. Hattie Freeman Dodson.

He appeared as a surprise witness at Mrs. Dodson's trial on income tax evasion charges. Judge Irving R. Kaufman previously had rejected a defense motion to dismiss the charges but he exonerated her husband, Howard.

"Unqualifiedly no, never, not a penny," Powell said in reply to a question on whether he ever got a kickback.

A prosecution witness testified last week that Mrs. Dodson once declared her congressional salary "belonged to the Congressman."

Kaufman, rejecting the dismissal motion, said that it was up to the jury to decide whether she acted as "a conduit" in passing money to Powell.

She is accused of evading $5000 in taxes and getting $2000 in refunds from 1948 to 1952 by listing dependents fraudulently. The Dodsons and Powell are Negroes.

RUSSIANS BACK DOWN ON FISHERIES TREATY

Drop Political Demands
When Japanese Balk: Signing of Pact Imminent.

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP)—Chico Kono, head of the Japanese fisheries delegation, announced today the Soviet Government had withdrawn its political demands and a Soviet-Japanese fisheries treaty would be signed tonight or tomorrow.

Kono called the Soviet reversal a victory for Japan. Negotiations for the fisheries agreement appeared to have broken down Saturday, but Kono was summoned this afternoon to the Soviet Ministry of Fish Industries and informed of the new decision.

Earlier, agreement appeared to have been reached. An interim pact was to control Soviet and Japanese fishing rights in 1956 and a permanent treaty to come into effect when the two nations sign their long-stalled peace treaty. Then the Russians abruptly demanded suspension of the interim agreement until the peace treaty is signed.

The Japanese delegation refused and prepared to leave Moscow tomorrow. Now, Kono said, the Soviets relented and the signing will proceed.

Japanese officials, meanwhile, faced a new puzzle in a reported Russian offer to exchange ambassadors.

A Japanese source in Moscow said Premier Bulganin had offered to exchange ambassadors although the two nations have not signed a peace treaty.

HUSBAND FATALLY SHOT, MOTHER WITH POLIO HELD

EFFINGHAM, Ill., May 14 (AP)—A mother crippled by polio hobbled on crutches to a neighbor's home yesterday to report she had shot and killed her husband.

Policeman Jack Barry said Mrs. Naomi Larimer, 33 years old, related that she fired a shotgun at her husband's chest because he was drunk and abusive.

She was held without charge. Mrs. Larimer and her husband, Noble, 33, a laborer, were the parents of two children, one 3 years old and the other 21 months.

ILGWU'S VOTE FUND MAY REACH $538,000

Union With Democratic Ties Has $288,621, Will Seek $250,000 More.

The New York Herald Tribune Post Dispatch Special Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 14—David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO, said yesterday that his union alone will have $538,000 available for contributions in this year's national election campaign.

The union, in the political orbit of the Democratic party, disclosed in its financial report to the ILGWU convention here that it already has a political war-chest of $288,621 ready for use in the national campaign.

This sum represents an unused reserve of voluntary contributions collected in the past from among its 445,000 members.

Dubinsky estimated confidently that it will be supplemented by another $250,000, whose collection will begin soon for the forthcoming national campaigns.

Dubinsky has indicated a preference for Adlai E. Stevenson as the Democratic presidential nominee, but is also on cordial terms with Gov. Averell Harriman, of New York, who received an ovation when he addressed the ILGWU convention Saturday.

The ILGWU reported that it has gross assets, including reserves restricted for future pension and welfare payments to its members, of $236,567,291. This represents an increase of about $67,000,000 over 1953.

The union, in a financial report that presented it as perhaps the country's wealthiest union, listed $44,000,000 of this amount as "net liquid assets" in the hands of its national office in New York, its local unions, and joint boards and departments throughout the country.

The union's past record in spending contributions for national political campaigns, indicates that it will not spend the full amount that it collects for this year's elections.

Last of Quadruplets Dies.

URGES BANK BACKING FOR INTEREST PLAN

Association President Calls for Change in State Fund Handling.

Bankers should support the proposal to amend Missouri's Constitution to allow the state to earn interest on idle funds, R. A. Evans, president of the Missouri Bankers Association, declared today. He spoke at the opening of the association's sixty-sixth convention at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

The Constitution now requires that state funds be kept in demand deposits, which under federal banking laws can draw no interest. The Missouri Bankers Association has never opposed revision of this requirement to permit the state to receive interest on its multi-million dollar deposits in Missouri banks, said Evans, who is president of the Central National Bank at Carthage.

On the contrary, he said, the association urged Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to place the matter of revision on the agenda of the State Legislature's special session. Complying with this request, the Governor sent the Legislature a special message last April 4.

Immediately after the Governor acted, Evans sent each member of the bankers association two letters, including a proposed resolution in the House of Representatives and one in the Senate. He reminded the bankers that the letters had requested them to get in touch with their Representative and Senator and let the legislators know "that we would support either and were favorable to both."

In a note of censure, the president told the convention: "I regret to advise you here assembled that very few of you individually mentioned the matter to either your Representatives or Senators. The General Assembly passed a joint resolution that will probably result in the State Treasurer investing all state money not needed for current operations in Government bonds having one year or less to run, or in time deposits in Missouri banks, or both."

Continuing, Evans declared: "We feel Missouri bankers should support this resolution for amendment of our Constitution at the general election next November. And we also feel the council of administration, the legislative committee and each member should watch very carefully all enabling legislation at the next regular session of the Legislature, designed to implement the amendment, to the end that the State Treasurer be encouraged to place all these funds in banks in the state on time deposit rather than to invest in government bonds. This money, raised through taxes within the state, should until spent remain in the state for the use of its citizens."

FTC CHARGES ORDERED DISMISSED BY EXAMINER

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—A Federal Trade Commission examiner yesterday ordered dismissal of charges that Evis Manufacturing Co. of San Francisco had misrepresented advantages of a water conditioner which "it produces. Examiner Abner E. Lipscomb said evidence in support of the FTC complaint was either lacking or inconclusive.

The complaint contended the company falsely claimed that the conditioner—an oversized pipe coupling—would treat hard water and eliminate destructive effects of water on pipes. Lipscomb said extensive hearings led him to conclude that the conditioner might operate as represented.

"We must not take the risk of interfering with the development of a device which may prove to be the first practical application of a scientific principle heretofore undiscovered," he said.

The decision may be appealed, stayed or scheduled for review.

'Tear Down Your Rival Before You Run,' Was Chotiner's Advice At Republican Campaign School

Nixon's Former Manager Covered Wide Spectrum of Political Techniques—'People Must Think They Are Choosing Candidate'—'Smear' Defined.

By RUSSELL BAKER

The New York Times News Service
(Copyright 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

THE FIRST STEP toward attaining public office, according to Murray Chotiner, is to tear down your opponent before you start to run.

This was a fundamental part of a formula for successful political campaigning that was designed by Chotiner. He was campaign manager in 1952 for Richard M. Nixon, now Vice President.

Chotiner included this idea with scores of other pieces of advice for the present-day Republican campaigner in a speech that he delivered to the 48 state chairmen at the Republican National Committee's campaign school in Washington last September.

The press was barred from the meeting, so that Chotiner's advice to Republican candidates had been kept secret until today.

A transcript showed that he delivered an informal but comprehensive speech of 12,000 words that covered a wide spectrum of political techniques. The subject matter ranged from the use of and defense against the "smear" to the art of using pink paper to suggest that an opponent had "leftist" political opinions.

Nixon's Classic Example.

The speech was illustrated with examples from the campaigns of Vice President Nixon and Senator William F. Knowland of California.

Nixon's 1952 television rebuttal of Democratic attacks on his private campaign fund was cited as a "classic" example "that will live in all political history" of the art of answering a dangerous political attack.

Chotiner's rule for such a situation was: "... when you answer it, do so with an attack of your own against the opposition for having launched it in the first place."

Chotiner's remarkable success as a campaign manager for California Republicans brought him before the state chairman last fall under the auspices of the Republican National Committee.

More recently, he has figured indirectly in a Senate investigation of corruption in the procurement of military uniforms. For this reason he is expected to be excluded from any formal role with the national committee or in Nixon's campaign this year.

In his speech, which is still available to the party, Chotiner told the Republican leaders that the committee felt "the things I am about to give you" must necessarily "be used for each one of the campaigns in your state."

Deflate Opposition.

His first rule was that a good campaign must start at least a year before election day. "You need that time to deflate your opposition," Chotiner explained. "Some people, he noted, dislike the 'deflation' approach and prefer a 'constructive campaign.'"

"I say to you in all sincerity that if you do not deflate the opposition candidate before your own campaign gets started, the odds are that you are going to be doomed to defeat," he said.

"Like it or not," he argued, "the American people in many instances vote against a candidate, when it is directed to our own candidate." In this case, "you don't answer anything until you are convinced that the opposition has ... completely saturated the field on the subject regarding your own candidate."

The attack might not have registered and a quick reply would help publicize it more widely, he said.

PEARSON

George Failed to Reveal Keck Gift of $5000 to G.O.P. Fund

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright 1956.)

NOW that the venerable Senator George of Georgia has announced his intention to retire from the Senate and become President Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO, a hitherto undisclosed incident involving Senator George and the White House can be revealed.

Senator George recently wound up the chairmanship of a special committee to investigate the $2500 offered to Senator Francis Case (Rep.), South Dakota, on behalf of Howard B. Keck of Superior Oil during the natural gas battle.

In the course of the investigation, the committee unearthed another check for twice that money from the same Keck, this one given to the Eisenhower dinner right in the middle of the Senate's gas debate. Senator Case returned the $5000, but the $5000 check from Keck for the Eisenhower dinner was not returned by the Republican National Committee or by the White House.

Considerable pressure was put on Senator George's committee by the White House to make the Keck contribution public. Some committee members felt that since the gift to Case came from exactly the same H. B. Keck and Superior Oil, the larger gift to the Eisenhower dinner should be disclosed also.

There was also some Senatorial resentment that President Eisenhower, in his veto message,

FLEESON

Douglas May Try Again for Finance Unit

Illinois Fiscal Liberal Would Breach Senate Conservatives.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

THE late George Norris, the fighting liberal from Nebraska, once said that Americans would have to vote progressively for 20 years to become a truly progressive nation because it would take at least that long to capture the Senate Finance Committee. No Senator would disagree.

The Senate Finance Committee handles the pocketbook issues, including taxes and social security. It is the outward and visible bulwark of the conservative coalition of Southern Democrats and right-wing Republicans which has effectively run the Congress since 1938.

One death, one impending retirement and one illness within the space of weeks have reached into Senate Finance. Senator Barkley is gone. Senator George, its ranking Democrat, will retire Dec. 31 next. Senator Millikin, its ranking Republican, whose term expires this year, is crippled with arthritis he can come to the floor only in a wheel chair.

Further, its carefully constructed conservative walls are about to be breached by the ablest fiscal liberal of Illinois. Arguing that it is not necessary to be a wastrel to be a liberal, Douglas is the Senate's most vocal foe of the pork barrel of local public works projects. He is a lucid economist and a good debater.

When Democrats recaptured the Senate in 1954, Douglas tried to assert a seniority claim to membership on Finance. How Majority Leader Johnson of Texas handled that and Finance membership generally clearly illustrates why so many northern Democrats find his leadership frustrating in spite of its technical brilliance.

It was no mean feat for there were three vacancies for Democrats to fill on the committee.

Alben Barkley, the beloved Veep had just returned modestly to the back row of the Senate.

WHY EMERSON OFFERS ENGINEERS MORE ...

"Wide Choice of Fields and Projects at Emerson Sets Pace for Advancement," Says Harry Williams

"It just naturally follows that anyone who likes his job is going to do a better job. At Emerson, with its wide diversification of projects, you can almost name your favorite engineering field and it's yours. There's radar, servo mechanism, computing mechanisms, structures and instrument design to mention just a few," says Harry Williams, Production Project Engineer.

Williams' career is a good example of the diversified experience Emerson offers its engineers. From college in 1949, Harry began as Calibration Engineer. Next position—Flight Test Engineer and from there on to Flight Test Project Engineer to Assistant Development Engineer to his present position.

If you're an engineer who would like to get on the ground floor of a growing, medium size company, join Harry Williams and go places with Emerson.

ate as the junior Senator from Kentucky. Who could deny him his old place on Finance?

The majority leader then exercised his prerogative of committee choice and took the second vacancy. Senator Smathers of Florida had the requisite seniority for the third.

Earlier Members.

Earlier under the Johnson leadership Senator Long of Louisiana had inherited the spot left by the retirement of Senator Connally of Texas. Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, oil millionaire and author of the natural gas bill vetoed by Harry Truman, was already there.

Only California of the tidelands oil states remain unrepresented.

But on the Republican side virtually all finance members are from states producing oil or other minerals. They include Millikin of Colorado, Martin of Pennsylvania, Flanders of Vermont, Malone of Nevada, Carlson of Kansas and Bennett of Utah.

It is an almost unbeatable setup for the controversial mineral depletion tax allowance of 27½ per cent, an arrangement which makes mineral producers, notably oilmen, the most favored class of taxpayers in the nation.

MEMBERS OF HOUSE GROUP OPPOSE NARCOTICS CLINICS

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP)—Representative Howard H. Baker (Rep.), Tennessee, said yesterday that members of the House Ways and Means subcommittee on narcotics unanimously oppose proposals for establishment of narcotics clinics for drug addicts.

He said an addict would seek more than the minimum daily supply of narcotics provided through controlled and regulated sources under the clinic plan.

"He will get it in the illicit market, committing any crime to get it," he added.

Dr. Herbert Berger, medical consultant to the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service Hospital and the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, spoke out in favor of such clinics.

The opposing views were presented to an audience of nurses on the eve of the American Nurses' Association's fortieth convention.

Eisenhower's Popularity in The Farm Belt

10 Pct. Below National Level—Polls on Aid Program Issues.

By JOHN M. FENTON

Gallup Poll Staff Representative.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 4.

WHILE the politicians of both parties are debating the merits of flexible and rigid price supports, the average farmer in the Midwest today is likely to view any farm measure as "just another scheme out of Washington."

The typical farmer is not following the ins and outs of farm legislation, and he would be hard put to tell which party is responsible for the latest maneuver designed to help him.

In short, the farmer is a little bit overwhelmed by all the talk of "soil banks," 75 to 90 per cent of parity, and the "two-price plan."

He looks at his hard-hit pocketbook, considers the low prices he just got for the hogs he took to market, and offers his token to the farm problem:

"Get my prices up!"

This reporter has just returned from a tour of the Farm Belt. With another member of the Princeton staff and 50 resident reporters from the field staff, we tried to find out not only how the farmer feels but why he feels that way.

Here is the vote on President Eisenhower's popularity with Midwestern farmers today, as well as that on Secretary of Agriculture Benson. The President's popularity, although relatively high, is 10 points below the level at which it stands on a national-wide scale.

Question: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his job as President?"

Approve — — — — — 62%
Disapprove — — — — — 27%

Question: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Secretary Benson is handling his job?"

Approve — — — — — 27%
Disapprove — — — — — 57%
No opinion — — — — — 16%

The disapproval of Benson comes largely from farmers classifying themselves as Democrats and Independents. About four out of ten Republican

Dwight D. Eisenhower May Be 'New Genius' in White House

George Appointment, Farm and Gas Bill Vetoes Were Master Strokes—Belief Growing President Conceived Them.

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

"WHO'S THE NEW GENIUS in the White House?" The question was asked, rather sourly, by a leading Democrat when he heard of the President's appointment of Senator Walter George of Georgia as his personal ambassador to NATO. The question was a tribute to the move as a political master stroke.

The appointment will be popular everywhere, but especially in the South, as a generous gesture to an admired elder statesman.

But that is not the only plus for the Administration. The George appointment blunts Democratic charges that the Administration has abandoned bipartisanship. As the President's personal envoy, the revered George will also serve as a lightning rod to divert Democratic criticism of the Administration's foreign policy.

Moreover, as the question quoted above suggests, the George appointment is only the latest in a series of sure-footed and brilliantly timed White House moves, which have kept the Democrats off balance and at a loss for winning issues. Leaving the merits of the issues to one side, consider the political aspects of the President's two major vetoes in this session of Congress.

Framed to Force Veto.

It is no secret that a presidential veto of the farm bill was precisely what very large numbers of Democrats thirsted for, to provide them with a winning issue. Indeed, some provisions of the farm bill were carefully framed to force a veto. But especially since the President scored so high in the Indiana primaries, the Democrats are beginning to wonder whether the veto will prove quite the bonanza they had counted on.

The President's fireside chat on the veto was effective. Much of the political curse was removed from the veto, moreover, when the Administration, quietly abandoning the policy of flexible supports, raised the sensitive crops to within a few points of 90 per cent. Then the Administration proposed prepayments to farmers under the soil bank plan (which would have been denounced as fiscal madness if the Democrats had proposed it). This was the unkindest cut of all—it put the Democrats in the horrid position of refusing money to the beleaguered farmers in an election year.

'Giveaway' Issue Blunted.

From a straight political viewpoint, the gas bill veto was unquestionably a brilliant move. It put the Administration morally on the side of the angels and blunted the "giveaway" issue. At the same time, the powerful gas and oil interests were put on notice that they would get what they wanted eventually—but only if the Republicans remained in control of the White House.

Or take the Administration's fiscal policy. The budget submitted to Congress by the President early this year forecast a very close balance, based on exceedingly conservative estimates of revenue. A fat little surplus now appears in prospect.

Budget experts have reported to the Democratic leadership that the administrative surplus should be around two billion dollars, the cash surplus around four billion dollars. The more the Democratic leaders debate what to do about the surplus, the more aware they become that they are in a box.

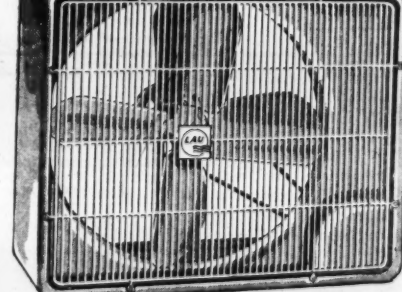

If they propose a tax cut, they will split their own party on the issue and be accused of fiscal irresponsibility and trying to buy the election. If they do nothing, they will permit the Administration to take credit for a tax cut, or for reducing the debt, or a little of both. The Democrats darkly suspect

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Why St. Louis Needs Parks

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I write this letter in the hope it will help eliminate a condition which exists every summer on our city streets—the playing of ball by our school children.
As we motored around a corner at a low rate of speed the other day a boy trying to catch a ball ran directly into the path of our car. Had my husband been going faster he probably would have injured the child, perhaps seriously.
The parents were seated on the porch and reprimanded my husband for not watching where he was going. After this terrible experience my husband was so upset we went home, he a nervous wreck and I too ill to eat.
When a motorist speeds he gets a ticket. Why isn't the law forbidding children playing in the streets upheld? Why do our police cars pass the intersections but not look at the children in the streets?
I hope Chief O'Connell sees this and helps save a life.
MRS. R. L. BALZER.

George vs. Talmadge

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Your editorial lament over the coming retirement of Senator Walter F. George of Georgia is a nice personal compliment to him.
Your expression of profound regret that his seat in the Senate will apparently be taken by former Gov. Herman Talmadge is a presumptuous challenge of the right of the people of the sovereign state of Georgia to exercise their own judgment in choosing a Senator to represent them.
There is no doubt in my mind, based upon reliable reports, that the majority of voters in Georgia presently favor Mr. Talmadge over Senator George. Mr. George's announced decision not to seek re-election was obviously prompted by his desire to avoid a humiliating defeat which was practically certain if he opposed Mr. Talmadge.

In my opinion, the interests of the people of Georgia and the rest of the United States will be much better served by Mr. Talmadge in the Senate than by Mr. George. Mr. Talmadge is opposed to dissipating the taxpayers' money in foreign kidnapping, for which Senator George has been so willing to make appropriations while giving lip service in opposition to such futile and wasteful spending.

Senator George wishes to oblige himself to support President Eisenhower's give-away program by accepting the bribery offer of a presidential appointment as personal ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the people of Georgia will have full proof of his wisdom in rejecting him as their Senator.
BERT A. DOERING.

Good Tydings

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In the interest of fair play and justice, a lot of good citizens all over the country will be glad to see Millard Tydings of Maryland returned to the Senate, where he served with honor and distinction.
A lot of us also will be glad to see a well-deserved rebuke administered to those who perpetrated the despicable spurious picture fraud on the good people of Maryland. E.E.L.

The Antiquity of Pensions

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Since when did you and Gen. Bradley become so all-wise that you believe in upsetting tradition as old as the country itself, with respect to the payment of pensions for war service?
You speak of undeserved benefits to war veterans. Please explain why citizens happening to fall into certain age groups should bear the burden of wars. Isn't it conceivable that other citizens could sacrifice a little of the sinews of war-money?
Gen. Bradley, a recipient of a pension himself, has no appreciation of the feelings of the man who got $30 per month and $60 upon discharge.
With as much propriety, you can criticize the federal Constitution and the Declaration of Independence as you can pensions for war service. They are all the same age.
CONSERVATIVE.

To Benefit Lincoln U.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Lincoln University at Jefferson City was founded after the Civil War by a handful of Negro soldiers who dedicated their lives to the betterment of their race. Uneducated and illiterate as they were, they recognized that educated freed men would make better citizens than uneducated ones.
Many young people in Missouri would be denied an opportunity for further training if this school did not exist. Lincoln University has put education within the grasp of many poor people.
Recent studies show that the need for institutions of higher learning is on the rise. Now that Lincoln University is integrated it needs only "status" with the State Legislature, knowledge that it is going to exist and equal treatment with other institutions of the state.
In assessing Lincoln University's future we heartily support your suggestion for a survey. However, any future course must be one in which faculty and student body would benefit and not suffer.
SANFORD E. BELL, President, Greater St. Louis Chapter Lincoln University Alumni Association

Taking Off the Heat

The Sidney Hatkin case has been handled according to a formula of the Eisenhower Administration that has been well-tested and apparently is widely approved in dubious "security risk" situations. It is a formula far less satisfactory to those whose reputations are at stake and to those who believe in the dignity of the individual than it is to the high command around the White House.

The express purpose of this formula is to take the heat off the responsible officials.

Mr. Hatkin was suspended 14 months ago without pay from his post as an economist in the statistical services of the Air Force. In all this time he was one of hundreds of Government employees who had been suspended and hence were unable to obtain suitable employment because of the cloud over their names.

All this changed just a little more than a week ago. Former Senator Harry P. Cain, for three years an Eisenhower appointee to the Subversive Activities Control Board, planted a bomb under the slumbering Department of Justice. Mr. Cain was exactly right in doing so.

The former Republican Senator from Washington made a speech in New York in which he told the Hatkin case in detail, including his own official experience with it. He did not mention Mr. Hatkin by name but this link was quickly established, and President Eisenhower acknowledged it at his press conference Wednesday.

Why was Mr. Hatkin suspended 14 months ago?

After combing the 525 pages of the transcript in the Hatkin case and its 60-odd affidavits, letters and statements, former Senator Cain could find nothing more substantial than such charges as these:

1. The subject belonged to the Washington Bookshop, from about 1940 to 1942.
2. He was an active member of the CIO United Public Workers of America, from 1944 to about 1948.
3. In 1948 and for several years thereafter he associated with Alfred Bernstein, thought to have been a member or associated with the Communist party.
4. He and his wife registered as a member of the American Labor party in the Bronx in 1937.
5. Some of his "in-laws" did likewise.

The only one of these complaints, as we have listed them, that should be looked at a second time is No. 3. But it has no meaning of itself. Should President Eisenhower be labeled a security risk because he has associated with Marshal Zhukov and has been friendly to the point of writing letters and sending gifts to his onetime Soviet military counterpart? The answer is obviously a resounding No.

Actually Mr. Hatkin was taken off classified work in April 1954—more than two years ago. As former Senator Cain said in his speech in New York, after "two years the Department of the Air Force still can't make up its mind." Describing this case as typical of a "twentieth century American tragedy," Mr. Cain said that "here we see the impersonality of bureaucratic heartlessness operating at its lowest level."

After his own long and painstaking personal study of the case, the Eisenhower appointee to the Subversive Control Board says he agrees "wholeheartedly" with two of the superiors of Mr. Hatkin concerning his "loyalty, reliability and trustworthiness." This conclusion is that "it would be in the national interest to restore the subject," as they "would like to have him back and working under his SECRET clearance."

When Mr. Cain turned the spotlight of what Woodrow Wilson called "pitiless publicity" on the case, something had to be done. The President spoke some reassuring generalities at his press conference, saying that he had utmost confidence in Air Force Secretary Quarles who had the case in hand.

Now Secretary Quarles has moved to take the heat off himself the while leaving Mr. Hatkin on the hook. The suspended man has been restored to duty but in a "nonsensitive" post. Secretary Quarles says that his personal review leads him to conclude that "it would not be consistent with the interests of national security to have Mr. Hatkin in a sensitive position."

Thus it is the Annie Lee Moss case again. It is the Wolf Ladejinsky case again. It is other cases that might be cited—all over again. What ever else happens, officialdom must be made to look good, come what may!

We congratulate Harry P. Cain for bringing this to the country's attention. If he had not done so, we can be sure that not even the first moves toward correction would have been made.

Brief Bow to Trader Lane

Monday is a good day for a modest bow to Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals. We reserve the full salutation for further testing.

On Friday Mr. Lane announced he was trading Harvey Haddix, popular dean of the Redbird pitching staff, and two other pitchers to Philadelphia in return for Murry Dickson and Herman Wehmeier. The latter two are, in baseball parlance, "well-traveled veterans." Moreover, their combined record this year was five defeats, no victories.

Thus on Friday many baseball fans were wondering whether Trader Lane's crystal ball had clouded over, or what. But on Monday we may review the record. The Cards won a Sunday doubleheader over their old nemesis, Chicago, with Murry Dickson pitching a six-hitter in the opener, getting two hits and driving in a run. Cousin Wehmeier stopped a Cub uprising late in the second game, pitching hitless ball.

Over in Pittsburgh, Harvey Haddix's left arm allowed six hits and six runs in six innings, and the Phils lost handily.

So, for the moment, it appears that Trader Lane's crystal ball was clear as a bright mid-afternoon in June. Only thing is, this is May.

Good Start on a Water Clean-Up

An attack on stream pollution problems by representatives of Missouri, Illinois, the Bi-State Development Agency, and the United States Government, has got off to a promising start. Under the leadership of Milton M. Kinsey, chief engineer of the Bi-State Agency, the conferees, principally engaged in public health, plan a campaign based on voluntary effort reinforced by public opinion. They sound as though they mean business, and we earnestly hope they do.

The method of operation they plan to follow is to set up a timetable of improvement for municipalities and industries. A check is to be made on the timetable every six months, and public reports will be made, showing progress or lack of it by individual communities and plants, which will be named.

The clean-up group starts off with the attitude that it expects a large measure of voluntary co-operation. That is, we think, an eminently proper attitude, and the one in which the greatest amount of voluntary co-operation is likely to flourish. Half-hearted foot-draggers may be prodded into line by the public reports. But for whole-hearted foot-draggers more than private request or public rebuke will be needed. For them—and they may be crucial to the whole project—the only answer is compulsion by law. Missouri's laws on water pollution are weak.

At the same time as the clean-up conference group is moving ahead with its voluntary program, it should be giving attention to the drafting and promotion of model laws which will enable Missouri, finally, to halt further pollution of its streams and make some progress on cleaning up the pollution already existing.

Next, Social Security

Another "pocketbook" issue, comparable to the farm bill, is on its way to a showdown in the Senate following rejection by Senator Byrd's Finance Committee of two social security law revisions. As both changes are also opposed by the Administration, the controversy is certain to have strong political overtones.

One revision would permit women to retire and start drawing benefits at 62 instead of 65. The committee rejected this except in the case of widows. A strong case can also be made for permitting the wife of a retired man to start drawing benefits at an earlier age than he does, since so many wives are a few years younger than their husbands.

But why working women should become eligible for social security retirement benefits at an earlier age than men is not at all clear. This is against the trend of private pension systems, most of which provide a uniform retirement age, and against the trend of modern life, which finds women as well as men both living longer and working longer than they used to.

The second revision killed by the Finance Committee is the long-discussed proposal for permitting a permanently disabled person to start drawing his social security benefits at age 50. There is no question about the desirability of providing such protection for persons who lose their earning capacity before reaching retirement age. Nor should the costs be excessive if adequate safeguards can be devised to prevent abuses of the privilege.

It is true, however, as Secretary of Welfare Folsom testified before the committee, that lack of experience with a national disability benefit system makes it difficult to forecast costs precisely or to estimate the enforceability of safeguards. In these circumstances perhaps Congress would be wiser to establish disability benefits at a higher age—55 or 60—until experience has been accumulated on which to judge whether the age can be lowered without putting an unfair burden on the great body of working people who with their employers will pay the costs.

If the Senate should restore in full both the disability-at-50 and women's-retirement-at-62 provisions, social security taxes will have to go up by some 1.7 billion dollars a year to pay for them. For a factory worker with $4200 income this would mean an increase in social security tax from $84 to $105, which would be nearly double the $54 he was paying prior to last year's increase.

Thoughts Whilst Standing Up

The intelligence that straps are coming back on at least some St. Louis Public Service Co. vehicles, at least experimentally, may be meaningful to the lexicographer, but will mean little to the passenger. In the lexicographer's lexicon the person holding onto a strap is a strap-hanger. No word has been compounded to denote one holding onto a stanchion, least of all stanchion-holder.

As for the unfortunate stanchion who finds himself out of reach of either stanchion or strap (whichever a thoughtful management has in its wisdom supplied) and who can only (a) rock and reel, or (b) clutch at other passengers, scarcely anyone has as much as thought of trying to think up a word. Aisle-reeler or passenger-clutcher would seem simply not to fill the bill.

With strap-hanger, the lexicographer is back on familiar ground. As for the passenger, his sole interest in the entire matter is to be a seat-holder, a state to which he considers both his payment of a fare and the dignity of Man entitle him. If he is anything else, little cares he what it may be called.

Case of the Missing Frogman

Those were splendid yarns that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle spun back around the turn of the century concerning Sherlock Holmes, the greatest of all detectives in crime fiction. Who can forget "A Study in Scarlet," "The Hound of the Baskervilles" and "The Adventure of the Creeping Man"? Baffling, weird and fearsome they were but the lean and tautum sleuth, he of the ear-flapped traveling cap, solved them all.

If the old master, Sir Arthur, were alive today one could safely wager three bob and a tanner that he would speedily tie himself to 221-B Baker street, rout out Sherlock Holmes and his inseparable friend and chronicler, the chubby Dr. Watson, and set them on that great international mystery, "The Case of the Missing Frogman." There indeed is a mystery worthy of Sherlock Holmes at his keenest.

Two weeks after the crack Soviet Russian cruiser Orjoniokidze anchored in Portsmouth harbor and disembarked Nikita Khrushchev and Nikolai Bulganin, it was disclosed that a British frogman had disappeared in the vicinity of the warship. He was Lt. Comdr. Lionel Crabb, a British reserve officer with a distinguished service record. A Russian Embassy spokesman said a Soviet lookout on the Orjoniokidze had spotted a British frogman 20 yards from the cruiser.

Why was the frogman operating in the vicinity of the cruiser? Was he checking on its underwater armor and antisubmarine equipment or was he foiling some nefarious plot to blow up the cruiser just as the U.S.S. Maine in 1898 was mysteriously blown up in Havana harbor? Did he perish in performing his mission? Was he captured by the Russian sailors and perchance now sits in a Moscow dungeon?

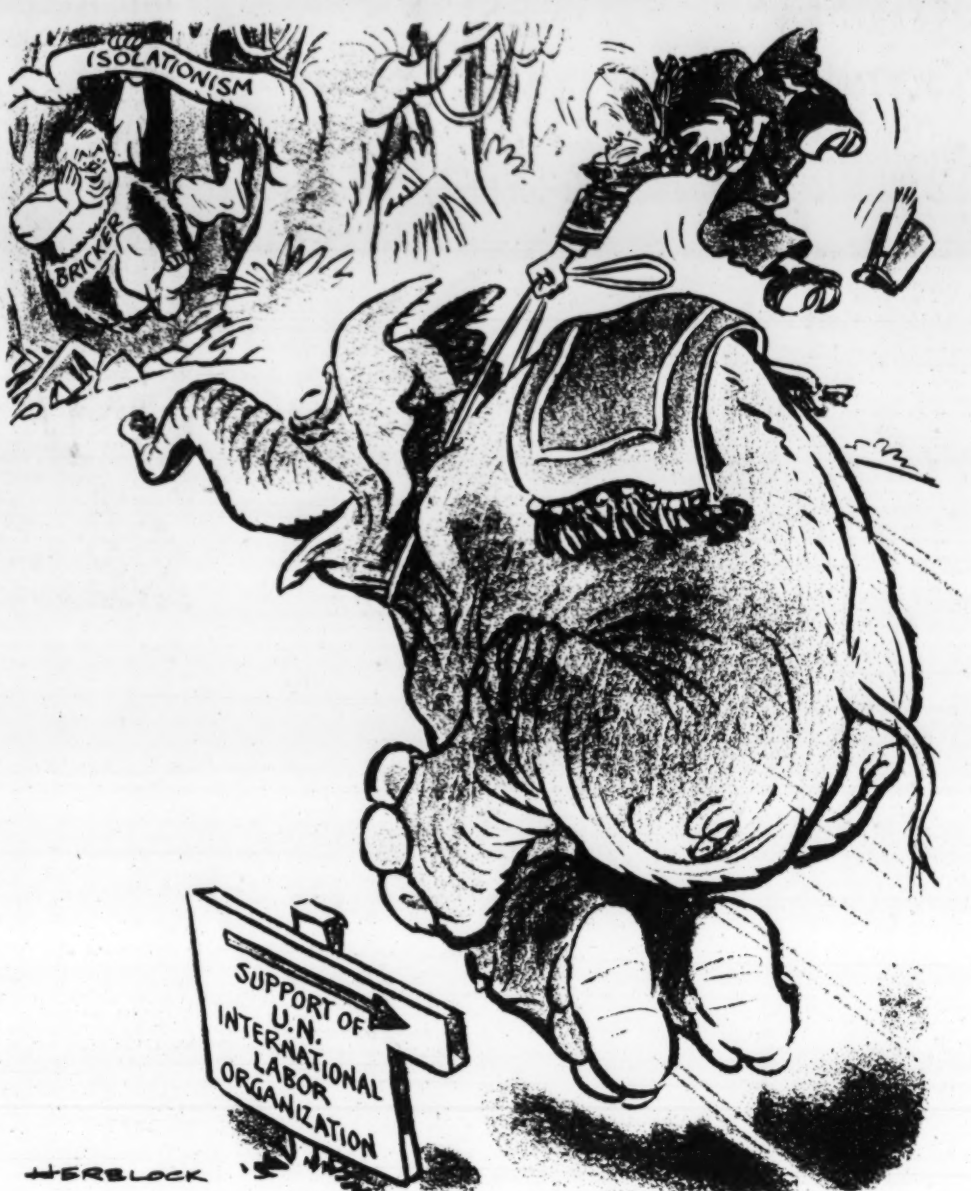

Those are difficult questions to us but we know that the incomparable and completely elucubated sleuth, Sherlock Holmes, would have found the answers. "Elementary, my dear Watson, elementary."

New Group With Promise

The Bar Association of St. Louis has climaxed a year's study of the problem of legal services in this community by announcing formation of a Legal Aid Society. The purpose of the new organization will be to help improve and enlarge legal facilities for persons without legal means to pay for such services.

This decision is a credit to the recently retired president of the St. Louis bar, T. Hartley Pollock, to John E. Curby, chairman of the committee which made the study, and to all others who took part. For there can be no justice when accused persons or others in need of legal guidance cannot obtain it.

Legal Aid societies have earned lasting reputations for themselves in New York, Boston and many other cities. May the new group in St. Louis make a similar contribution to the administration of justice in this community!

Capital Punishment: Pro and Con Between Book Ends

Governors, judges, prosecutors, wardens, chaplains oppose death penalty while few defend it; say it does not deter crime, leaves no chance to correct mistakes, does not benefit criminal or kin of his victim; it is based on anger and ignores value of human life.

From a Symposium in The Nation, New York

Governors, state attorneys general, prison wardens and chaplains, as well as the general public have written many letters — the great majority of them supporting The Nation's stand against capital punishment. Here is a sampling:

I have never favored capital punishment and six years as governor of a state which does not impose the death penalty has merely served to reinforce that conviction.
The murderer more often than not is one of the best prospects for parole. In most instances the crime for which he was sentenced was his first serious offense—a single violent act committed under extreme provocation which it is unlikely would ever be repeated.
Here in Wisconsin all murderers who are sentenced to life terms are eventually paroled, and experience has shown that they generally establish outstanding records and ultimately are pardoned.
WALTER J. KOHLER, Governor of Wisconsin.

I have now been in law enforcement for some 12 years. I have grave doubts as to the efficacy of capital punishment. I think that it could well promote violence rather than deter it.
EDMUND G. BROWN, Attorney General of California.

I have been mildly opposed to capital punishment, but the brutal bombing of 44 airborne travelers has convinced me that capital punishment should be continued.
EDWIN C. JOHNSON, Governor of Colorado.

It is punishment as a concept of which we should take a fresh look. Actually the process of taking such a fresh look is well under way, for we find in the federal prison system and in California a rather full range of penological institutions from the fortress to the open farm.
This whole development is bringing into existence effective methods of rehabilitation. In the institutions that follow this philosophy the repeater rate has gone way down.

With the growth of this new kind of penology the death penalty is likely to wither away naturally, but this is no reason to relax the direct attack on it.
J. E. OVERLADE, Warden, Indiana State Prison, Michigan City, Ind.

I am highly in favor of capital punishment for certain crimes. In North Carolina, the death penalty is the punishment for first-degree murder, first-degree burglary, rape and arson. However, our statutes have been amended and now the jury may, in its discretion, recommend life imprisonment in every instance.
WILLIAM B. RODMAN JR., Assistant Attorney General, North Carolina.

I believe the state has lost its right to take a life. In our courts there have been too many deals, too many fixes, very little uniformity in applying the law.
Just this summer I accompanied a man to the chair, a pathetic case, and we fought to the end. His partner, the actual accomplice, was given the opportunity to plead guilty to second-degree murder and thereby get a life sentence. This to me is a farce.

Basically the state has its right to take a life, but to exercise this right it must exercise perfect consistency. Since deviation is so obvious, capital punishment should be abolished.
Nothing is more inhuman than an execution. I believe that all judges, prosecutors, even jurors if possible, should be made to witness an execution, then they might think much more sincerely and seriously before giving the death penalty.

It is far greater punishment to make a man serve a life sentence (25-year minimum) than to snuff out his life.
J. W. REYNOLDS, Catholic Chaplain, Connecticut State Prison, Wethersfield, Conn.

The death penalty is an expression of society's own sadism and cruelty. The periodic expression of these attitudes through the dramatic and well-publicized ritual of executing a criminal reinforces, encourages and caters to psychopathic tendencies, particularly among impressionable youth.
ISIDORE ZIFERSTEIN, M.D., Los Angeles, Calif.

My opposition to capital punishment is based on the fact that it is not fulfilling its purpose. It does not seem to be a deterrent.
E. R. CALLISTER, Attorney General of Utah.

Russian Moves and Motives

SIX KEYS TO THE SOVIET SYSTEM, by Bertram D. Wolfe. (Beacon Press, 273 pp., $3.75.)

Bertram D. Wolfe, chief ideological adviser to the Voice of America during the Korean war, has fashioned six "keys," or chapters, for analyzing the Soviet system. They are the nature of totalitarianism, internal struggles for power, complete control of education and culture, Russian imperialism, the worker, and elections—the rigged voting without opposition candidates and the "election by feet" of the millions who fled Communist countries.

This study consists of articles previously published, one as far back as 1941, and brought up to date with footnotes. It is poorly organized but very cohesive. All in all, it is the best book to come to this reviewer's attention for explaining Russian moves and motives of the past 15 years and their future implications.

Although he writes for the specialists' periodical Foreign Affairs, where most of the work originally appeared, Wolfe has a dramatic flair and easy style that reaches the general reader, too.

A former Communist, the author has been a Russian specialist since 1917. Is a historian and author of "Three Who Made Revolution." While opinionated, he is not dogmatic, usually lets the facts speak for themselves, and has a knack of putting an event in its complete setting. His insights are profound and many, but they occasionally run away from him. Also, Russia may be more realistic than he credits.

In a brief epilogue, prepared as a State Department memorandum in 1953 and now declassified, Wolfe outlines a plan for turning Russia's propaganda guns on her.

The conflict between Russia and the United States he sees as not one of economic systems or nations or even between the free and slave worlds but "between the nature of men, whatever their creed or culture, and a form of government which would deprive them of their humanity." The ultimate danger is of the total state identifying itself with society rather than "the state as an element of society."

Democracy, it is pointed out, requires checks and balances and political opposition with restraint, things which must be safeguarded by traditions and customs of a people, who must exercise "eternal vigilance."

The present Soviet leaders are held to be Stalin's disciples. The collective leadership is seen as transitory, for a "dictatorship demands a dictator." Soviet control of propaganda and education is so complete—and planned—that history is constantly rewritten, heroes become "unpersons," and scientific principles are decided and countermanded by Communist party dictation.

Actually, except for a few top leaders, party members are just "transmission belts" for carrying out orders.

The author predicted the second or Bolshevik Revolution in Russia in 1917. Other anticipations of history were that Poland would lose its independence, the loss of the Chinese mainland when Stalin was recognizing Chiang Kai-shek exclusively, and the decline of Malenkov when he was top man.

Revolution in the Schools

SCHOOLS FOR THE NEW NATION, edited by Frank G. Lopez. (F. W. Dodge, 1975.)

All over America modern schools are springing up like mushrooms, in physical appearance at least, bear no resemblance to the orthodox school buildings of the past. Our conception of school requirements has undergone a complete revolution, for one thing. The extent of that revolution is indicated in this volume, which examines in detail 66 new school designs in all parts of the country. Each building is shown in plan and photograph, with relevant cost and technical data.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Talmadge Worries Democratic Leaders

WASHINGTON. NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY LEADERS are disturbed over the prospect of having Herman Talmadge, white supremacy crusader, as successor to Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, who has withdrawn as a candidate for re-election and will retire next January.

Apprehension about the probable entry of the highly controversial former Georgia Governor onto the national stage, where he would be a constant irritant to the party, was a companion reaction to the very deep and sincere regret among Republicans as well as Democrats over the coming retirement of the distinguished and highly respected Senator George. Among some Democrats, the looming figure of Herman Talmadge caused almost a shudder.

Talmadge

The prospective exchange, or rather the notice of it, was badly timed for peace of mind among Democrats. Party leaders, North as well as South, had been feeling much encouraged over two very recent blows dealt at racist extremism in the South.

Blow After Victories.

One was the resounding defeat administered by two powerful Texas Democratic political leaders—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn and Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson—to Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas.

In his desperation, Gov. Shivers had tried to exploit racial prejudice in his effort to win election as chairman of the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention in Chicago in August.

He sought this position of influence even though four years ago he bolted the Democratic party and went over to Gen. Eisenhower. The people of Texas rose up and smote him.

The other rebuke of extremism was delivered in Florida where Gov. LeRoy Collins won re-election—tantalizing there to election—over a field of contestants in a race where an attempt was made to stir up animosity against him over the Supreme Court's public school integration decision.

Foe of Foreign Aid.

Democrats were feeling much better.

Now, like a dash of cold water, comes Herman Talmadge. It seems to be taken for granted that he will win—and easily—the September primary from which Senator George withdrew.

He has been campaigning since his retirement a year and a half ago as Governor, and with intensity in recent months. He has at his command a loyal organization which he built up as Governor and which he has carefully nurtured since.

To the national party leadership Talmadge signifies double trouble.

If elected, he would transfer to this capital city a Southerner who not only has been in the forefront of the fight against public school integration, and is seemingly ready to continue his crusade unflinchingly and unblushingly, but who has carried on a campaign against our financial aid to other nations which has been so harsh and sweeping a character as to put him almost in the class of old-fashioned, hard-bitten isolationists.

For 34 years the State of Georgia has escaped that sort of name and notoriety in its Senate representation—ever since, in fact, Senator George came here in 1922 to take the seat of the late Senator Tom Watson, a bitter racist and equally bitter foe of the League of Nations which, in that day, epitomized international cooperation.

Scarecrow for G.O.P.

Senator George has, in fact, been the shining emblem of the democratic party's long-time international co-operation policy.

Election of Talmadge to the Senate would double the Democratic party's extremist bloc in the South. The other half would be, of course, Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, whose name is so often on the lips of Republican campaigners these days as a scarecrow to drive Negroes in close-knit areas in the South away from the Democratic party and into the Republican party.

The addition of the Talmadge name would make a real bugaboo for Republican campaign purposes. The vulnerability for the Democrats embodied in Senator Eastland was multiplied recently when, through operation of the seniority rule, he became chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has jurisdiction over civil rights legislation.

Possibility of Change.

The measure of Talmadge's power as a champion of "white supremacy" was seen when Senator George, who never has capitalized upon the race issue, was induced to sign the so-called "Southern manifesto" against the Supreme Court's public school integration decision a few weeks ago when it became plain that Talmadge was a really dangerous threat to his continuance in the Senate. That was completely out of character for Senator George.

Some Southern party leaders are trying to console themselves by nursing the possibility that Talmadge might "change" when he comes to the Senate and that he might seek other issues, leaving the demagoging on the racial issue to Senator Eastland. He is, they argue to themselves, an intelligent and able political leader and, if he did, he might seek other issues, leaving the demagoging on the racial issue to Senator Eastland.

He is, they argue to themselves, an intelligent and able political leader and, if he did, he might seek other issues, leaving the demagoging on the racial issue to Senator Eastland.

JACOBY TOMB DEDICATED AS SHRINE FOR METHODISTS

The tomb of the Rev. Ludwig S. Jacoby, who founded the first German Methodist Church west of the Mississippi here, and whose wife was dedicated as a national Methodist shrine in ceremonies at Valhalla Cemetery yesterday. Members of Salem Methodist Church, which Jacoby founded in 1841, were on hand for the services. Officiating were Bishops Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis and Friedrich Wunderlich of Frankfurt, Germany, and Herman H. Luetzow, district superintendent of the Methodist Church of St. Louis. Jacoby, who died in 1874, and his wife, Amalie, who died in 1889, originally were buried in the old Salem cemetery, 6800 Natural Bridge road. When the cemetery was closed last year, the graves were moved to Valhalla.

CHARLES A. NORRIS DIES; FUNERAL ON WEDNESDAY

Charles A. Norris, district sales manager for Weaver Manufacturing Co., died of a heart ailment yesterday at his home at Lake Montewese near House Springs, in Jefferson county. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Norris was born in St. Louis and lived here until about 14 years ago. He was the son of Anthony H. Norris, retired vice president of the Continental Grain Co., who died in 1950.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Agnes Ellen Speaker Norris; his mother, Mrs. Anthony H. Norris, and a sister, Mrs. Richard E. Schillingwein, both of Richmond Heights. The funeral will be Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Ambuster undertaking establishment, 6633 Clayton road, Clayton, with entombment at Oak Grove Mausoleum.

CREMATION FOR CALHORN

NARA, Japan, May 14 (AP)—The body of veteran actor Louis Calharn, who died of a heart attack here Saturday, will be cremated in Japan and the ashes returned to Hollywood. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spokesman said there would be no funeral services here. Calharn was here for the filming of "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Mother's Day in Japan. TOKYO, May 14 (AP)—Empress Nagako received 800 Japanese mothers at the Imperial palace yesterday to mark the annual observance of Mother's day. The mothers gave the Empress, who has borne seven children a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

HIGH TRIBUTES PAID TO SISTERS OF MERCY

Archbishop Among Speakers at Centennial of Arrival in St. Louis.

The Catholic order of Sisters of Mercy was praised by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter and other speakers at Hotel Chase yesterday at a banquet celebrating the 100th anniversary of the order's arrival in St. Louis. Pat O'Brien, film actor, served as toastmaster.

Archbishop Ritter referred to the "Irish warmth and mirth and dignity" of the sisters, whose organization was founded in Ireland 122 years ago. He said they had brought to St. Louis the faith of St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland.

It was pointed out by the Rev. James T. Curtin, superintendent of diocesan high schools, that the Sisters of Mercy established the first parochial school for poor children here. The school was in St. Francis Xavier parish.

Some of Their Institutions

At present the order has about 250 sisters and 50 novices and postulants here. They are nursing sisters at St. John's Hospital and teaching sisters at Mercy High School. Members operate McAuley Hall, a residential institution for women, and are teachers at several other schools.

Speakers at the banquet, attended by 600 persons, included Dr. Alphonse McMahon, chief of staff at St. John's Hospital; the Rev. John J. Flanagan S.J., executive director of the Catholic Hospital Association; George E. Heneghan, national president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society; and the Most Rev. Mark K. Carroll, bishop of Wichita, Kan.

After hearing the sisters cited for their selflessness and devotion to duty in many fields of effort, O'Brien remarked that "every one of them should be canonized."

Pageant by Late Father Lord.

The two-week centennial observance will continue with performances of "Everyman," a morality pageant written by the late Rev. Daniel A. Lord S.J., at Kiel Auditorium Opera House Friday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m.

Cast of the pageant, directed by Mrs. Thelma Pate Hines, includes 350 students from Webster College, Fontbonne College, Maryville College, Visitation Academy, Mercy High School, St. John's School of Nursing and Ford Dancing School.

A solemn requiem mass for deceased members of the religious community will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at McAuley Hall, 325 North Newstead avenue. There will be a solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament Sunday at 4:15 p.m. at St. John's Hospital, at which time the Sisters of Mercy choir will sing a Magnificat and Te Deum arranged especially for the centennial.

SYMINGTON NAMED AT MOCK CONVENTION

Gov. Williams Wins Second Spot at Washington University.

Washington University's mock Democratic convention nominated Missouri's favorite son candidate, Senator Stuart Symington, for president yesterday. The vote was 39 to 24.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan captured the vice presidential nomination, 32 to 14. It took four ballots in the major contest, only one for the second spot.

Bennett Lerner, liberal arts junior and head of the university Young Democratic Club, said only about 25 St. Louis area colleges and high schools were represented, instead of the expected 45.

"Keynoter" for the convention, in the university field house, was United States Representative Ed Edmonson (Dem.), Oklahoma, who criticized the Eisenhower administration, especially the policies of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and the defense program.

His praise of Missouri's senators, Symington and Thomas C. Hennings Jr., as two of the most respected members of the upper house evoked loud applause from the delegates.

The convention adopted the platform prepared by its platform committee after amending the civil rights plank to call for speeding up desegregation in schools.

HOUSE GROUP OK'S SAID FOR MIXED SCHOOLS

Bill Provides More Funds Where Integration Would Require New Facilities.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UPI)—A House subcommittee today approved a bill that would grant federal school aid to communities which integrate their public school systems.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Stewart L. Udall (Dem.), Arizona, would provide federal assistance to school districts that need additional facilities as a result of integration of white and Negro pupils.

The measure was approved by a majority of members of a House education and labor subcommittee at a closed meeting. The measure would open the door to federal aid to school districts in the South which desire to integrate their schools locally but which are in states refusing to integrate on a state-wide basis.

The subcommittee also voted to liberalize and extend for two years a multi-million-dollar school aid program for areas affected by defense establishments.

The program approved by the subcommittee provides federal funds to about 3000 communities in every state whose school systems are burdened by a heavy influx of population resulting from federal activities. Members of the subcommittee said the program, which provides aid for school operations and construction, would be "liberalized" in several respects by the subcommittee bill. The measure now goes to the full committee.

WILLIAM WAGNER FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for William J. Wagner, a civil engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Bopp undertaking establishment, 131 West Arbonne drive, Kirkwood. Burial will be in National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks.

Mr. Wagner, 66 years old, died of a heart attack Saturday at his home, 213 South Clay avenue, Kirkwood. He had been with the highway department since 1930. Mr. Wagner, who was active in American Legion affairs, had been adjutant of Austin-Floyd Key Post No. 156 for the last nine years and was a member of the 40 and 8 Society.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Laura Louise Wagner, and two daughters, Mrs. Leonard L. LaPour and Mrs. John Zuber.

There was no immediate estimate of the cost of the program. But under the subcommittee bill, the total is expected to be about $200,000,000 during the fiscal year starting July 1. The program for assistance to schools in federal "impacted" areas was begun in 1950.

More than 1350 women and young adults will conduct a door-to-door campaign Sunday soliciting contributions to the 1956 Jewish Federation Welfare Fund drive. The campaign will be between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The total amount sought this year in the St. Louis-St. Louis county area is $1,966,950, of which more than $1,000,000 already has been pledged. Of the total amount sought, $1,524,450 would be for the support of 35 local, national and overseas welfare agencies and $442,500 would be the local federation's share in the special $25,000,000 emergency fund to move 45,000 Jews into Israel.

Cards Head East After Proving Cubs' Park No Bear Pit Now

Young Batters, Old Pitchers Blend to Win Doubleheader

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

EN ROUTE TO BROOKLYN, May 14—Ancient arms and wise old heads of veteran pitchers and powerful bats and swift legs of young regulars carried the Cardinals east in grand style today for their first invasion of the Atlantic seaboard after a magnificent double victory at Chicago.

In Wrigley Field, so often a chamber of horrors in recent years, Fred Hutchinson's reaved-up Redbirds gained as many triumphs in one Sunday afternoon as in 11 tries last year, sweeping a twin bill yesterday. A 3-2 pitchers' battle was followed by a seven-inning, 14-7 slugfest in which the Cardinals overcame a five-run deficit to strengthen their hold on second place in the National League.

In the opener, wiry little Murry Dickson, toting a rubber as a Redbird for the first time since 1948, outpitched a St. Louis nemesis, southpaw Paul Minner, who had defeated the Cards five straight times since September 1954. And when the Merry Magician ran out of his private brand of "woofie dust," as he still refers to his bag of mound tricks, Ellis Kinder came to his aid. So pitchers with a combined age of close to 82 years won the doubleheader opener.

In the nightcap it was youth that served the Redbirds. Willard Schmidt, scheduled to pitch, warmed up and found his right arm still stiff, so that Manager Hutchinson quickly substituted 20-year-old Lindy McDaniel. The kid didn't have it, and when former teammate Pete Whisenant again harassed the Redbirds by rapping a three-run homer off reliever Jackie Collins in the third, Chicago had what appeared an insurmountable 5-0 lead.

An Angle Gone Wrong.
It seemed so safe, you see, because the Cubs' pitcher, Sam Jones, is one of the fastest hurlers throwing aspirin-sized pitches in addition to owning the most jagged curve in the league. And with the prospects of twilight catching up shortly in a park without artificial illumination, Jones figured to get even tougher in the gloaming. The Cardinals, however, have a bunch of kids extremely rude to their elders whenever they're up there at home plate wagging a bat. And they put on quite an exhibition after Jones held them hitless into the fourth.

Opening the frame, Don Blasingame, doing what comes naturally to a good leadoff man, singled the first of four straight times. Discouragingly, standbys Red Schoendienst and Stan Musial were retired, but Ken Boyer, to whom the Redbirds owe a closing in like a happy case of claustrophobia, socked his seventh homer. Wally Moon, who seldom hits against right-handers, whacked a single. And Rip Repulski, as hot as a Windy City weather, banged his fourth homer.

The Redbirds were rid of Jones at that point, but they still trailed by a run. That is, only until they batted in the fifth when Blasingame, who started things with a single off Vito Valentini, Manager Stan Hack had brought in the big rookie right-hander for two reasons. He hadn't allowed a run and only three hits in nine pinnches in 136 games, he had a potent hummer that promised to profit from the setting sun and the advancing shadows.

Musial's Bat Silent.
The choice was sound, no doubt, but after Schoendienst walked and Musial fouled out, the Cardinals were out of a lead without so much as a single from Stan the Man—the kids again delivered devastatingly. Boyer smashed a pitch onto Waveland Avenue beyond the left field bleachers for his eighth homer, putting the Redbirds ahead. Moon, next up, hit one even farther, if possible, lifting his second circuit drive clear across Sheffield Avenue, beyond right field.

Back-to-back homers had turned successful for an inning in an 8-5 lead and after Collins faltered in the home sixth, Herm Wehmeier, who came with Dickson in the controversial deal that sent Harvey Haddix and others to Philadelphia, checked the Cubs a run shy of a tie.

The specter of late-inning defeats quickly was chased, however, when the Cardinals really opened up in a six-run seventh of five hits and three walks, a frame during which the remarkable Boyer hit the left field wall for a double, driving in his fifth run, and Schoendienst delivered the clincher, a two-base blow that chased three comrades across the plate.

And as the Cards hurried to dinner before retraining for the east, Boyer toted a bulky 412 batting average and 24 RBIs in 22 games. Repulski owned a gargantuan .431 mark and 15 runs driven across in only 18 contests. Moon a husky 390 and 16 RBIs and Hal Smith, the freshman catcher, packed a huge .600 average and a remarkable nine runs batted in for a mere 15 times at bat.

Smitty, in addition to walking three times, came through in the three-run fourth, that won the first game, and Dickson, who had complained about lack of hitting in Philadelphia, had to help himself, too.

Beginning of the End.
Boyer began the rally with a double. One out later Moon walked and Smith's single tied the score at 1-1. In slow motion, swiped third and Smith tagged along to make it a double steal. As a result, Bill Virdon's soft grounder sent in one run and Dickson's double another.

Murry also pitched in the ninth, took second on a throw and acknowledged afterward that the hard running on a hot day had fagged him a bit. He actually deserved a shutout in

No-Hit Erskine's Secret Weapon

A five-pound steel ball, the size and shape of a regulation baseball, helps Dodge pitcher CARL ERSKINE in his pre-game warmup. Erskine, who pitched a no-hit game against the Giants, Saturday, here demonstrates how he uses the steel ball, before a game, to loosen up his pitching hand and arm. He believes the exercise has helped loosen a tight shoulder muscle that bothered him last season.

Delayed Action: Hemus Goes To Phils, Birds Get Morgan

EN ROUTE TO BROOKLYN, May 14—Solly Hemus, one of the Cardinals' most colorful players of recent drab times, was announced today as having been traded to the Philadelphia Phillies for Bobby Morgan, who is expected by both General Manager Frank Lane and Manager Fred Hutchinson to give the Redbirds more versatile utility infield protection.

The exchange was understood actually to have been part of last Friday's deal in which the Cardinals gave up three pitchers for two, but announcement had to be withheld because of a technicality.

Rules prohibit trading a player while his name is on a waiver list, as Hemus's was. Morgan, a native of Oklahoma City, will be 30 on June 29 and Hemus was 32 in April. "Morgan is a little younger, that's true, but the main reason we wanted him," Lane said, "is because he's a more solid three-position player than Solly is now, and has a better throwing arm and actually more power if not greater all-around offensive ability."

The Backstops.
"We've got Alex Grammas behind Don Blasingame, but we had to have a skilled durable replacement in case either Red Schoendienst or Ken Boyer was hurt. A club is not stronger than its bench."

Morgan, 5-9 1/2, 175 pounds, is a product of the Brooklyn farm system. He began his professional career with Newport News, Va., in 1944 and joined the Dodgers in 1950 after leading the International League in hitting with a .337 average. In 136 games he batted only .232, but had 20 doubles, 10 homers and batted in 49 runs. He's had six hits in 26 trips this season.

Hemus, a walk-whoreling, wise-cracking leadoff man who fearlessly over-dove over the plate as a human pin cushion, came up with the Cardinals late in 1949 as a second baseman. He returned in '51 to give shortstop a battle as masterful Marty Marion's replacement. The Mighty Mouse lost his job to Grammas in '54. His lifetime average is .275, but he batted only .243 last year.

Kind Words in Parting.
Hemus insisted he had recovered from a sore arm that handicapped his barely adequate throwing and disclosed he would ask Mayo Smith, the Phillies' manager, for a chance at second base.

"I never since the day I could beat out Red Schoendienst with

Albrecht, Boehlow Relief Stars in Extra Innings; Heintzelman No Rescuer

It's a good thing the umpires' walkout that resulted in postponement of two Muncy baseball doubleheaders didn't extend beyond the city, for the fans would have missed two extra-inning thrillers in the Heine-Meine League.

Eddie Albrecht, a very promising right-hander with the Browns in 1949, flashed his old curve in relief to help the Villa A.C. defeat the Carondelet No. 2 team, 3-2, in 10 innings. Then Bob Boehlow, the Riverview school teacher, yielded only two hits, no runs in 4-2-3 innings of relief for Hoffmeisters in their 7-6 triumph over Simpkins in 12 innings.

For the Villas, Frank Therina walked, stole second and third, then tallied the winning run when the pitcher threw wild on an attempted pickoff play at first base. Boehlow broke up his own game with a single that scored Les Zingrich, who had doubled for his third hit.

In the County League's American Division, Gerry Beckmann yielded only four hits and faced 28 batters as Vigus walloped Ballwin, 7-0. Vigus shares first place with Twin City, 17-7 winner over Creve Coeur. The co-leaders have 3-1 records.

Five Off Heintzelman. Reliever Ken Heintzelman was charged with Vigus' five runs in the seventh. Joe Kneip, first batter to face him in the fourth, singled with the bases filled to drive in the first two runs, charged to Ray Bopp. Beckmann walked only one and didn't have a strikeout. Teammates Karl Kramer and Elmer Schroeder each had three hits.

Manchester's Bob Herman threw a five-hitter, beating Olivette, 3-1. Schmersahls made it two victories in as many starts by beating Overland Braves, 11-8, in the Muncy's Berkeley senior league. Bob Weleba and Jim Amos had two hits apiece for Schmersahls, Danny Meade a home run for the Braves.

Carondelet No. 2's loss was a heart-breaker for Norm Zimmerman, who allowed only two hits, singles, and neither figured in the Villas' scoring. In addition, Zimmerman singled in the first Carondelet run.

Strikeout Pitch Working. With three on and one out in the ninth, Villa's Manager Johnny Tobin lifted big Walt Hasselbring, who had hurled well, and called on Albrecht, now a truck driver here. The ex-Brownie threw five straight strikes, then hit Rick Lessmann on the left elbow, forcing in the tying run.

After striking out the next batter to end the ninth, Albrecht ran into trouble in the last of the tenth, hitting Vern Rutherford on the foot and yielding a single to Don Kestler. But Eddie then bore down, whiffing the next two batters and getting Dick Meisemann on an infield pop.

Hoffmeisters piled up a 6-2 lead after five innings and Pitcher Duke Wodraska appeared on his way to victory when Simpkins got four straight hits for four runs in the eighth. In came Boehlow, who struck out five in his 4½ innings. John Sabourin, third hurler for Simpkins, blanked Hoffmeisters for seven innings before he was tagged for the twelfth inning run. Hoffmeisters' Ralph Walker and Simpkins' Danny Schuchardt each had three hits.

Promises a Showdown. Gus Wamhoff, president of both the North and South Side Muncy leagues, said next Sunday's games in both circuits would be played even if the Greater St. Louis Umpires' Association continued to refuse to work the games in city parks.

Ohio Woman Rolls 708 To Take Singles Lead In W.I.B.C. Tourney
MIAMI, Fla., May 14 (AP)—A Columbus, O., woman rolled a near record 708 yesterday in grabbing the singles lead of the Women's International Bowling Congress tournament.

Lucille Noe of Columbus posted games of 207-256-245 to Jar Hazel Elarton, Hot Springs, Ark., (673) out of the lead. Only one higher singles score has been bowled in W.I.B.C. tourney history—the 712 hung up by Marie Clemmens of Chicago in 1934.

Betty Maw and Mary Quinn of Buffalo, N.Y., bowling a total of 1242 pins, wrestled the doubles lead from Elvra Toepfer and Anita Cantaline of Detroit whose score was 1193. Doris Knechtges of Detroit clung to her lead in all-events competition with 1867, rolled last week. Miss Quinn is second with 1861.

Cleveland, Ohio, Bowling School maintained its team lead on 2806 scored Thursday, with Pepsi of Detroit in second place at 2779.

Pitcher With One Arm Hurls 3-Hit Shutout
Jim Schibig, who has only one arm, pitched a three-hit 13-0 victory for the Red Hawks over the Green Hornets in the bantam division of the Khoury Baseball Association.

The 11-year-old righthander struck out 14 batters.

Miss Gavin, Forcade Win Casting Honors
Miss Mel Gavin and Clem Forcade were the all-around winners in the St. Louis Fly and Bait Casting Club competition yesterday in Forest Park.

Miss Gavin made a clean sweep of the women's competition, winning the dry fly with a score of 94, the wet fly with a 98, the 3½-ounce accuracy with 97 and the ½-ounce accuracy with 92.

Forcade won the dry fly, scoring 97, and tied Fred Sexauer in the wet fly, at 96. Forcade totaled 376 in the day's events, Miss Gavin totaled 384.

HOW EISENHOWER POPULARITY WITH FARMERS FADES

farmers disapprove of the way Benson is handling his job. An indication of Mr. Eisenhower's personal popularity with the farmers comes to light in the results of a survey conducted since the President vetoed the first farm bill.

Question: "Do you think President Eisenhower did the right thing in vetoing—that is, refusing to approve—the farm bill?"

Yes, right — 52%
No, wrong — 29%
Don't know — 19%

Although farmers are overwhelmingly of the opinion that they are worse off now than they have been in the last few years (farm prices dropped 28 per cent from February, 1951, during the Korean war—to last December), the average farmer is hopeful about the next six months. It should be pointed out, however, that often the farmer says things "just can't get any worse."

The questions asked, and the results:

"Generally speaking, do you think the farmer in this area is better or worse off now than he has been in the last few years?"

Better — 8%
Worse — 76%
Same — 13%
Don't know — 3%

"Do you think the farm situation will get better or worse in the next six to twelve months?"

Better — 36%
Worse — 15%
No difference — 26%
Don't know — 23%

The Midwestern farmer has many ideas as to what he believes caused the farm problem. The one he cites most frequently, however, is the huge surplus and overproduction.

When we asked farmers what they thought the United States should do with the surplus, here is how they answered:

Give it away here in the United States — 42%

Give it away to countries that need it — 32%

Sell it abroad — 11%

Sell it at a reduced price in this country — 10%

Keep it in storage, we might need it some day — 3%

Other — 13%

Don't know — 19%

(The table adds to more than 100 per cent since some farmers gave more than one answer.)

The overwhelming majority of farmers, therefore, want to get rid of the surplus in some fashion. Although the surplus is valued at some six billion dollars, three out of four farmers want to just "give it away." Summing up, the Midwestern farmer today is not acutely interested in farm legislation, nor is he wedded to any particular solution to the farm problem. The main thing that matters to the farmer is his pocketbook. In his opinion, the farm problem will be solved when that pocketbook is full once again.

GEORGE FAILED TO REVEAL GIFT TO G.O.P. DINNER

Louie, president of Quaker Oats, served for a time as Deputy Under Secretary of State. The President's brother, Milton Eisenhower, in turn, was director of Quaker Oats.

Vice President Nixon last week presented a medal for distinguished dog heroism to Snooks, a 7-year-old mongrel picked as the dog hero of the year. The medal was called the "Ken-L-Ration Medal," and was, of course, the public relations brainchild of Quaker Oats. Ken-L-Ration is a Quaker Oats product.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS—Senator McClellan of Arkansas didn't bother to dig into it, but North American Airlines not only retained Murray Chotiner, campaign manager and closest political adviser of Vice President Nixon, but also contributed to the G.O.P. campaign.

When Chotiner was before McClellan's subcommittee, he was not asked a single, solitary question about the large campaign funds he had raised; and when he said he had gone to the White House on two occasions, no Senator took the trouble to ask him who were the clients on behalf of whom he wanted to exert a little influence.

If the Senators had taken off their kid gloves and dug into this, however, they would have found that both Stanley Weiss, head of North American Airlines, and R. R. Hart contributed to Republican national or state committees.

CAMPAIGN MANAGERS—Campaign managers also have a way of influencing what a Senator does or says.

Take the case of Joe McCarthy. The Wisconsin Senator is inclined to hold forth on all sorts of subjects, and at one time started to declaim on the current cheese scandal. Wisconsin makes cheese, and Joe has been urging not 40 per cent, but 100 per cent parity to help Wisconsin dairy farmers. It was only natural, therefore, for him to raise his voice about the $2,000,000 windfall profit that the cheese processors made out of Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and the CCC at the expense of the farmer and the taxpayer.

Suddenly, however, McCarthy shut up. Nothing has been heard from him for months about the cheese scandal.

McCarthy's campaign manager for re-election in 1952 was Steve Miller, president of the Central Cheese Co., of Marshfield, Wis. This company received $25,885 from Benson on the cheese deal that McCarthy originally was so excited about.

TITO IS WELCOMED HOME

BELGRADE, May 14 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz returned yesterday from his state visit to France. Guns thundered a salute as Tito's special train pulled into the flag-bedecked station. Top Yugoslav officials and foreign diplomats were on hand to welcome him. Tito told a huge crowd gathered in front of the railway station that his "journey of peace" was successful. He said he met with full understanding in France.

DIRKSEN SAYS HE SEES NO SIGN OF 'FARMER REVOLT'

DANVILLE, Ill., May 14 (AP)—Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, said yesterday he sees no evidence of a "farmers' revolt" and expects the Republican party to carry the Midwest in the November elections.

"I see no reason to feel otherwise," said Dirksen in an interview after he spoke at Hospital day ceremonies at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Danville.

"We are not hurt materially with the farmer," he declared, in reference to Mr. Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill.

He said he feels there is a good chance that Congress will pass a new farm bill before it adjourns for the summer. He said he "will be glad to stay in session all summer if need be" to gain passage of a farm bill.

EISENHOWER MAY BE 'NEW GENIUS' IN WHITE HOUSE

Democrats on Defensive.

Whether or not this suspicion is justified, there is no doubt that the White House has shown a real genius during this session in keeping the Democrats on the defensive and aborting Democratic issues. The achievement is all the more impressive, moreover, if one recalls the stumbling amateurishness which so often showed itself in the first Eisenhower years. Who, then, is the new genius in the White House?

Some identify the genius as White House chief of staff Sherman Adams, or press secretary James Hagerty, or Attorney General Herbert Brownell, or somebody else. Others espouse the theory that Thomas E. Dewey is the real mastermind of the Administration. But another theory is rapidly gaining ground among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill. This is that the new political genius in the White House is none other than Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Two or three years ago, the President was obviously unsure of himself in the unfamiliar field of politics, but as the years have passed, his sureness of touch has visibly grown. And perhaps his greatest achievement as a politician has been to continue to seem wholly above politics, which remains his greatest political asset. (Copyright, 1956, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

NOW — 3 SPECIAL MONEY-SAVER PLANS FOR QUALIFIED CAR OWNERS

Merit rating plan. Missouri car owners can earn 1% rate reduction for every year of accident-free driving. 10 years, 10%; with no limit. Every chargeable accident adds 5%. This plan originated with Liberty.

Qualified 2-car owners get 25% reduction on second car. You can qualify if there is no male operator under 25 and neither car is customarily used for business.

New community plan. In our judgment, certain local areas account for fewer accidents. Residents will get additional reduction on car insurance rates because of the community safe-driving record. Liberty's current 15% dividend savings apply to the above reduced premiums.

TALMADGE SAYS HE PREFERS STEVENSON

Backs Illinoisan Above 'Those Two,' Meaning Kefauver, Harriman.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Former Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said yesterday he prefers Adlai Stevenson "far and away above those two," for the Democratic presidential nomination.

By "those two" Talmadge meant Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. Kefauver and Stevenson are campaigning actively for the nomination. Harriman, currently on a western speaking tour, has described himself as "not an active" candidate.

Talmadge, an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination to succeed Senator Walter F. George (Dem.), Georgia, who announced his retirement last week, said he expects the Democratic candidate to carry Georgia in 1956 "by a greater percentage than four years ago."

Asked on the NBC television program "Meet the Press" what he would do if Kefauver should win the nomination, Talmadge replied:

"I would review the Democratic platform on which he would run. I have always been a Democrat and expect to remain one as long as I possibly can, but I wouldn't say what I will do as the result of nomination next November at this early date."

Talmadge repeated his stand against integration of the races in public schools, declaring that the Supreme Court was trying to "breathe additional powers into the Supreme Court that are not delegated to it by the Constitution."

When a questioner suggested that his stand seemed to align him against the authority of the Supreme Court as stated in the Constitution, Talmadge replied that if he becomes a Senator he will interpret the Constitution for himself.

"I have as much right to say what the Constitution means and doesn't mean as anyone in the country," he said.

He said he is not opposed to "all foreign aid" but that he is wholeheartedly against giving money for a "dam for a dictator in Egypt who is fomenting strife and revolt in northern Africa to drive the French and the British and ourselves out of North Africa."

Talmadge said the purpose of the proposed Aswan dam is to irrigate land on which cotton would be the principal product and "spending our tax money to expand that production while we're trying to reduce our own crop at home."

Denying that he is an isolationist, Talmadge termed himself "international-minded" but added:

"That does not mean it is the duty of American taxpayers to subsidize foreign nations in social experimentation and global W.P.A. projects of doubtful value."

He said that if the Communists are giving arms to the Arabs—"and I believe they have"—then it "behoves us to give arms to Israel to try to keep the balance of power in that area of the world."

THIRSTY ROBBERS STEAL $1000, BEER IN JOPLIN STORE

JOPLIN, Mo., May 14 (AP)—An armed robber wearing a blue and white polka dot bandanna over his face robbed a Joplin liquor store of about $1000 Saturday night, taking the money out in a paper sack.

After he locked the clerk and a woman in a beer cooler an unseen accomplice helped him carry out several cases of beer.

Bob Spears, the clerk, told police the armed man made him and a woman in the store put $800 from the cash drawer into a paper sack and forced him to get $300 more hidden in the back room.

As the robber shut Spears and the woman customer in the beer cooler they heard him call to his accomplice to start carrying out the cases of beer.

Neither of them saw the accomplice. This was the third "paper sack" robbery in Joplin in six weeks.

ISRAELI DISOWNS SPY CONFESSION MADE TO CZECHS

ZURICH, Switzerland, May 14 (AP)—Mordechai Oren, Israeli left-wing Socialist leader, arrived here yesterday after five years' imprisonment in Czechoslovakia and repudiated a confession that he had been part of a Zionist network spying against the Communists.

Oren, 51 years old, looking gray and emaciated, arrived by plane after the abrupt termination Saturday of his 15-year sentence.

Oren, leader of the left-wing Socialist Mapam party in Israel, was arrested in late 1951 when he visited Czechoslovakia while returning from a Communist-sponsored trade union meeting in Berlin.

It was not until March, 1952 that the Prague government officially disclosed his arrest. That November, he appeared as a witness in the treason trial of Rudolf Slansky, Jewish former deputy premier and party secretary, Vlado Clementis, former foreign minister, and 12 other defendants, most of whom were Jews. Slansky, Clementis and nine others were hanged later.

Oren testified that he had been told by Titoists of the defendants' plots to overthrow the Czech government, and that his own travels in Communist countries as a member of a Zionist repatriation commission was a "cover for a Zionist espionage network."

"I don't remember what I said at the trial," Oren said at a brief airport interview yesterday. "But I can assure you that I was not a spy. I was innocent."

SMALLEST COTTON CROP IN 75 YEARS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture yesterday predicted this year's domestic cotton harvest "may be the smallest in 75 years."

World production is expected to reach 39,300,000 bales, the department said, just slightly above the 1954-55 record of 39,100,000 bales.

In 1955, the report said, the United States cotton crop was 14,700,000 bales.

REPORT CHARGES U.S. IS WASTING NEGRO POTENTIAL

Study at Columbia U. Describes Race as Most Underdeveloped Resource.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, May 14—A study just finished at Columbia University describes the 15,000,000 Negroes of the United States as "the single most underdeveloped human resource in the country."

The study cites enormous benefits that would result from full and equal integration of Negroes into the national life. It estimates that the total number of Negro high school students graduated annually could be more than doubled to reach 158,000 at this time of critical manpower shortages if the education of Negroes was raised to the same level as whites.

On the same basis, the report finds that Negro college graduates could be increased from 9,000 to 23,000 annually. The study notes that only three young Negroes out of a hundred are graduated from college.

The report characterizes the gains in the Negro's economic position in the last 15 years as "spectacular," but it notes the severe discriminations both in the South and the North that still hamper Negro potentialities.

Aided by Prosperity. Progress in recent years is attributed primarily to prosperity rather than to changes in attitudes.

The study foresees further advancement in the status of Negroes as depending to a large extent on continued prosperity and improved utilization by Negroes of the new opportunities now open to them.

The findings of the study are published in a 144-page book entitled "The Negro Potential" by the Columbia University Press. The report was written by Dr. Eli Ginzberg, director of the conservation of human resources project at the university. He was assisted by James K. Anderson, Dr. Douglas W. Bray and Robert W. Smuts.

The human resources project was established by President Eisenhower in 1950, soon after he became president of Columbia, and reflected his concern with manpower wastage in World War II. The project has published the results of several other studies and is continuing its researches in other phases of manpower utilization.

Fifteen of the country's major business and industrial companies supported the project, along with foundations, trade unions and the federal government. Dr. Ginzberg is professor of economics in the graduate school of business at Columbia.

Scientific Theory. The assessment of Negro potentialities is predicated on the scientific theory that there are no differences in the basic intelligence or capacities of different racial groups.

The report rebuts the view of General Mark Clark that Negroes are inferior to whites as soldiers. The study affirms that the record of Negroes was "less good" than that of white troops in World War II but says that this is to be explained by the handicaps Negroes brought from civilian life and the segregated pattern of their utilization.

The survey notes the "amazing rapidity" with which desegregation occurred in the armed forces in the Korean war. It cites evidence that this integration made a difference and that Negro combatants did well in Korea.

Integration in the armed forces is credited with being a major contribution toward general progress in integration.

"The armed forces have not only strengthened the nation by strengthening themselves," the report says, "but have taken leadership in showing the nation what good will and determination can accomplish."

"The Negro Potential" includes findings on studies of Negro soldiers not heretofore published. The Department of the Army made special material available for the report.

Handicaps Listed. Inferior schooling, segregated living and all other forms of discrimination against the Negro are described in the report as having produced lowered capabilities and psychological handicaps for Negroes. The study holds that Negroes will not be able to display capabilities at a level with whites until they are fully integrated into the society of their country.

The report emphasizes that changes must come not only in schools but also within the Negro community itself in terms of family life and child upbringing. This is regarded as necessary if Negroes are to be prepared adequately to take advantage of new opportunities.

If prosperity continues, the authors believe, the developing southern counter-action to integration will not be successful. They believe pressures from every side "will induce the South to steer away from a self-destructive recalcitrance."

The study maintains that the present wastage of human resources in the United States can result only in a more vulnerable security position. The study says that failure in this country to provide true equality for Negroes will weaken the free world in its struggle with Soviet Russia and the minds and hearts of millions of men not yet committed to either side.

PAKISTAN 5-YEAR PLAN FOR 2 MILLION JOBS ANNOUNCED

KARACHI, May 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Chaudhri Mohammed Ali announced today a massive five-year plan for Pakistan, designed to eliminate big land holdings, create 2,000,000 new jobs, boost production and increase average earnings by 10 per cent. It will cost 11,500,000,000 rupees ($2,500,000,000).

Announcing the plan, the Prime Minister declared: "Independent Pakistan can have little meaning and evoke little enthusiasm until men and women on farms and in factories and offices see the way open to a life of respect, dignity and comfort and free opportunity for their own development as well as contributing to the development of the community."

The Prime Minister said Pakistan will have to depend "to a very great extent" on foreign loans and aid in putting the plan through, and added: "I trust the assistance of our friends and allies, particularly the United States aid which has been forthcoming, will continue."

AEC RENEWS ITS CONTRACT WITH ST. LOUIS U. EDUCATOR

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, May 14—The United States Atomic Energy Commission announced today the renewal of a $17,296 research contract with Dr. Henry Pinkerton, professor of pathology at St. Louis University School of Medicine.

The one-year renewal will permit Dr. Pinkerton to continue research already under way into the relation of rickettsial and viral infections to radiation injury, the Atomic Energy Commission said.

A $17,172 contract with Samuel Brady of the University of Missouri was also renewed. His research field is the determination of thyroid activity in farm animals by the use of radioactive tracers. The contracts were among 34 unclassified life science research contracts in the fields of medicine, biology and biophysics announced today.

JEWISH GROUP URGES U.S. TO LIMIT MIDEAST ARMS

CLEVELAND, May 14 (AP)—The American Jewish Committee says the United States Government should warn potential aggressors in the Middle East that its power "will be aligned against them."

A resolution approved yesterday at the final session of the committee's three-day national executive board meeting said that "once adequate defensive arms have been obtained by Israel, serious consideration should be given to the limitation of further military supplies in the area."

The 200-member board, in another action, charged the State Department with catering to Arab discrimination by denying American Jews the same privileges other American citizens have in Arab lands. The charge said American citizens of Jewish faith were denied the right to travel and trade were excluded from government and military posts and from employment on United States defense installations in Arab lands.

MOVE IN POLAND TO OUST BAD JUDGES, PROSECUTORS

VIENNA, May 14 (AP)—The Warsaw radio said yesterday the Union of Polish Jurists has demanded the firing of all incapable judges and prosecutors and that "incriminated in past unjust trials."

The broadcast said the demand was made in a resolution adopted by the union at a meeting in Warsaw. It urged extension of recent amnesties, especially for political prisoners, and offered to protect any prisoners already freed.

Before TCP...

The car above was bought brand new and driven about 3000 miles on a competitive premium gasoline. Then its rate of acceleration was checked by radar. The pick-up was poor because of engine deposits, which caused the spark plugs to "miss."

After TCP...

The same car now performs after it has been run on a few tankfuls of Shell Premium with TCP*, which overcomes engine deposits. Radar checks on this and other cars showed in most cases a 6 to 18% increase in pick-up after TCP had overcome pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

Radar proves you can get up to 18% faster "pick-up" with Shell Premium with TCP

Today's high-powered, high-compression engines are really rarin' to go, but they're especially sensitive to engine deposits.

Inside of 3500 miles these deposits can form on spark plugs and in combustion chambers. Then spark plugs "miss," gasoline is pre-fired. Your almost new engine has lost its fine edge. The picture above of a radar-clocked acceleration test shows how TCP additive restores this lost power—delivering up to 18% faster acceleration.

Try Shell Premium with TCP and re-power your car while you drive. See your Shell Dealer.

RUSSIA HAS CAFE SOCIETY AND NEW WEALTHY CLASS

Artists, Musicians and Writers Now Make Big Money—And Tax Is Only 13 Per Cent.

By ERNIE HILL.

The Chicago Daily News Post-Dispatch Special Radio, Copyright, 1956. MOSCOW, May 14—The Soviet government may be sowing the seeds of its own destruction in allowing the Russian people all sorts of new freedoms.

A millionaire class is growing up in the big cities. A cafe society crowd is beginning to appear. The boldest are no longer afraid to talk with foreigners. Ideas from the outside world are creeping in under the Iron Curtain and university students are reading more about the "decadent" capitalism.

American Ambassador Charles Bohlen has announced that the State Department magazine Amerika is to be distributed monthly starting in July.

And Mike Todd has arrived to make a movie extravaganza of Tolstoy's "War and Peace" with 50,000 Red Army troops as extras.

All of this at the moment touches only a relatively small group. But imported ideas and influences may spread faster than the men in the Kremlin bargained for.

How do you become a millionaire in the Soviet Union? Until very recently such a thing was unheard of. You got your share of black bread and labored for the glory of all. But this formula failed to produce anything worthwhile in literature and the arts.

So now artists, musicians and writers are allowed to make big money and things are beginning to happen.

One popular song writer recently produced a hit that netted him 2,000,000 rubles in 60 days. That is $500,000 on the official exchange and about one-fourth of that in purchasing power.

He bought himself a house in the country and a big Zis automobile for 200,000 rubles and has joined the cafe society crowd in dancing and drinking champagne.

The horrible propaganda art that painters were forced to produce during Stalin's days has gone out of vogue. A new artist named Sarian who paints like a French impressionist is the latest thing.

His pictures are selling for $2000 each and up. An exhibition just closed has netted him a small fortune.

The Soviet Union now has an income tax varying up to a top bracket of 13 per cent on incomes over $3750 annually. This is a light touch compared with Britain, the United States and other western countries.

3 TOP DEMOCRATS HOLD SAME VIEWS IN A.D.A. QUERY

Stevenson, Kefauver, Harriman Answer 10 Questions Almost Identically.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Americans for Democratic Action yesterday gave similar answers to some political questions.

The three leading Democratic presidential contenders, asked to give A.D.A. their views on 10 political questions, supplied answers so nearly identical that all might have come from the same man.

Adlai Stevenson, one of the three interviewed, described the questionnaire as a "political litmus test" and questioned its value in helping anyone determine a man's fitness for the presidency.

The interviews, recorded by Elmer Davis, were played to the A.D.A. convention here yesterday morning to help the delegates form their presidential preferences. Besides Stevenson, Davis questioned Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee).

After the delegates heard the recorded interviews, they decided all three were "eminently qualified" for the nomination because they are men of "forceful liberal conviction."

Eisenhower Ticket Opposed
At the same time, the organization adopted a resolution saying it must oppose "with all its resources" any Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

President Eisenhower had also been asked to answer the 10 questions, but an aid declined on his behalf.

A.D.A. could find the President's views "on matters of concern to the American people" in his press conferences, Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, explained.

One of the 10 questions was: "Is it not a fact that the United States needs a working President?" The answers were:

Stevenson: "Yes, it is. . . . We don't adjust the office to suit candidates."

Kefauver: "Yes, certainly, the presidency . . . needs a working President who can put full time at his job."

Harriman: "We certainly do need a working President, and we cannot borrow from the corporate conception of a part-time, semi-retired chairman of the board of directors."

School Integration.
The A.D.A. then asked how the three candidates would handle school integration:

Stevenson proposed using the President's "moral influence" to encourage compliance with decisions of the courts.

Kefauver proposed using the President's "good offices" to get people to "talk the matter over calmly, justly and rightly and at the local level put into effect the Supreme Court decision."

Harriman proposed using the presidency to rally "men and women of goodwill together" to talk out the problem.

Would the candidates veto another bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal regulation?

Stevenson: "Yes . . . obviously the consumer's interest has to come first."

Kefauver: "I would veto it."

Harriman: "I opposed the bill before and certainly would oppose it again."

No Fight for Tideland Oil.
Would they fight to regain offshore oil lands "for all the people?"

Stevenson: "No . . . I think the matter has been disposed of."

Kefauver: "I doubt very much if it is possible to upset what has already been done."

Harriman: "I don't know what can be done about it at the present time."

Would they work to outlaw the so-called "right-to-work" provisions of the Taft-Hartley act?

Stevenson: "Yes."

Kefauver: "Yes."

Harriman: "I certainly would."

Tax Law Changes.
What about tax law changes? Stevenson opposed a general tax cut, but favored "some real help" to people in the lower income brackets. He was unsure whether the depletion allowance for the oil industry should be abolished.

Kefauver wanted to give "the small taxpayer a larger exemption." He thought the oil industry was entitled "to some depletion allowance."

Harriman said there should be tax cuts "for the lower income groups." Special allowances should be "reviewed," he said.

All three men favored arms shipments to Israel and criticized the Administration's Middle East policy.

All three said that the personnel security program should be amended to eliminate abuses.

Stevenson, after answering the questions, said they showed "a concern with the surface manifestations of our political process," and little "thoughtful concern for the future of liberalism."

Most of the questions, he said, were addressed "to the body—not to the heart, not to the mind, not to the soul of America . . . and to save the current process without saving the soul isn't enough."

Milk Trucks Fight Fire.

ALBANY, Minn. (AP)—Eight milk trucks, each loaded with 3000 gallons of water, provided firemen with water to fight a blaze at a railroad overpass. The trucks hustled back and forth, keeping a supply of water available for fire engine pumping equipment until the flames were brought under control.

PREDICTS BRITAIN WILL TAKE LEAD IN ATOMIC POWER

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Sir Edwin Plowden, head of Britain's Atomic Energy Authority, said today his country may go ahead of the United States in developing commercial atomic power because its needs are "very urgent."

After paying a courtesy call on President Eisenhower, Plowden told reporters Britain quite likely would get into the atomic power field on a major basis ahead of the United States.

Plowden was accompanied to the White House by Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Strauss toured British atomic installations last year and Plowden is returning the visit.

Asked which country is ahead—the United States or Britain—in development of atomic power for civilian purposes, Plowden replied: "I don't think either side is ahead."

In the United States, he said.

PARRIS ISLAND MARINE 'BOOT' TRAINING EXTENDED

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., May 14 (UP)—"Boot" training is being extended two weeks at this Marine base to give drill instructors more time in which to work with recruits. It was disclosed yesterday.

The change was one result of a shake-up in training routine made after a drill instructor now awaiting court-martial marched a platoon into a tidal stream with a loss of six lives. Nothing has been added to the program despite the time extension.

MEET ED BARNES, STEELWORKER

When the United States Information Agency sought a man to typify an average American industrial worker in a project to debunk Communist propaganda abroad in the cold war, the agency chose a Pennsylvania steelworker. He is James Edward Barnes, of Morrisville, Pa., millwright in a steel plant.

A massive exhibit, consisting of 27 enlarged color photographs of the normal living routine of the Barnes family, has been sent to Japan and the Far East to acquaint the millions in other countries with the American worker's way of life. First displayed by The Advertising Council in Washington, the exhibit eventually will be sent around the world. Just a few of the pictures are shown here.

The Barnes home, car and family—all modern, all typical. Inside the house Mrs. Barnes' kitchen and laundry are equipped with labor-saving electrical appliances. The modern school is not far away. And Ed is planning more education for the children than he himself got in trade and high schools.

Mrs. Barnes takes charge of the big job of keeping plenty of wholesome food on hand for the household of five. And, often as not, the whole five go to market and help shop.

As a millwright Ed ranged all over the big mill. Here he's signaling a crane operator. He liked his job, figured to "go places" in the mill. He did, too. He was recently promoted to foreman.

The mortgage on Ed's new home, the payments on the car and the family bills get squared away on payday. Then Ed stops around at the bank to add a few dollars to the growing nest egg.

BRITISH COMMUNIST CHIEF STEPS DOWN

Harry Pollitt Criticized for Uncritical Subservience to Stalinism.

The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

LONDON, May 14 — Harry Pollitt, long-time leader of the British Communist party, resigned from the office of general secretary yesterday and was named party chairman.

The 65-year-old Communist leader gave ill health as the reason for stepping down after having held the general secretaryship since 1929. John Gollan, national organizer for the party, was chosen to succeed Pollitt.

Although many observers regard this shift as part of the world-wide Communist process of de-Stalinization, the executive committee of the party asked Pollitt to continue to play "a major role in (its) leadership."

Since the denunciation of Stalin at the recent congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow, Pollitt, who attended the session, has been openly criticized by Communists here for his record of uncritical subservience to Stalinism.

In accepting Pollitt's resignation, the committee named him as party chairman and member of its political committee. William Gallacher, chairman of the party since the post was created in 1943, was appointed to the new post of president.

Until the relative functions of the chairmanship and presidency are made clear, it will be difficult to assess the shifts.

In the past, the chairman has acted as "chief of state" to the general secretary role of "chief of government" in the party hierarchy. Neither Communist party headquarters nor the London Daily Worker, chief party newspaper, was able to give information last night on the relationship between these posts and the newly created presidency.

The new general secretary has been characterized as "the lean and hungry fanatic" type of Communist, in contrast with Pollitt, whose sense of humor made him popular with many non-Communists.

Gollan is 45 years old. A native of Edinburgh, he has been national organizer since November 1954, and for five years before that was assistant editor of the London Daily Worker.

THREE INJURED IN BLAST AT ATOMIC ENERGY PLANT

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., May 14 (UP)—An explosion occurred at an Atomic Energy Commission plant today, injuring three workmen.

The AEC said the blast was "non-nuclear." A spokesman said several containers of zirconium oxide and scraps of zirconium metal exploded in a salvage yard at the west end of the Y-12 plant, a production and research and development installation near Oak Ridge.

Zirconium is used in the AEC's reactor development program. The metal scraps are explosive when exposed.

The AEC said the blast occurred when the three men were moving aluminum scrap to clear a path through the yard to make way for a vehicle. They were about 30 feet away from the exploding drums.

EAST ST. LOUIS STUDENT WINS DESIGNING AWARD

Donald Behrens, a junior in the Washington University School of Fine Arts, has won the annual Webster Publishing Co. award for illustration and design of a textbook, it was announced today. The award is a $500 tuition scholarship.

The competition involved illustration and design of a high school textbook in American history. Behrens lives at 805 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis.

Runners up in the contest were Neil Goerlich, 7117 Whitworth drive, Affton, and George Nicks, Clearwater, Fla. The textbook designs are currently being displayed at City Art Museum in the art school's annual exhibition.

ANOTHER DELAY FORECAST FOR HYDROGEN BOMB TEST

ABOARD U.S.S. Mount McKinley, May 14 (AP)—Weather experts who last night postponed the "Shot Cherokee" H-bomb test for the seventh time today, United States time today indicated unfavorable winds probably would cause another delay to Thursday.

Conditions forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday "are not acceptable," this morning's communiqué said, with little evidence of a favorable change by Wednesday "although such a possibility must not be ruled out."

The forecasters blamed winds from the north which would carry radioactive fallout from an explosion over inhabited islands in the Marshall group.

BRITISH GROOM NIPPED BY SOVIET GIFT HORSE

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Frank Hatcher, a royal groom at Windsor Castle, today nursed a bite given him by Melekush, a Cossack stallion presented to Britain's royal family by Soviet Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev.

"He nipped me between the shoulder blades," said Hatcher, "when I was giving him a grooming. But it was just a stable nip."

Asked what provoked the horse, Hatcher thought for a moment before replying: "Perhaps he was annoyed by a British accent."

ASSERTS NEW HOME GOAL CAN'T BE MADE

House Committee Says Tightening of Money Market Makes It Impossible.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—A House Banking subcommittee said today Government action tightening the money market will make it "impossible to achieve the Administration goal of 1,300,000 new homes this year."

The Housing subcommittee, headed by Representative Albert Rains (Dem., Ala.), cited recent action by the Federal Reserve Board tightening the money market. Several Federal Reserve banks recently increased their loan discount rates to 3 per cent.

The subcommittee said the action will have "unfavorable repercussions" on the housing industry.

It also suggested a number of major changes in the operations of the Federal National Mortgage Association, which acts as a secondary purchase market for G.I. and FHA loans in many areas where mortgage money is tight or is available only at large discounts.

The recommendations included: The FNMA be given authority to make standby commitments to builders in tight money areas.

A reduction in the amount of stock required when a mortgage lender sells a loan to FNMA.

Additional funds for FNMA's special assistance program, designed to support low-cost housing programs which cannot secure private financing.

Creation of a special association revolving fund to encourage construction of low-cost housing in rural areas for lower-income families, elderly persons and minority groups.

In addition, the subcommittee proposed a new program to supply mortgage money to areas Under this plan, 10 per cent hardest hit by the scarcity of such funds.

of National Service life insurance fund reserves would be invested in G.I. home loans. The subcommittee said this would take more than $500,000,000 available for the purchase of G.I. mortgages.

The AFL-CIO called for construction of 2,000,000 new homes a year and for annual construction of 200,000 federally subsidized low-rent housing units. The union also criticized the Administration efforts to provide housing for low-income families and the elderly.

The views were presented to the subcommittee by Boris Shiskin, secretary of the union's housing committee. He said the union's recommendations were "rock-bottom minimum" requirements to meet the nation's housing needs.

PANAMA ELECTS PRESIDENT; TWO RIVALS CLAIM VICTORY

PANAMA CITY, May 14 (AP)—Election officials settled down today for a long count to determine Panama's new President, elected in balloting Sunday.

Both candidates claimed victory but official results were not expected for a couple of weeks. Minor violence was reported in interior towns, but there were no major incidents.

Contesting for President were Ernesto de la Guardia Jr., a Dartmouth college graduate, and former Supreme Court Justice Victor Florencio Goytia.

De la Guardia was backed by the National Patriotic Coalition, the government grouping of five parties merged by the late President Jose Antonio Remon. Goytia was the candidate of the opposition Liberal party.

Remon was assassinated at a race track in 1955. His successor, Vice President Jose Ramon Guizado, was convicted as one of the plotters. He is now serving a prison sentence. Ricardo Arias occupies the office now.

ILLINOIS GUARD AIRPLANES COLLIDE, ONE PILOT KILLED

MEREDOSIA, Ill., May 14 (AP)—Two Illinois Air National Guard planes collided in the air near here yesterday and one of the planes crashed.

The pilot of the crashed ship, an F-51 Mustang of the 169th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Second Lt. Ladd Miller, 25 years old, of Peoria, was killed.

The pilot of the other F-51, Capt. Verle D. Stauffer, 32, of Kewanee, Ill., was able to fly his damaged plane to Capitol Airport at Springfield, about 40 miles away, where he landed safely. He was not injured.

The two planes were part of a group of four fighters on a training mission from the National Guard base at Peoria.

SINGAPORE INDEPENDENCE TALKS NEAR BREAKDOWN

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Talks on the political future of Singapore, now a British colonial island, appeared near a breakdown today.

A meeting set for tomorrow on the main point still at issue—Britain's demand that it continue to control Singapore's foreign affairs and defense, whatever degree of self-rule is granted.

David Marshall, the colony's chief minister who has been here with a delegation for three weeks negotiating with the British, said last night in a broadcast to Singapore no agreement is better than a bad agreement.

CRITICIZES TRAFFIC COURT ABSENTEEISM

Counsel Says Personal Appearances Would Cut Accident Rate.

Accidents would be materially reduced if all persons charged with moving traffic violations were forced to appear in person before judges handling their cases, Robert L. Donigan, chief counsel for the Traffic Institute, Northwestern University, said here today.

Donigan, addressing the third annual Missouri Traffic Court conference at Washington University, said only 3,400,000 of 8,000,000 persons charged last year with moving violations actually were in court. Those who did not appear failed to receive the educational benefits such an appearance would have given them, he added.

Improvement of safety features of vehicles and highways would reduce the number of accidents by no more than 20 per cent, Donigan said. Any further improvement would be up to drivers and pedestrians, many of whom are in need of education.

State laws are far behind modern traffic conditions, he said, adding that the same types of courts dispose of traffic cases now as in 1910. He recommended that communities authorize studies to make traffic rules and regulations more realistic.

There were about 10,500,000 separate collisions between motor vehicles last year in the United States, Donigan said.

If your budget demands step-by-step air conditioning (rather than all at once)

Get the facts about individual G-E packaged units ...for your store, office or factory

If your place of business requires more than one General Electric Packaged Air Conditioner, you can make gradual installations—and payments. A section at a time—a unit at a time—whichever best suits your budget. And installation involves no costly alterations or shutdowns—and no heavy initial outlay.

No wasted space:—G-E floor models may be placed away from area being serviced where space is a problem. Or you may choose ceiling-mounted units (which may also be shelf-mounted) that use no floor space at all. No wasteful cooling:—G-E Packaged Units operate individually—you cool only the zones you want to the degree desired.

You can take up to 3 years to pay, after small down payment for each unit whether you install step-by-step or all at once. Order now. Installation at your convenience. Call your authorized G-E distributor, listed below, for free survey—learn how General Electric Air Conditioners can actually pay for themselves.

IN WAKE OF WEEKEND TORNADOES

Stripped, twisted trees against a troubled sky, a leveled house and damaged automobile bear witness to the force of tornadoes which struck Flint, Mich., this weekend, when twisters tore into the southern Great Lakes area, inflicting damage estimated in the millions of dollars. Torrential downpour which accompanied the Michigan storms caused the Flint river to overflow its banks, while the Grand river at Grand Rapids neared flood stage in what was termed the worst night in Michigan's history. At least 10 persons were killed in the hard-hit areas of Michigan and Ohio.

SEVERED BOW AFTER SEA COLLISION

Severed bow of the 2477-ton lumber schooner Howard Olson wallows in a calm Pacific ocean about three miles off the coast near Monterey, Calif., today after the ship was cut in two in a predawn collision with the freighter Marine Leopard. Three men lost their lives and one is missing, presumed dead. The Leopard picked up 25 Olson survivors before returning to San Francisco. Standing by the bow section, which sank a short time later, is the Tydol Flying A, which steamed to assist the stricken vessel.

Should a Man Take His Wife to Europe?

By Art Buchwald

ART BUCHWALD

bringing a wife to Europe.

NOW LET'S discuss the disadvantages.

When a man comes to Europe alone, he usually has one suitcase and an umbrella. When he travels with his wife he has 20 suitcases and two umbrellas. If he flies with his mate he pays $300 in overweight; if he goes by boat he has to hand out to stewards and porters $300 in tips.

When a husband traveling alone in a foreign country arrives in a city he gets into a taxicab, tells the driver the name of the hotel, and when he gets there pays the driver off and checks in.

But when he arrives in a strange city with his wife the dialogue in the cab goes something like this:

Wife: "Are you sure he's taking us the right way?"

How do we know he isn't gyping us?

Husband: "He looks like an honest fellow."

Wife: "That's what you said about the taxi driver in Naples."

The point is that whether you're alone or with your wife, you're bound to be gyped, but without a wife you get gyped comfortably and no one makes you feel like a fool.

WHEN ARRIVING ALONE, a man checks into a hotel room and if there is a bed, a washstand and a clean towel he's grateful. But when he checks in with his wife, she immediately starts poking around for dust in places you never knew existed. She then inevitably says: "The last room was much nicer. Why did we have to go and experiment?"

Al Capp, the cartoonist who almost won a Rockefeller Fellowship to study the problem, points out that one of the hazards of traveling with your wife is that she is constantly shopping.

"Wives," he said, "never shop for themselves. They are always shopping for other people. For some reason there are 27 babies expected the week after you get back and there are darling things in Europe for every one of them. Whatever it is, a husband finds it's much more expensive than if he had bought 27 presents for 27 chorus girls."

"Besides shopping for babies, wives are constantly shopping for other wives who couldn't get to Europe. The husband lays out the money for the items and when the wife gets back she collects every sou of it from her friends, but the husband never sees a dime of it."

CAPP POINTS OUT that one of the enormous disadvantages of traveling with your wife is that you keep bumping into disreputable bums from your home town whom you enjoy. "You've managed for 20 years to keep from introducing these guys to your wife in your hometown, but wherever you go in Europe you keep meeting them with the most embarrassing girls."

"Also when you travel with your wife you must inevitably face the problem of sightseeing. The first thing she says is, 'Shall we go to a museum or a cathedral?' She doesn't really want to go and she's counting on you to say no, which you usually do. But on the ship going back to the United States when someone asks your wife if she saw the Louvre, she says: 'I wanted to go but HE didn't.' Everyone looks at you as if you're a savage who should never have been given a passport in the first place."

To sum it up, we have only to quote our good friend W. W. How, who said:

"A wife domestic, good and pure
"Like snail should keep within her door."

Sleeping Problems

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

DIFFERENT times bring different problems. In the 1920s and '30s, when parents were, and were advised to be, very strict about feeding, we had many feeding problems. Now that most parents are more relaxed about what and how much their children eat, feeding problems definitely seem to be getting fewer.

Nowadays, however, sleeping problems do seem to be on the increase. At least, we hear more about them than we did. It is probable that some children are taking advantage of the greater leniency of parents to make more of a fuss at bedtime, or during the night, than they would once have dared to. Or it may be that parents are just franker about admitting the difficulties which they do have.

IT IS IMPORTANT to differentiate between those sleeping problems which seem to arise because a child is smart enough to realize that he can successfully get away with something, and those which represent real weaknesses or need on the part of a child.

Some children just plain cannot get to sleep for a long, long time after going to bed. Others really do seem to need the comforting presence of an adult when they wake, fearful, in the night. Others, especially infants, really do seem to need the comfort of a bottle or a parent's presence at bedtime to get them off to sleep.

Obviously how you should best treat the sleeping problems which arise in your own home will depend on what kind of problem you have. If it is merely a disciplinary problem, then the chances are that you could profitably be a bit tougher: "You get back into bed and stop that noise!" from a firm father has ended many a sleeping problem.

BUT IF YOU HAVE a tense or anxious or wakeful child, who at one time or another in his career (or, perhaps even worse luck, at nearly all ages) experiences real difficulty in getting to sleep and/or in remaining asleep, it is a different matter.

But—You don't just give in blindly and hopelessly, even when you give in. First you do what you can, by rearranging rooms, schedules, routines, props, to cut down the disturbance and demand.

Then if you need to, you give in to the child's demands for a while. Thus you may stay with him at bedtime.

It is very important, however, to remember that some children, like some adults, really do have a hard time in getting to sleep and in staying asleep. And they may need real and patient help.

10 Years From Brooklyn to the Met

That's How Long It Took Robert Merrill, but Now He's Doing All Right

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP). It takes just 15 cents and a few minutes to go by subway from Brooklyn to the Metropolitan Opera House in Manhattan.

It took Robert Merrill 10 hard and often lonely years to make the journey but at 27 he came as a star. He was the youngest baritone ever to make his debut at the Metropolitan in a major role.

Good operatic baritones are almost as scarce as penguins in Florida. Merrill, son of a Brooklyn laborer, is one of the best America has produced.

Like most opera stars Bob is proud to call himself "a long-hair," but he doesn't let his hair fall over his eyes and blind him to other forms of music.

"I like almost any kind of music except rock-n-roll," he said. "But that I don't go for."

Bob was a boy soprano. He took up singing to help cure him of stuttering.

"It did help, too," he remarked. "But I was still so shy about appearing in public that I quit singing at 12 and didn't take it up again until I was 17."

"This turned out to be a good thing. I found out later that many children ruin their voice by using it too much during the years when the voice is changing. It should be rested and allowed to strengthen."

An odd reversal takes place in boys' voices as they mature. High-pitched sopranos usually turn into baritones or even basses. It is the allos who become tenors.

Merrill has a theory that many young singers, even after they reach physical maturity, destroy their voices by overworking them too hard too early.

"They try to go after a fast

ROBERT MERRILL... LIKE MOST OPERA STARS HE'S A "LONG-HAIR" BUT HE LIKES ALMOST ANY KIND OF MUSIC EXCEPT ROCK-N-ROLL.

buck too soon," he said. "For three years I sang nothing but simple Italian love songs before I appeared before an audience."

I was working in a belt factory for $10 a week. I was paid $7 for singing four songs at a wedding reception. The $7 didn't impress me so much as the fact I got a free dinner, too.

"In those days I used to buy a dime sandwich at a lunch counter, then go out and buy a 50-cent cigar just to have a feeling of luxury."

"But it wasn't until I had 10 full years of voice study that I felt ready to appear before an opera audience. It's dangerous for a kid to go up into the big leagues too fast."

MERRILL now does about 30 opera performances a year, 10 to 15 guest spots on television, about 20 concerts and spends three weeks in Las Vegas, where he usually is co-starred with—of all people—"Satchmo" Armstrong, the jazz trumpeter.

To keep up this Spartan schedule, Bob has to watch his weight like a boxer, take long walks, exercise twice a day.

He has 20 roles in his repertoire, but if he had his way he would sing only two or three roles—but do each of them 10 times a year.

"It is the only way to approach perfection in a role," he said. "What is there better in living than to find something you like to do and then learn to do it as well as you possibly can—so that people identify it with you? A singer cannot become truly great in many roles. He can hope to do so in a few—after many years."

What is the difference between a baritone and a tenor? "That's easy," said Merrill laughing. "The tenor usually wins the girl in the opera. The tenor usually gets paid more money but baritones have one consolation—they usually last longer than tenors."

But Bob is doing all right. His income is high in the six figure bracket and I don't mean $1000.00.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

"MYRON, YOU DON'T WALK THE TELEPHONE—YOU ANSWER IT."

Words, Wit and Wisdom—By William Morris

A Hog on Ice.

IN a recent television interview, writes Mrs. Mary Smidutz of Port Clinton, O., "Minnesota's Gov. Orville Freeman, referring to the bid being made by the two leading Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination, said that the voters of his state were as 'independent as a hog on ice.' Please explain the origin of that phrase."

"Independent as a hog on ice" is an expression which has been current in many parts of the country for more than a century. Like many folk idioms, it doesn't seem to make sense when you try to analyze it. Just how independent could a hog be, slipping around on ice and, most likely, losing his footing?

The answer, of course, is that he'd have no "independence" whatever. Yet the phrase is used to describe a person who cares not a whit for the opinion of others, who wears no man's collar, who is beholden to no body.

For an answer to this seeming contradiction, word expert Charles Earle devoted many an hour of research, finally coming up with a theory that the "hog" of the saying is not the common domestic animal at all. Instead, he believes it is a term from the Scottish game curing, which is played on ice by sliding stones toward a mark. A stone which does not travel the required distance and comes to rest in the path of other stones is called a "hog."

It's an interesting theory and it has the virtue of getting the hog and the ice together in fairly logical fashion. It has the disadvantage of being derived from a game almost unknown in this country, at least at the time—a century ago—when the phrase was most widely heard.

So, despite Dr. Funk's researches (he even wrote a book entitled "A Hog On Ice"), we shall have to label this unusual and provocative expression "origin obscure."

Quite possibly, of course, some of you readers may have other ideas about the origin of this expression. If so, we should be happy to see them. Just send your letter to me in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Why Sashes Stick

When painting window sashes, never paint the groove in the frame in which the window sash moves up and down. If you do the chances are you'll end up with a sticking window. Coat the exposed wood in these grooves with linseed oil.

Start Day With Good Breakfast

By Edith M. Barber

THE first mission of food is to satisfy the appetite. Of course, there are great individual differences in this respect. What is adequate for one person may be too much or too little for another.

It would seem that after the long interval between the evening meal and breakfast the next morning everyone should have good appetite for breakfast. From our own experience we know that this is not always the case. This first meal of the day should not be omitted completely as it sometimes is. Generally speaking, we are more efficient when we have satisfied our stomach early in the day.

In addition to that tall glass of fruit juice that most of us choose, there should be at least a piece or two of buttered toast with the coffee. The fat that butter contributes stays with us longer than do most other foods. An egg is recommended both because it gives satisfaction and because it provides some of the protein of which we should have a liberal supply during the day. A bit of bacon will supply fat but little protein, and will often stimulate appetite for other foods.

While many persons enjoy the same breakfast every morning of the year, there are others who like variation. Sometimes this is furnished by offering toasted split English muffins, or if there is time enough to prepare them, freshly baked hot muffins or corn bread. Occasionally we like coffee cake or sweet rolls.

The other meals of the day should be planned with reference to what was eaten at breakfast. If not used at this time, eggs should appear on the table several times a week for lunch. They are of high quality at this time of year and usually at a lower price when they are so plentiful.

Rich Muffins.
Two cups sifted flour; three teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt; one-fourth cup sugar; one egg, well beaten; one cup milk.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar, and cream until fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Bake in greased muffin pans in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 20 to 30 minutes. Yield: 18 small or 12 medium muffins.

Let's Explore Your Mind

1. EMOTIONS ALONE MAKE LOVE ENPURE. TRUE FALSE.

Answer to Question 1.
FALSE. That's the trouble with this whole love business. Love is the greatest of all emotions—but it takes intelligence; co-operative nesses; foresight; mutual likes, hopes, enthusiasms; similar ideas, and usually a little money in the mutual pocketbook, to keep it going. Movies, novels, etc., make you think love is like perpetual motion—but this theory, like perpetual motion machines, has only one little defect—it won't work.

Answer to Question 2.
It's about the best way ever invented to make liars, unless done with discretion. When you ask Johnny, "Why didn't you wash behind your ears?" or "Why didn't you wash your hands before using the towel?"—he instantly puts forth excuses. Mary goes through the same process, right up to the boy-and-girl age. First, it is excuses—then, lies. These "why" questions, tinged with irritation, always provoke this reaction: I know it takes an angel's skill, but avoiding the

IRVING BERLIN (who could get RCA, M-G-M, Fox and other "Angels" to put up the money) will be the only backer of his next musical, "Sentimental Guy." This is the song-and-dancer based on "The Legendary Miners" which S. N. Behrman adapted. . . . Jose Ferrer may be the star. . . . Berlin has always been contemptuous of the technique used to audition backers. . . . When Sam H. Harris was his partner (for their shows at the Music Box) they never went to outsiders for coin. . . . Eileen Barton invaded the legit (in Summer Stock) via "Dear Barbarians." Grace Kelly played it on her climb to the heights. . . . Gretchen Wyler, who joined the "Silk Stockings" cast (just before the premiere), is now featured over the title on tour. . . . Gall Bladder Trouble

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

MANY people ask about "what's new" in gall bladder trouble? That is normal curiosity; about one in every five adults has some symptoms due to faulty gall bladder action. Chances are that one or more of your close friends have gallstones, or at least a "lazy" gall bladder due to chronically inflamed gall bladder walls.

There are those who are especially concerned about the symptoms. Somehow, they want to make their own diagnosis. This is, of course, foolhardy reasoning. Only the physician can make the proper differential diagnosis. It is true that in gall-bladder disease the patient may have nausea, vomiting, pain under the right rib cage that is sometimes referred between the shoulder blades. But these symptoms may also be present in gastritis or ulcer. They may even be referred pains from trouble in the chest.

ASSUMING THAT the diagnosis has been made. Where do you go from there? The answer must fit you like a tailor-made garment. What will be serviceable for you may be bad for the next fellow.

For example, here is Mrs. Smith who has been having pain, colicky in nature and obtinate in duration. A few hypodermics of morphine have not really restored her to her previous comfortable state. The pain between her shoulders and under her ribs persists. She has a little fever and feels chilly.

What to do? There seems no question in her doctor's mind; operation. I suppose he suspects gallstones, but perhaps more than that. I also assume that he wants that gall bladder out because he is suspicious of beginning gangrene of the gall bladder. Rather than leave her at home and chance perforation and peritonitis, her doctor wants her in the hospital where she can be observed more carefully and readied for surgery if necessary.

SUPPOSE IT IS Mr. Jones who has been having some trouble. His only discomfort has been after eating fatty foods. Suspicious, his doctor called for X-rays of the gall bladder. He was not surprised to get the report that stones were present. In his case the procedure was different than in Mrs. Smith's case.

Years ago the very diagnosis of stones was in itself the green light for operation. We are more conservative about that now. We give you the benefit of medical treatment first. I have treated patients with gallstones who went along 20 or more years without having any real discomforts. Operation was unnecessary. Had they suffered an attack of colic or jaundice; or had the gall bladder become really infected, then surgery must have been the advisable treatment.

In answer to "what's new," that is about the extent of it: conservative management—with or without stones. There is no sure way of preventing gallstones. But these hints will help keep the gall bladder healthy. If you are fat, reduce. A diet high in fat predisposes to gall bladder stasis (thickened bile). Don't take large meals. Drink at least eight glasses of water daily. Wear loose, comfortable clothing. Take mild exercise like walking, bowling or gardening. Eat lean meat instead of gorging yourself with fats.

If you take good care of yourself you will cut down the chances for gall bladder surgery by 30 to 50 per cent. Fried foods, salad dressings, oil, cream and butter are bad on your gall bladder.

A Top Scientist's Boyhood in Missouri

Dr. Mervin Kelly, Head of Bell Laboratories, Recalls Working Way Through School at Rolla

By Virginia Irwin

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 14.

IN 1910, 16-year-old Mervin Kelly left his home in Gallatin, Mo., dreaming of becoming a mining engineer with a career that would carry him to far-off, romantic places in the world. With just enough money for his tuition, he enrolled in the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla.

To make ends meet, he took a job with the State Geological Survey, which paid him 35 cents an hour and allowed him to sleep in a third-floor room over the Survey headquarters. Working nights and Saturdays and Sundays, he managed to earn the magnificent sum of $18 a month cataloging and numbering mineral specimens.

Today, the boy who once worked at painting numbers on rocks, sits in a mahogany-paneled New York office, high up in a building overlooking the Hudson river. Now a dynamic 62 years old, Dr. Mervin J. Kelly, president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, heads one of the largest industrial laboratories in the world.

As the research and development unit of the Bell System, Bell Laboratories has as its objective the creation of communications equipment and systems. During the last war, Bell Laboratories converted almost completely to military research and development and, under Dr. Kelly's direction, carried out more than 1200 projects for the armed forces in such strategic fields as military communications, radar, submarine detection, and gunfire and bombing control systems. Since the war Bell Laboratories has continued to devote a substantial amount of its effort and vast experience in electronics to the military on such defense projects as the Nike anti-aircraft guided missile system.

Dr. Kelly, who holds the Presidential Certificate of Merit awarded in recognition of his war effort, took time out from his heavy work schedule the other day to reminisce a bit about his boyhood in Missouri.

Born in Princeton, Mo., the son of Joseph F. Kelly, who was then principal of the high school at the Mercer county seat, young Mervin moved to Gallatin with his family when his father decided to buy an implement hardware business in that town.

"I worked at all sorts of jobs in the summers and kept the store books for my father and carried a newspaper route, delivering the Post-Dispatch and the Kansas City papers from the time I was 10 until I went to Rolla at 16," he recalled. "I had saved $400 to go to Rolla and I was really pretty lucky. In those days not too many youngsters got to go to college."

Young Mervin's original ambition to become a mining engineer was born when a brother of a friend of the Kelly family visited Gallatin. The man was a mining engineer and had just returned from British Columbia. With his heart set on a career that would take him to exciting places, Mervin worked hard at Rolla, both at his studies and at his job with the Missouri State Geological Survey.

Graduating from Rolla in 1914 with a Bachelor of Science degree, Mervin had by then decided that he wanted "to make a life in academic research." In 1915, he received a Master of Science degree from the University of Kentucky where he served for two years as instructor in physics. In 1918, he received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Chicago.

At Chicago, young scientist Kelly had done considerable work in electronic research and "had fallen in love with it." Newly married to Katharine Milsted, a Rolla girl he had met at a Baptist Young People's meeting, he was delighted when the Western Electric Co. offered him a $2100-a-year temporary job as a research physicist. With the end of the first World War, during which he did his first considerable work in the field of submarine detection, Dr. Kelly was asked to stay on with Western Electric. For the first 10 years of his Bell System employment, originally with Western Electric and beginning in 1925 with Bell Telephone Laboratories, he worked on the fundamental problems of vacuum tubes, gaseous discharge phenomena and electron dynamics. Beginning in 1928, his area of technical interest had broadened to include applications of acoustics in telephony. In 1924 he was made Development Director of Transmission Instruments and Electronics for Bell Telephone Laboratories and in 1936 was appointed Director of Research.

In 1944 he was named Executive Vice President and in 1951 became President of the great scientific research and development institution that employs some 9500 persons, of whom approximately one-third are trained scientists and engineers with broad technical experience and background.

LOOKING back over his 30 years with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Dr. Kelly reeled off some figures which may come as a surprise to all of us to whom the telephone is just an ordinary thing we take for granted.

Thirty years ago there were 17,000,000 telephones in the United States; the genius from Gallatin pointed out, "Today there are 56,000,000, three and one-third times as many. This means one telephone for every three persons in the country, a higher ratio than exists anywhere else in the world. The United States, with only six per cent of the world's population, possesses 55 per cent of the world's telephones."

Then Dr. Kelly talked of "a new thing—direct distance dialing."

Replacing Screening on Wood Frames. SINCE the invention of wire insect screening, home owners have been faced with the problem of how to fasten wire screening to a wood frame and get it nice and tight. Various methods have been developed to do this job and some of them can become mighty complicated. For our money, one of the best tricks is also the simplest and requires the least time and effort.

What you do is fasten one end of the screening to the top of the screen frame. This should be securely fastened with either staples or tacks. Now you pull the screening down over the frame getting it even on both sides. Bring it down over the bottom end of the frame. Now what you do is to take a piece of 1 x 6 inch board about the same length as "We call it DDD," he said, "direct distance dialing by subscribers without the help of operators. In addition to dialing local calls, many telephone customers can now dial calls to a great many areas throughout the country. The switching mechanism selects the route to the distant station. Should it find a particular route busy, it keeps hunting until it finds an alternate path that is not busy. Some years hence when this development is completed, substantially all subscribers will dial their station-to-station calls wherever within this continent they may terminate."

Among the thousands of research projects of Bell Laboratories has been the problem of mechanisms to handle the billing of DDD calls.

"With no operator present on a DDD call," Dr. Kelly explained, "complex mechanisms must be provided to record billing information automatically and later process it on a printed bill. The equipment for this purpose is known as AMA. These letters should not be confused with the American Medical Association. They stand merely for Automatic Message Accounting. The mechanism is composed almost wholly of relays and associated circuits."

The recipient of hundreds of honors and awards, Dr. Kelly was in February elected a Foreign Member of the Swedish Royal Academy of Sciences, one of the world's foremost learned societies. The diploma was awarded for "masterly researches in the domain of electronics and electrotechnics."

Also recently, he was named to receive with Sir Gordon Radley, Director General of the British Post Office, the first Christopher Columbus International Communication Prize. Dr. Kelly and Sir Gordon Radley were selected in recognition of "the planning, now being placed into practice, of the submarine telephone cable which will make it possible to establish 36 telephone circuits across the Atlantic between Scotland and Canada with extension to New York."

It was some 20 years ago, just about the time that Dr. Kelly was named director of research, that Bell Laboratories initiated research programs that have provided the technology for the 2000-mile deep-sea section extending from Newfoundland to Scotland. This transatlantic telephone cable is scheduled to be placed in service later this year.

"I am confident," says Dr. Kelly, "that this pioneering cable is only the first of many broad-band communications cables that will link the major land bodies of the world. Already under way is a similar link between the west coast of the United States and Hawaii."

"While in the early years the technology will permit only band-width adequate for multi-channel telephone, the time is not too far distant when cables with band widths sufficiently broad for television transmission will be possible. These communication links connecting continents will make large contributions to international business and social life and to world unity."

SINCE 1945, Dr. Kelly estimates, he has given approximately half of his time to the military and to atomic energy work, carrying out important assignments in Washington of a public service nature. He was vice chairman of the United States Air Force's Scientific Advisory Board from 1950 through 1954 and chairman in 1955. He also served as adviser to Secretary Flinn of the Air Force on the organization and expansion of its research and development work. "For distinguished service to air power in the field of science," the Air Force Association awarded Dr. Kelly its 1953 trophy. He was recently elected vice chairman of the Naval Research Advisory Committee.

He has advised the Atomic Energy Commission on its military research and development programs. In 1953 was chairman of a committee for the Secretary of Defense to study the problems of continental defense against atomic attack and to make recommendations on organization and progress.

Despite a work schedule that would wind a less rugged man, Dr. Kelly still finds time to ride his favorite hobby—flower gardening. At his home, Windmere Terrace, Short Hills, N.J., he has an acre and a half garden—planned so that he has flowers blooming from March to December. He has a bulb garden of some 20,000 tulips, hyacinths and narcissus. He grows everything from zinnias, marigolds and asters to almost every known chrysanthemum.

Although Dr. and Mrs. Kelly have lived in the East for many years, they still consider themselves Midwesterners.

"We're still Midwestern at heart," he says. "We try to get back to Rolla at least once a year. I'm on the executive committee of the alumni association and Katherine and I always try to make homecoming or at least one football game during the year."

A few years back Dr. Kelly led the fight to keep the Rolla School of Mines from being separated from the University of Missouri.

Temperate in all things except work, Dr. Kelly allows himself one martini before dinner. Through research he has arrived at a martini formula which calls for 83 per cent gin and 17 per cent vermouth.

"Actually I'd prefer my martini even dryer," he laughed, "but the 83-17 represents the absolute limit of Katherine's tolerance."

Mr. Masters opened the jack of diamonds and dummy's king won. Mrs. Keen figured the lead was from a suit headed by Jack-10 and saw no reason to discourage continuation of the suit and followed suit with the eight spot.

At trick two Mr. Meek led the nine of hearts from the board and ducked it, losing to the king. At this point, Mr. Masters had a clear idea as to his chances of defeating the contract. For one thing, if Mr. Meek had the king of clubs, he had no problems, and it would be almost impossible to beat him. Future defense, then, had to be based on the hope that Mr. Keen held that card.

Next, it seemed certain Mrs. Keen did not have a singleton spade because if she had been able to ruff a second round of spades she would have played her lowest diamond at trick one in an effort to encourage her partner to shift when he next gained the lead.

Apparently the defenders could win one heart, one club (if Mrs. Keen had the king) and therefore two spade tricks would have to be garnered. If Mr. Meek did not have as many as three spades, again the contract would be unbeatable.

On this reasoning, Mr. Masters made a daring lead at trick three. He laid down the queen of spades. Dummy's king won and Mr. Meek picked up the outstanding trumps in two leads.

He now had no better play than to take the club finesse. This lost to the king and Mrs. Keen returned her last spade. Holding the ace-10 over Mr. Meek's jack, Mr. Masters automatically got two tricks in the suit to put the contract down one.

EDITOR SAM DAY tells a story of a cranky old head of a Philadelphia paper who liked to dash off his own lead editorials. He finished one in a white heat and slapped it into the copy basket with a great flourish. St. Louis Family Attends Anniversary in East

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

TO help mark the occasion of her mother's eightieth birthday anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton MacVeagh, 425 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves, were in New York last week. Accompanied by their youngest daughter, Miss Priscilla MacVeagh, they went east for the celebration observed by Mrs. Edwin G. Merrill on May 5. Twenty-nine members of Mrs. Merrill's family, out of a possible 36, gathered for the event, many coming from out of town. The family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Merrill's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin K. Merrill, in Bedford Hills.

With the MacVeaghs, in addition to Miss Priscilla, were three of their other four children. Miss Clara MacVeagh, the eldest, went from her home in New York City. Miss Adele attended from Bryn Mawr College, where she is a student, while Charlton Jr., a Harvard student, went from Cambridge, Mass. The MacVeaghs' other son, C. Peter MacVeagh, who is serving in the Army, was unable to be present.

A guest in St. Louis from Cambridge, Mass., is Mrs. Harold A. Osgood, a former St. Louisan, who is visiting Mrs. R. H. Thompson, 41 Ridgemoor drive, Clayton. While here Mrs. Osgood will be the guest of other St. Louis friends; she will leave Mrs. Thompson's Wednesday to be with Mrs. Charles Douglas Smiley, 2 Wydown terrace, Clayton, and after several days will become the house guest of Mrs. William Wallace Scott Jr., 1339 North Geyer road, Kirkwood.

Mrs. Thompson will depart June 1 to open her cottage for the summer in the Adirondacks at Lake Pleasant, N.Y. From there she will go to Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., to attend commencement exercises as a guest of the college. For many years Mrs. Thompson served as a trustee of Mount Holyoke. She will be away from St. Louis most of the summer.

Mrs. J. Stuart Fitzhugh returned by plane a few days ago to her home in Charlottesville, Va., after a visit here with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moon, 7 Beverly place. Mrs. Fitzhugh motored here with Mrs. Moon, who with Mr. Moon had been in Charlottesville to see their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnston Sargeant (Kay Moon), for the first time since the Sargeants' wedding last January. Mr. Moon returned by plane.

Complete Wedding Plans for June 9

MRS. BETTY ANN HEINRICH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Heinrich, 614 Florence avenue, Webster Groves, and David William Moenkhaus have completed plans for their wedding June 9 with the announcement of all attendants. Norman A. Moenkhaus will serve as best man for his brother while the following will be ushers: William Clark Engman, Herbert E. Scholl, J. Warren Ferguson, Clyde E. Williams, H. Gerry Bishop and Myles C. Walshe of Pasadena, Calif., the prospective bride's cousins.

Miss Heinrich has asked several young women to serve at the reception to be held in the Fellowship Hall of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, following the ceremony there performed by the Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer. Assisting will be Miss Jane Miyoshi, Kapaa, Kauai, Hawaii, whose parents will send the bride's bouquet; Miss Patricia Jones, Springfield, Mo.; Mrs. Thomas F. Atteberry, Miss Peggy King, Miss Barbara Goedecke and Mrs. William Ramsey.

Parties planned for Miss Heinrich and her fiancé include a dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Engman (she will be matron of honor) at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Martin F. Engman, 6445 Cecil avenue, Clayton, June 5, and another dinner at which Miss Heinrich's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wells, will be host and hostess at their home, 4527 Varrelman avenue, June 7.

The bachelor dinner will be given June 2 by the bridegroom-elect on the picnic grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander O. Heinrich's home, 8812 Ramona avenue, Normandy. Grandparents of the bride-elect, and Mr. Moenkhaus's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August W. Moenkhaus, 1116 Terrace drive, Richmond Heights, will give the rehearsal dinner June 8. Another party is to be given by Mrs. Raymond M. Keltner Jr., a bridesmaid, the date for which is not decided.

Two miscellaneous showers and a kitchen shower have already been given for Miss Heinrich. Hostesses were her aunt, Mrs. Wilbert C. Heinrich; Miss Nancy Wright, a bridesmaid, and Mrs. George Marshall, aunt of the bridegroom-elect. Mrs. Atteberry and her mother, Mrs. R. J. Mullen, were hostesses at a tea at Mrs. Mullen's home, 445 Woodlawn avenue, Webster Groves, at which Miss Heinrich shared honors with another bride-to-be, Miss Jane Frederick, who will be married to Ronald James Uhle of Chicago June 16.

"Fashions New Under the Sun," a style show and tea, will be given by the Women's Organization of Westborough Country Club in the main dining room of the club Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Sponsoring the event will be Stix, Baer & Fuller. Mrs. Edward Tipton and Mrs. Russell Munzinger are co-chairmen of the event, the proceeds from which will be used to aid the expansion-improvement program at Westborough.

Pink Elephant Sale Late This Month

THE barn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schocknecht, 595 Delman road, Olivette, will be the scene Tuesday, May 29, of a Pink Elephant Sale sponsored by the members of the Auxiliary Group of the Animal Protective Association of Missouri (St. Louis County Humane Society). The sale will benefit the association.

On sale will be a variety of objects—including jewelry, silver, kitchen items, linens and small pieces of furniture—which have been donated to the group. In charge of picking up donations are Mrs. Arthur B. Baer, Mrs. Carl M. Bacon, Mrs. M. A. Block, Mrs. Oliver Evans and Mrs. Schocknecht.

Miss Anne Jaudon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Jaudon, 46 Glen road, Webster Groves, has been elected to the DaPauw University chapter of Mortar Board, scholarship-leadership honorary society for women. Miss Jaudon, a junior at the university, was notified of her election in the course of the traditional May Day capping ceremony on the campus.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Jarvis, 12 Huntleigh Woods, Huntleigh Village, departed recently for a six-week tour abroad. The Jarvisses, who flew to Europe, will travel on the continent and through England before sailing aboard the Queen Mary for home.

Spring Visitors For Families in Webster Groves

MRS. AND MRS. WILLIAM L. SULLIVAN, 210 North Old Orchard avenue, are expecting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Sullivan of Terre Haute, Ind., the weekend of May 26. The occasion will mark the eleventh wedding anniversary of the Gregory Sullivans, who were married in Webster Groves.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel A. Carter, 123 Portland terrace, have entertained a series of visitors at their home. Mrs. Carter's sister, Miss Estelle Andrus, and their niece, Miss Marian Swinburne, returned home to Los Angeles last week after a week's visit here. Informal parties marked their visits.

Other recent visitors there were their grandson, Robert Carter, his wife and two children, Douglas and Linda, all of Brookfield, Ill. Another grandson, Gary Carter of Highland Park, Ill., was here 10 days ago. The Carters' daughter-in-law, Mrs. Vernon Carter, and her daughter, Michelle, came from their home in Bay Shore, L.I., for a visit last month.

Mrs. Carter is planning a trip east soon.

Mrs. Tom McReynolds, 688 Oakwood avenue, returned home last week from Pine Bluff, Ark., where she visited her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Robinson. While there she attended her high school class reunion.

Mrs. Charles Jordan, 121 Selma avenue, returned home today from Parkville, Mo., where she visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Holt Jordan, students at Park College. The younger Jordans became parents recently of a son, Gregory Holt Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Goehausen and their baby daughter, June, have returned to their home in Evansville, Ind., after a visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Goehausen, 152 Plant avenue.

Recent visitors here were Mr. and Mrs. E. Zipp of Chicago, who formerly lived in Webster Groves. Among the many parties given for them was a tea given by Mrs. Albert J. Danneker, 3 Glenoak place, for Mrs. Zipp. Guests were old friends of the honoree.

My Day

A Gentle Person Who Took a Stand

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

A FEW days ago I met Mrs. Rosa Parks, who started the non-violent protest in Montgomery, Ala., against segregation on busses. She is a very quiet, gentle person and it is difficult to imagine how she ever could take such a positive and independent stand.

I suppose we must realize that these things do not happen all of a sudden. They grow out of feelings that have been developing over many years. Human beings reach a point when they say: "This is as far as I can go," and from then on it may be passive resistance, but it will be resistance.

That is what seems to have happened in Montgomery, and perhaps it will happen all over our country wherever we have citizens who do not enjoy complete equality. It may be that this attitude will save us from war and bloodshed and teach those of us who have to learn that there is a point beyond which human beings will not continue to bear injustice.

Mrs. J.R. Hanson New Regent for D.A.R. Chapter

By Fay Proffitt

MRS. JAMES R. HANSON was installed as regent of the Webster Groves Chapter, D.A.R., May 3 at the annual meeting at the Rose Garden tearoom. Mrs. Hanson, who will serve for two years, succeeds Mrs. Maurice R. Chambers.

Others installed were: Mrs. Otto G. Balser, Mrs. Raymond

—Julius Pierow Photograph. MRS. JAMES R. HANSON

L. Williams and Mrs. L. Austin Warren, vice regents; Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, chaplain; Mrs. Jimmie L. Oglesby, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Ellington, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James A. Daar, treasurer; Mrs. A. Victor Reese, registrar, and Mrs. William Stoeker, historian. Directors are Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. John Ehrhardt, Mrs. Charles I. Maxey and Miss Florence Burgess.

The new regent will preside at a meeting June 7 at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Reasor, Mason road, Creve Coeur. The program for this guest meeting will feature an address on "Planning for World Peace and Progress," by Dr. Huston Smith, associate professor of philosophy at Washington University. After the meeting the chapter will adjourn until October.

All of this takes planning and is not as easy as letting the old pattern be perpetuated. So we have a double problem: The interim problem of those who have to be evacuated, and the firm position which we in the north must accept that we will not perpetuate ghettos on either race or color line.

I HAVE BEEN ASKED to mention the fact that National Salvation Army week starts on May 21. Many will find it interesting to see the new building, bought and remodeled through a request by the late Mrs. Florence Ten Eyck Troughton, which opened in February for the benefit of working women in the middle age bracket who are receiving moderate salaries.

Jewish Council Gives Musical

MUSICAL show, "Meet the Press," was given at noon today at the annual meeting and breakfast of the St. Louis Section, National Council of Jewish Women, at the Chase Hotel. As part of the show, Mrs. Herman E. Gram, president, presented her annual report.

The show, written by Mrs. Edward L. Block, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Eckstein, was under the direction of Mrs. Walter Hamburg. In charge of the production was Mrs. Lester Bud Levy, assisted by Mrs. Alan Goldberg; Mrs. H. Leslie Grodsky and Mrs. Arnold Schwab headed the art production; Mrs. Julian Lowenstein directed the dances, and Mrs. Sam Wolff was at the piano.

Mrs. Jules Kopp, past president of the St. Louis Section, installed the following: Mrs. Lee I. Kaufman, vice president of administration and finance; Mrs. Gideon Schiller, vice president of education; Mrs. Theodore Kristal, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Roswell Measuring Jr., recording secretary, and Mrs. Milton Epstein, and Mrs. Michael W. Freund and Mrs. Marcus Hirsch Jr., directors.

Mrs. Sallie Owen, fashion retail co-ordinator for McCall's magazine and a member of the New York Fashion Group, will address the St. Louis Fashion Group at a luncheon tomorrow at Stix, Baer and Fuller. She will present a preview of fall fashion trends.

The Southwest High School P.T.A. will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow in the school auditorium at 1 p.m. The program will feature a preview of the May musical to be given by the students Friday under the direction of Miss Leontone Meyer and Libero Monachesi.

The Margaret A. E. McLure Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, met today at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. William Grolock, 25 Deerfield road. Ladue. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Obie Surles, Mrs. Vernon W. Jerner, Mrs. Carolyn Birkholz and Mrs. Leon Hurwitz. Mrs. Lloyd Herring, chapter president, presided for the nomination and installation of officers.

The Lutheran Business Women will meet at Our Saviour Church, 2854 Abner place, tomorrow, for dinner at 6 p.m. and a business meeting at 7:30.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

THIS letter is from one of the female sex, 23 and single. My problem is a man (naturally), age 30 and (so he says) a confirmed bachelor. (Do they all say that?) He has told me many times that he loves me and I feel the same toward him. He has a good steady job and although he may never make a million I feel it's enough security. I have confidence in him and know he'll do better in the future. He asked me to wait six months so that we could make up our minds and be sure. Well, last weekend he told me he had already made up his mind, that he's definitely not getting married. I said all right, if that's how he feels and wants it. I didn't want to argue. I do love him and want to see him. Should I wait until he calls, call him or go where I know I'll see him?

WAITING.

It seems to me that now he has had his say, there's not much you can do as a matter of pride but accept it and send him on his way. He says he doesn't want to get married. So why chase him down? Sure, it's no fun to be told by someone you love that he doesn't want to marry you. No one enjoys a kick in the teeth like that. But you can't force him to marry. So hold up your head and try to find a man in a marriageable mood. They may be scarce, but there are still a few around.

Dear Martha:

PLEASE TELL ME how to solve this problem. My neighbor has three children and from time to time she has asked me to take care of them. I am glad to do so because I have none of my own and I like these youngsters. They are well-behaved and pleasant to have around. But last week this neighbor told me she is taking a part-time job and just mentioned casually that "the children will be over here every afternoon if that's all right." I was surprised that I didn't know what to say. I started to discuss it with her but just then she heard her telephone ring and ran back home and I haven't had a chance to talk with her about it since. I don't mind having the children occasionally but I can't be responsible for them every day.

WORRIED.

I see no reason in the world why you should feel obligated to be a baby-sitter. You'll just have to make a point of talking to her about it. Tell her that you'd like to help out but that you simply can't plan to stay at home every afternoon. This is her problem, not yours, and I'd strongly advise you not to start such an arrangement, even though she promises to make other plans soon, because with someone like this such a promise is frequently an empty one.

IN ANSWER TO Barbara. To your question, "May the groom's family give the wedding?" the answer is an emphatic and unqualified "No." Even though the bride's family is in modest circumstances and the groom's family much more affluent, still the girl's parents are the one to plan and arrange the wedding ceremony. It should be in keeping with their financial ability and brides from modest homes should remember that a simple and unostentatious ceremony can be just as lovely and charming as the most elaborate wedding.

Write today for Martha Carr's free leaflet of clubs for young adults, those between 30 and 50, or senior citizens. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Don't Carry Tales

By Ruth Millett

IS there any kind of way of telling a woman her husband is having an affair with one of her so-called friends?

A reader asks me for a "kind way" of breaking such news since she feels it is her duty to tell the wife what is going on.

RUTH MILLETT

Let's see what the possibilities of the situation actually are.

First of all and never to be overlooked, there's the possibility that the husband isn't having an affair but is the victim of malicious gossip.

Then there's the possibility that the wife knows or suspects what is going on and has chosen to act as though she doesn't.

There is also the chance that she suspects nothing and is happy that way.

Or it could be that she knows of the situation and has decided to take her time making up her mind what to do.

Under any possible condition, how could it help the wife to be told "the truth"?

It couldn't.

And any woman who is tempted to tell another woman a bitter truth "for her own good" or "her own protection" would do well to ask herself what her real motives are.

Most likely she enjoys peddling bad news or can't bear the thought of a friend's being happy or complacent when she should be miserable.

No, there's no "kind" way of telling a woman that her husband is being unfaithful to her. And there's no justification for telling her, either.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER TELLS ME: "At a recent wedding, the bride threw her bouquet and my 17-year-old daughter caught it. She was very excited over it. Shortly afterwards, however, the mother of the bride came over to my daughter and asked her for the bouquet, saying that she wanted to press it for the bride so that she could keep it as a remembrance. My daughter gave up the bouquet, of course, but very reluctantly. Wasn't the bride's mother wrong to ask my daughter to give up the bouquet? I always thought that the person who caught the bouquet was entitled to keep it."

The one who catches the bouquet is entitled to keep it if she wants to. Personally, I can't imagine anyone wanting to keep anything so perishable. If the bride wants a remembrance she would take a flower from the bouquet before throwing it.

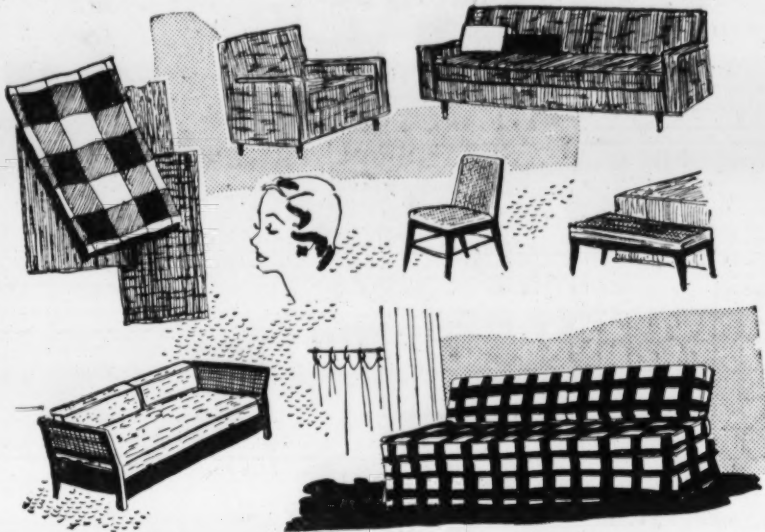

DEAR MRS. POST: A man, whom my husband and I know through business, invited us to dinner and to spend the evening with him and his wife at their home. My husband met his wife once but I never have. I think his wife should telephone us if she really wants us. My husband thinks the man's invitation is sufficient, but how do we know if he will be welcome by the wife?

Answer: To treat the husband's invitation as though he were a stranger in his own house is in my opinion, unimaginable. Not to consider his personal invitation valid is henpecking at its extreme.

New Ideas in Slipcovers

By Elizabeth Hillyer

NOW SLIPCOVERS CAN DO MORE THAN EVER BEFORE FOR A ROOM.

IT MAY be enough that slipcovers can change the color scheme and cool the room for summer, but that's far from all they can do. Do something new with the set of slipcovers about to come up. How about restyling the room from dressy to the smooth, crisp, and contemporary? How about changing the important furniture so much that it doesn't boss the decoration of the room around the way you don't want it anymore?

There had to be changes to make slipcovers capable of the new jobs they can do. There had to be a relief from florals and indifferent plain colors in fabrics that were limply unworthy of fine furniture. What was needed most was really interesting weaves and qualities that could take slipcover washing or cleaning, but which didn't shrink from association with a good permanent upholstery cover, which kept a piece of furniture up to its best styling standard.

AND THAT'S WHAT has happened. Top stylists have the slipcover fabric situation so well in hand now that the best of the fabrics introduce new weave ideas, come in colors that once belonged only to the most expensive materials, and make you want to slipcover furniture to make it look better than it did without them.

One new group of exceptional textured fabrics does all this in cotton that's vat-dyed, washable, pre-shrunk, spot and wrinkle-resistant and water repellent, while keeping the costs comfortable indeed. A single bold plaid and a check or two are exceptions—starting are wonderful textures in great variety.

It's those really interesting textures that will make new slipcovers do so much for the room. And they come in the same colors in a wide variety of types. The fancy fabric on the sofa can be subdued to a smooth tweed look while chairs are made to match it in color, but in another interesting texture. A plaid can be matched by a texture, a check may have texture very like another fabric that omits the check.

The favorite contemporary monotone scheme that makes small rooms look so much larger can be carried out with the furniture all in the same color, but with the fabrics not all monotonously alike. And colors include the hard-to-find best shades of favorites, fresh alive as well as deeper green, excellent rich browns and grays, lively clear blue, black, and white.

MAKE THE SLIPCOVERS as much like the original upholstery covers as possible. Even the flounce to the floor can be omitted if the slipcover is made so it can be laced together underneath the sofa or chair. And consider slipcovering pieces that have never been slipcovered before, the dining chairs, a bed that can be turned into a sofa bed with bolsters, find a piece of rubber to cover for a cushion that changes a table into a bench. With the fabric as nice as it is, changes can be made that once weren't thought of.

There's a piece of furniture at your house which would be twice as nice if the finish were beautiful. Send for Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet FURNITURE REFINISHING—HOW TO DO IT YOURSELF and learn how to bring out good looks you never knew your furniture had. Address Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch and inclose 15c in coin, please, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Dean Speaks Up

Race Relations at Washington U.

By Adele Starbird

A NEGRO girl has just been elected to an honorary fraternity at Washington University on the basis of her professional excellence. She also holds one of the top offices at McMillan Hall, the women's dormitory. Another Negro student was chosen for the Chimes, the junior women's honorary.

Adele Starbird

In all of these cases, the choice made by the other students was entirely spontaneous and voluntary. Color was not a factor, either for or against the candidate. She was chosen because they had found her congenial and capable. They liked and respected her. It was that simple.

Some people don't like things to be simple; they want to compound difficulties. They ask hypothetical questions, such as, "Would you force a white girl to room with a Negro girl?"

THE ANSWER to that is that we have never forced a white girl to room with another white girl. We make the room assignments with great care on the basis of information provided in the applications, taking into consideration religious preferences, sections of the country, similarity of background. If roommates find that they are unhappy together, we separate them as soon as a vacancy occurs.

One year a girl refused to accept as a roommate a girl of a different faith who was arriving after the session had started. Though the dormitory was entirely filled, we did not force the issue. We cleaned out a storeroom and made a bedroom for the newcomer. Toward the end of the year the first girl of her own accord expressed regret for her attitude. She had grown more tolerant because she had been left free.

Any two girls from the same year who want to room together may do so, whether Oriental, Negro or Caucasian. Nobody is coerced.

In the dining room they sit where they please. Fish is provided on fast days for Catholic girls, and Jewish or Muslim students who object to pork may have a substitute. As far as the university is concerned, racism and religions are respected.

THE SOCIAL SORORITIES are in a different category from professional groups. While few of them, I believe, actually have exclusion clauses in their national constitutions, I should be less than frank if I didn't recognize that in practice, and by tacit agreement, they are discriminatory.

A few years ago an Oriental girl went through Panhellenic rushing. She was really adorable and all the girls loved her. But no group could get the unanimous vote necessary to pledge her. In vain I begged the group to which I happen to belong to be the first to break down the barrier. I was disappointed and indignant at their lack of courage, their parochial attitude.

Still, even if I had had the power—which I do not have—to force the issue, I should have considered it wrong to do so. Changes of this sort must come from within if they are to have value. I believe they will come.

Enthusiasts who want to bring about such changes by administrative fiat do not realize that in the name of democracy they would destroy democracy.

Advice on Teen-Age Marriage

By Elinor Williams

DATES are the cause of doubts in today's mail ... and the question of a teen marriage, too. Is one of them your letter?

Q—"One of my best girl friends and a boy I know were going to a dance together. Now my friend has told him she isn't going with him. Do you think it would be all right to invite this boy myself? It's a girl-ask-boy dance."

A—Why not? This boy has no dance plans with your girl-friend and is apparently date-free, so it's your chance to invite him. Good luck.

Q—"I am 16 years old and I love a boy and I know he loves me. We plan to get married this summer. He is going into the Army. It seems that everybody has something to say about getting married at 16; they think that a person should wait until at least 20. What do you think?"

A—Most marriages are happier and last longer when the two partners are more mature than 16. It's also a good idea to finish high school before marriage for many sound reasons ... your own later satisfaction in having finished school and the practical fact that you're more able to get a job and support yourself if you ever need to.

Separation while he is in the Army and while you complete high school will be a good test of the way you two really feel about each other. Now is the perfect chance to see if you soon drift toward other dates and friendships, or if he is really THE ONE for you for life.

Why not be engaged or engaged-to-be engaged until you finish high school? You'll lose nothing and will gain so much.

International Pattern

YOUNG people continue to show a preference for the full pretty skirt, and this one by Elly Kriech with its side pleats centering in each of the box pleats promises to be a winner with the young set. The simple bodice has a wide neckline and is trimmed with bias contrast, a detail that is repeated on the front closing. This is an effective detail that is easy to handle since the custom cut pattern has open perforations for easy marking and accuracy.

For the sleeveless version choose linen, pique, novelty cotton, shantung or pongee with the trim in cotton plaid or an alternate color. The longer sleeved model will be wonderful in fall made up in faille, wool crepe or novelty wool with bands in satin or faille.

Pattern S-308. Size 13 requires 5 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for dress without sleeves and 7 1/2 of a yard of 36-inch material for contrast.

Potatoes With Cheese.
 Ingredients: Five medium-sized potatoes, two tablespoons butter or margarine, three tablespoons flour, two cups milk, salt and pepper, one-half cup grated cheddar cheese, one-half cup soft bread crumbs, one tablespoon butter or margarine, one-fourth teaspoon paprika.
 Method: Cook potatoes in skins in boiling salted water until tender; peel and dice; there should be three cups. Make a white sauce of the two tablespoons of butter, flour and milk. Mix with diced cooked potatoes; add salt and pepper to taste. Turn into one and one-half quart casserole; sprinkle with grated cheese. Mix bread crumbs with one tablespoon melted butter; sprinkle over cheese; dust with paprika. Bake in a hot (400 degree) oven until crumbs are lightly tipped with brown — about 20 minutes. Makes six servings.
